DAICHES MURDER PLOT TOLD

STEEL TO SPEND $15,000,000 ON GARY EXPANSION

Industries Migrate to Calumet Area.

MAKE CHICAGO THE FIRST CITY IN THE WORLD

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

A $15,000,000 expansion program for the tin and sheet mills at Gary is the chief item in an appropriation of $47,000,000 which the United States Steel corporation announced yesterday for improvement of its plants in various regions.

The new mills in Gary are conjectured to result from increased buying from the automotive industry. They form the largest single expansion program of the Steel corporation in the Calumet region of Illinois-Indiana since the start of the depression five years ago.

The expenditure of the $15,000,000, too, was interpreted last night as indication of the growing shift of manufacturing into the Calumet area, which is expected to take on large proportions when recovery speeds up.

How Money Will Be Spent.

The new $15,000,000 equipment at Gary is to be for the American Sheet and Tin Plate company, a subsidiary of United States Steel. A new hot mill for this company is to be started at a cost of $6,000,000.

The total for expansion in the sheet plant is $11,700,000, and in the tin works $3,300,000. The new equipment is expected to make the American Sheet and Tin Plate company's Gary sheet plant the largest in the United States. The tin mills are already rated the largest in America.

The improvement in the tin works will increase the annual gross tonnage at Gary of the United States Steel corporation from 300,000 to 380,000 tons of tinplate.

Occasion for Huge Outlay.

Not only demand from the automotive industry, but increased demand from the agricultural machinery industry, are among reasons given for the expansion. Reduction of costs by new processes is another. In the background also is a possible market for steel houses when recovery sets in strong.

The greatest reason of all is said to be the desire to get closer to the normally immense purchasing power of the middle west, at the continental cross-roads where by water and by land materials can be readily assembled and products can be distributed with unrivaled speed.

Other eastern companies have long been reported to have programs of shifting more activity to the heel of Lake Michigan. A few years ago the National Steel corporation announced it had bought a 1,000 acre tract on the lake shore near Gary, where it proposed to build a huge steel plant to cost between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000. This company is sixth largest producer of steel in the United States. Depression halted the program.

Real Estate Market Feels Trend.

Real estate dealers in industrial property report that for some time purchasers have been acquiring excellent factory sites here and there, and that rapid expansion seems to be waiting for the arrival of genuine recovery.

Automobile makers in Detroit now have regular truck systems for hauling sheets from Gary to their factories.

The Calumet-Sag terminal route of the Lakes to Gulf waterway, which is soon to be started on funds of $2,814,500 allotted by the Public Works administration, is expected to mean expansion of the Calumet region eventually into the world's largest manufacturing center.

New Cold Rolling Apparatus.

Included in the 15 million dollar United States Steel program at Gary will be the start of work on several new "four high" cold reduction mills in the sheet and tin plate plants. Metallurgists say this equipment rolls steel cold under enormous pressures, with an improved finish and in any length desired.

There are already two such mills in the sheet plant and the tin plate mill. Steel men explain that economy results from a reduction in man power under the new process.

Labor has protested against this development, officials of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers declaring that the new mills with a few operators can displace several hundred men in normal times. The steel officials contend that the labor displaced is offset by new employment in fabricating plants and elsewhere.

REYNOLDS, HEAD OF RELIEF, HIT BY STATE QUIZ

Change in Entire Setup Urged.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—In an eight hour session today the Illinois Emergency Relief commission listened to and answered criticisms leveled by members of the Illinois legislature. It was a field day for complaints.

Charges of mismanagement and favoritism in purchasing entered the discussion. Representative Richard J. Lyons [Rep., Libertyville] declared that "fake grocery orders were issued and cashed by commission employés, that coal was paid for but never delivered, and that lumber was purchased from the same firm in small lots to avoid the necessity of bids."

Lyons also produced what he declared was a commission order authorizing the purchase of $99 worth of relief coal in Belvidere, Ill., from a concern in which Omar H. Wright, vice president of the commission, is interested.

Says "Clients" Made Choice.

In reply Mr. Wright said that he is a minority stockholder in the company and that he assumed the order had been given a relief "client," or "clients" in the county, who exercised the right of deciding from which firm the coal should be bought. "I never heard of the matter," Wright said.

Robert J. Dunham of Chicago, chairman of the commisison, called Lyons' statement on Wright "a despicable attack upon an honorable man." The Lyons' charges in toto, Dunham said, had been presented to State's Attorney Courtney last summer. The grand jury returned no indictments.

The setting for the long inquisition had been enhanced earlier in the day by issuance of a report from a legislative committee which investigated the commission and declared relief costs were excessive, that case workers were arrogant, and that downstate counties should be divorced from Cook in the relief administration. The commission was headed by Senator Louis O. Williams [Dem., Clinton].

The inquiry began at 2 p. m., recessed at 6 o'clock, resumed at 8 o'clock, and extended until midnight.

Committees with Horner.

The night session proceeded without the aid of the executive committees of both houses. They were with Gov. Horner at the executive mansion considering a plan for permanent relief to meet the 36 million dollars demanded as the state's share of the relief burden by the FERA.

Lyons made his accusations while Wilfred S. Reynolds, secretary of the relief commission, was on the witness stand, but Chairman Dunham came to his rescue and accepted full responsibility for the conduct of the commission's business.

"Mr. Reynolds does not have charge of the business end," Dunham said quietly, "I shall take responsibility there."

Threatens Quiz by U. S.

Lyons replied with a threat to turn the evidence he had found over to United States Attorney Green in Chicago.

"You cannot turn them over to the United States attorney, or to the state's attorney, too quickly to suit the members of the commission," Dunham told him.

"I suggest that Mr. Lyons turn the evidence over immediately," the chairman continued, "so that whomever is guilty may be punished."

"No, the house wants to hear about it first," Lyons said: "Some one made money on false grocery orders."

"We have tried," Mr. Dunham replied, "to help the retail grocers who do not have credit with the wholesalers. But we found that some were taking advantage of the commission, so we changed the system to permit the clients to pick their own food."

Asks About Pay Roll Cuts.

Drennan J. Slater [Rep., Evanston] inquired why 800 employés of the commission had been taken off the pay roll the middle of last November. Mr. Dunham may have had an idea that this question was coming, for he read a prepared statement declaring that last summer it was decided to eliminate certain procedure in the work of the commission which made possible a reduction in personnel—15 per cent as of Dec. 1 and 10 per cent as of Dec. 15.

"So it wasn't just a coincidence that these people were let go a week after the November elections?" asked Slater. Mr. Dunham assured him it was not.

Come, My Man, What's Behind That Thicket?

For 42 years Carl L. Fiedler, stormy petrel of Chicago Heights politics, has never trimmed his beard. He is 65 years old and boasts that no razor has touched his face since he was 23 years old.

Sometime ago Fiedler announced his candidacy for commissioner of Chicago Heights. His opponent is Frank De Bolt, a present commissioner. The two men have been foes since a night some years ago when De Bolt ejected Feidler from a meeting.

What's This Whispering?

As the campaign grew more bitter a whisper got around the Heights that the luxuriant Fiedler beard had been brought to fruition, not through sheer pride in a worthwhile amateur performance, but as a disguise. Fiedler had fled the old country, said the rumor bearers.

Fiedler answered the whispering campaign in a mimeographed publication devoted to furthering his campaign. If his opponent would donate $25 to charity, Mr. Fiedler said, he would allow a barber to shave his long cherished beard.

De Bolt countered with an offer to pay $12.50 to see the beard half removed by barber or barbers. The challenge was accepted and judges were chosen to make arrangements.

Hour and Chair Are Chosen.

August I. Zeller, police magistrate, acting for De Bolt, and Carl McGehee, Zeller's election opponent and representative of Fiedler, met for the posting of the guarantee. It was agreed that at 10 o'clock this morning a barber would remove half of Fiedler's facial underbrush with razor, shears, rod or gun, as he saw fit.

Barbers, hearing of the agreement, scurried to cover, and it was necessary to conscript one of them to do the job. He is William Champagne, who has a shop at 1658 Chicago road in the suburb.

Champagne has agreed to meet the test of his career. Only one detail remains to be decided. That is which side of the Fiedler face is to be bared.

Skunk Caught in a Can; Upsets an Esthetic Town

State College, Pa., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Borough officials were in a furor today. The cause: a skunk with its head caught in a tin can in a vacant lot. Some one called the borough offices. The police turned down the job. So did the street department. Finally Jim Showers, a trapper, eased the skunk—can and all—into a sack and took it home for disposal.

BUYS LOTTERY TICKET FOR 25C TO USE IN COURT; IT WINS $125

For the 25 cents the detective paid, the ticket wins him $125—but:

The Negro who sold the ticket also, under the lottery system here, is the only one who can get the pay off on that particular ticket from headquarters.

And if the ticket is turned in for collection it's gone as evidence.

And besides, the detective said, "You can hardly collect $125 from a man and then throw him in jail for paying you."

YALE'S ALPHA DELTA PHI, 98 YEARS OLD, QUITS

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Alpha Delta Phi, oldest of the Greek letter fraternities at Yale, tonight voted formally to dissolve the deed of trust under which it has been continuing and abandon the charter, which is 98 years old. This action was taken by the undergraduate members and the alumni trustees.

The action came as no surprise, as the fraternity announced in October it would initiate no new members.

The executive council of the fraternity at that time issued a statement in New York saying that "in view of the development at Yale of the college unit as a method of organization for the social and cultural life of the undergraduates the eventual disappearance of undergraduate fraternities in that institution seems certain."

The Yale chapter of Alpha Delta Phi originated in 1836, surrendered its charter in 1878, and again was revived in 1888. Among its members are Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago; Thornton Wilder, author; Stephen Vincent Benet, the poet, and Philip Barry, playwright.

COTTON GOODS WORKERS PLAN STRIKE TODAY

Members of the Cotton Goods Workers' union, a branch of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union, are to go on strike this morning, according to an announcement made by the union officials at midnight. It was claimed that the strike will tie up 29 plants in the Chicago area having 10,000 workers.

Demands of the union include recognition of its organization, a $16 minimum instead of the present $13, and a 15 per cent increase for cutters.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Emerging from a conference with President Roosevelt at the White House today, Chairman John J. McSwain [Dem., S. C.], of the house military affairs committee, announced that he favored a new army air program calling for 4,000 airplanes.

REP. J. J. McSWAIN.

McSwain declined to comment on the President's reaction to the plan. He explained that the present five year program is now four years behind in aircraft building and stated that the army has only 1,500 planes, 700 of which "cannot get off the ground and fly back."

Discuss Private Bidding.

The conference, McSwain said, hinged about the procurement of airplanes by private bidding, which was recommended by the federal aviation commission headed by Clark Howell.

"I am bitterly opposed to procurement of airplanes by private negotiation," said McSwain. "It means nothing but secret negotiation and that invitably leads to corruption."

Shortly afterward the war department appropriation bill was introduced in the house. The bill proposes a total of 378 million dollars for the war department during the next fiscal year, an increase of 49 million. The increase is partially due to the restoration of the 5 per cent pay cut.

Up to President.

A unique feature of the bill in its present form is that it would be left to the President to decide whether he would add 46,250 men to the standing army and 5,000 men to the national guard with corresponding increases in expenditures. The army has asked that the forces be augmented.

Other proposals contained in the measure are as follows:

Increased facilities and equipment for national guard.

Fourteen day training for 20,000 instead of 16,000 reserve officers.

ROTC students to have 42 days at camp.

Resumption of national rifle matches.

Air corps would be allowed to order 97 more planes than would be possible under the budget estimates.

Shoot Driver, Dump Trucks in Coal Strike

A shooting and many acts of lesser violence yesterday marked the second day of the strike called by the Chicago Teamsters, Chauffeurs and Helpers' union, local 704, against coal merchants of the city.

James Duncan, 38 years old, 811 South State street, a driver for the Yards Coal company, 441 West 33d street, was shot twice yesterday by one of four men who dumped his ten ton load of coal in front of 2937 South Canal street. He was taken to the People's hospital with a bullet wound in the right thigh and another in the left leg.

The shooting followed other attacks on coal drivers in different parts of the city.

Police Furloughs Canceled.

Although Police Commissioner Allman canceled the furloughs of all policemen and ordered the entire force to stand ready for emergency call, automobiles filled with armed hoodlums ranged the streets, terrorizing drivers and dumping coal.

Commissioner Allman called a meeting at the detective bureau of all supervising captains and plans were mapped to combat the gangsters.

After the meeting it was announced that 100 squad cars would be held in reserve for strike duty. These will convoy trucks with coal for institutions and public buildings, and will be available on request for regular deliveries. Regular squads are to make periodical tours past coal yards in their areas. The men's days off have been changed to Sunday, when coal yard business is suspended.

The depredations of the hoodlums, however, caused only minor interruption in the delivery of the city's coal supply, police said. Belief was expressed that the acts of terrorism were the work of only a few men.

Estimates of Drivers Vary.

Milton Booth Jr., head of the striking union, placed its membership at more than 1,600 and said that all but 11 had voted to strike to force an increase of wages from $6 to $7 a day. He branded as "malicious falsehood" the charge that the striking union is responsible for the violence.

A different calculation of the number of men on strike was given by J. R. Bray, secretary treasurer of the Coal Teamsters and Handlers' union, local 704, Federation of Labor affiliate.

"We have nearly 5,000 members," Bray said. "We have 90 per cent of the drivers under contract, and have agreements with a large majority of the dealers. Few of our men have joined the strike."

Police efforts to avert serious violence included the posting of guards at the yards of all the coal dealers affected. In some instances uniformed policemen were detailed to accompany drivers on their delivery trips. Nevertheless the hoodlums escaped detection throughout the day.

Night Guard for Yards.

Police Captain Ira McDowell, chief of the uniformed division, indicated he would post extra police at the coal yards during the night to guard against bombings and other damage. He estimated that there would be more than 2,000 extra men available.

One of the casualties of the day was the injury of Policeman George Crossoli of the Racine avenue station when the squad car in which he was riding crashed as it was speeding in pursuit of an automobile load of hoodlum suspects. The accident occurred at Keenon and Paulina streets.

DEATH ORDERED BY WEITZMAN, ASSERTS KILLER

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

Five hours of incessant cross-examination yesterday failed to shake the story of a cold blooded murder told to a jury in Judge Harry B. Miller's Criminal court by Walter McManamon, alias Walter Murphy, 30 year old confessed killer, robber and bootlegger. He appeared as the state's chief witness against Irving Weitzman, owner of a chain of south side bakeries, who is on trial charged with inspiring the murder last March 3 of Eli Daiches, wealthy advertising executive.

In contrast to Arthur Emblen, who on Monday surprised the prosecution by refusing to be a state's witness, Murphy spared no details in relating the brutal murder plot. He blamed the actual killing on Jerry Pilot, an alcohol peddler, since slain, although frankly admitting that he, as Weitzman's agent, hired Pilot and directed the killing at 53d street and the Outer drive.

Shows No Remorse.

Murphy, who for the first time publicly revealed McManamon as his correct name, showed no sign of remorse as he told in a low conversational tone the details of the alleged plot, which had as its motive the collection of $311,000 worth of insurance on Daiches' life. Daiches was president of the Thomas M. Bowers Advertising agency, 304 South Wabash avenue, and Louis Weitzman, brother of the defendant, was chairman of the board. The insurance was payable to the company.

The witness, dressed in a blue serge suit, is 5 feet 9 inches tall, has black hair inclined to be wavy. He smirked as he related his story, in language which was frequently interspersed with gangland phrases. If he could answer the questions by the affrmative or negative he did so and talked no more than was necessary. Observers said he did not look the part of the versatile criminal which he admitted himself to be under cross-examination of Defense Attorneys James M. Burke and Harold Levy.

Weitzman's Story Today.

It was agreed by opposing attorneys that the trial would develop into a question of whether the jury, qualified for the death penalty, will believe the confessed criminal or the story to be told today by Weitzman.

The state, which late in the afternoon started to corroborate the story told by Murphy, is expected to close its case this morning. At the time this corroborating evidence was introduced it was revealed that an investigation is being conducted in connection with an alleged attempt to bribe Thomas Kelly, a cigar store owner at 4200 Drexel boulevard.

Kelly, who testified he wired $200 to Murphy in Miami, Fla., under the name of Thomas Lynch at the request of Weitzman, said he was approached Monday night by an unnamed man who asked him not to testify. Kelly's testimony corroborated Murphy's story in one detail.

Paid $16,000 for "Job."

Murphy's story, as told on direct examination, was that he and Jack London, fugitive gambling house guard, were hired by Weitzman to kill Daiches so that the advertising agency could collect the insurance money. They were paid $16,000 and were to have received an additional $9,000, he said.

The witness said he subsequently hired Pilot to do the job and that the latter reached the death scene with an unknown companion, who fired two charges from a sawed off shotgun at Daiches while the latter sat in his automobile which had been stopped at a trafic light. The unnamed killer also fired shots from a revolver, Murphy said. For this Pilot and his companions received $3,000, he added.

Murphy denied that he himself had murdered Pilot to silence him and also denied that he had shot and killed several other south side gangsters, including Joseph Marzula and Dave Toner, who was murdered while leaving the wake held for Pilot. He denied that he himself had murdered Daiches and was placing the blame on a dead man to save himself.

On cross-examination the defense attorneys tried to demonstrate to the jury that Murphy did not know Pilot and could not describe him. He admitted frankly that he was a murderer and criminal, and had not worked for 10 years. He admitted also that he would not hesitate to commit perjury to save himself, but he insisted that the story he was telling on the stand was the absolute truth.

When Murphy took the stand for direct examination yesterday he disclosed his real name and said he is living at the Oak Park Arms hotel with his wife under police guard. He then plunged into the details of the murder plot and pointed out Weitzman when requested to do so by Assistant State's Attorney Emmett Moynihan.

Murphy said he and London first met Weitzman in August, 1933, when they were employed by the defendant to straighten out some labor trouble. The first meeting regarding the death plot was described as follows:

Q.—When did you first talk to Weitzman about this case? A.—In September, 1933.

$5,000 Offer Accepted.

Q.—What was the conversation? A.—Weitzman said he wanted a man killed and asked if we would take the job. We asked who the man was and he said a man in business with his brother. He asked if we would take $5,000 for the job and we said O. K.

Weitzman agreed to pay $2,000 down and the remainder when the job was completed, Murphy testified. He also agreed to point the victim out to London. The first payment was made about a week later in Phil Schmidt's fish house at the Illinois-Indiana line. This was $1,000 in $10 and $20 bills.

Q.—What was said at that meeting? A.—Weitzman asked me if I saw the man and I told him London pointed him out to me.

Q.—Who was that man? A.—Ell Daiches.

Q.—When did you next see Weitzman and what was said? A.—It was about two or three weeks later in the bakery. He wanted to know why we didn't accomplish the job. We told him it was a little tough because Daiches did not go out of the loop much.

The witness then described how he and London were arrested in the loop while shadowing Daiches. They later were arrested on the south side with Emblen while making plans for the murder.

Q.—What was said when you first met Emblen? A.—Weitzman said he was the fellow who beat him up before. He said, "He is all right and will go along; he knows all Daiches' habits." He also said Emblen had a room rented at 46 East Oak street, across from where Daiches frequently visited.

Q.—Did you do anything about that room? A.—Yes, Emblen called me up and said Daiches was in the place across from the room. We waited until 1 o'clock, but he did not come out.

Daiches Slips Net Again.

Murphy told of how the plot failed in Chicago and of Daiches finally leaving for Florida in January, 1934. He described being sent to Florida as follows:

"Weitzman said that Daiches was going to take a trip to Florida and wanted us to go down there and take care of the matter. He said his brother had Daiches insured for $250,000. He said if we did the job in Florida it would take the heat off the Chicago connections. He gave us $1,000 for expenses."

Murphy told of a code arranged between himself and Weitzman to keep track of Daiches in Florida. The witness said he and London trailed Daiches around Miami, but could not get an opportunity to kill him.

Weitzman finally came to Florida, he said.

Q.—Did you see Weitzman in Miami? A.—Yes, he wanted to know why we did not take care of the matter. We told him it was too hard to get Daiches alone. He said: "We've got to get him now because I am running out of money and my brother is broke, too." He said we already had used up $3,200 without showing any action.

The witness then told of returning to Chicago and meeting Weitzman in February, 1934.

Q.—What was said at that meeting? A.—He said to us, "You fellows are not giving me any action for my dough." He said he decided to raise the ante and that he would call off the $3,200 he had already paid us and call it expenses. He said he would pay us $5,000 more and a bonus of $1,000 if we did the job right away.

Tells Insurance Angle.

Q.—Was anything else said at that time? A.—Yes, he said he and his brother were broke. He said he wanted the job done and we should have no trouble because he had sold Daiches his car and sent a chauffeur to drive him. It would be easy to follow, he said.

Q.—To refresh your memory, was anything said about insurance? A.—Yes. He said some premiums were due on the policies and he did not want to pay them if he could help it.

The witness at this point told of subletting the job to Jerry Pilot, the deceased alcohol peddler.

Q.—Tell us about meeting Pilot. A.—I met him at 50th street and Ashland avenue. I asked him if he wanted a job to knock off a fellow. He asked how much was in it and I said $3,000. He asked if it was another McSwiggin job [referring to the assassination nine years ago of Assistant State's Attorney William McSwiggin in Cicero]. I said it was a business man and we wanted it done as soon as possible. He said he would take the job and try to do it the next day.

The witness then told of arranging for the death trap March 3 and of Pilot and an unknown pal waiting at 53d street and the outer drive.

WOMAN WARDEN, REPLACED, WILL DEFY GOVERNOR

Wholesale Break of 32 Leads to Ouster.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Informed of her removal as warden of the state reformatory at Granite, where a wholesale break occurred Sunday, Mrs. George A. [Mother] Waters, 45, the nation's only woman head of a male penal institution, today refused to leave her job until she had been vindicated.

She said she intended to remain until a complete investigation has been made by the state senate of charges of cruelty, mismanagement and inefficiency recently inquired into.

Sherif Is Appointed.

The appointment of Sherif Fred Hunt of Tishomingo as her successor followed close upon the declaration of Gov. E. W. Marland that "a warden's job is no place for a woman because a woman just can't manage it." The appointment was later confirmed by the senate.

"From what the state board of affairs tells me," said the governor, "there is a bad moral condition down there. A lot of it is unprintable."

Mrs. Waters, referred to as "Mother" and the inmates as "her boys," instituted a "rule of kindness" when she became warden at the reformatory in 1927, following the death of her husband who had held that position. Insisting that respect be shown women, she taught the inmates to doff their hats in her presence and banned all lewd and risque inscriptions upon the walls.

Praised by Convicts.

However, a number of the 32 convicts who shot their way to freedom Sunday had recently signed a petition asking that she be retained and praising her administration. She lamented the unmannerly way they went back on her.

Eighteen of the fugitives were still at large today while posses hunted them by airplane, motor car, and horseback. Nine of the 14 recaptured were wounded by gunfire.

Only one has been captured since the flight of 18 inmates was halted within a short time after the break.

MURDER TRIAL OF CHASE SET FOR MARCH 18

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan yesterday set March 18 for the trial of John Paul Chase on charges of slaying Federal Agents Samuel P. Cowley and Herman E. Hollis in a gun battle in Barrington last Nov. 27. Chase was with George [Baby Face] Nelson, who was mortally wounded in the fight.

A motion to quash the indictment, made by Attorney William B. Henry, was overruled by Judge Sullivan. The judge ruled with Assistant United States Attorney James C. Leaton that congress was within its legal rights in passing the law making it a federal offense punishable by death to kill a government agent in performance of his duty.

Chase entered a plea of not guilty through a second defense attorney, W. W. O'Brien.

Heart Stopped for Three Minutes, but She Lives

Omaha, Neb., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Through direct injection of adrenalin into the heart with a long needle, Mrs. Lee Miedswicki, 28, was alive today at an Omaha hospital. During an operation yesterday while she was under an anesthetic her heart stopped beating for three minutes and her respiration ceased for 10 minutes, hospital authorities said.

COVINGTON IRKS CHICAGO'S MINT JULEP COLONELS

Kentucky Crime-Politics Astonishes Them.

The recent difficulties of Canadian prosecutors with the local authorities at Covington, Ky., in the trial of David Meisner for the kidnaping of John S. Labatt, London, Ont., brewer, and in the effort to extradite Kingdon Peter Murray for the same crime provoked discussion yesterday among the Kentucky colonels in Chicago. More than 250 men and women of this city have been named to colonelcies on the staf of Gov. Ruby Laffoon of Kentucky during the last three years.

Several of these honorary colonels—"soldiers without portfolio," as several of them described their status in interviews—expressed astonishment at the attitude of the Covington courts and police and the revelation of the widespread gambling and crime in that politically run community.

Meisner Convicted of Kidnaping.

Meisner, whose home is in Covington, was convicted a few weeks ago at London of the kidnaping of Labatt for $25,000 ransom last Aug. 24, and was sentenced to 15 years in prison. He had waived extradition to return to London for trial and two Covington detectives accompanied him as alibi witnesses. Court had been recessed for the day before their cross-examination was completed and in the dark of night the two sleuths hurried back to Covington.

It was only after prolonged hearings before a federal commissioner at Covington, during which Murray was practically tried for the kidnaping, that he was finally sent to jail there last Saturday to await extradition to Canada.

With the extradition of Murray, Covington is giving up one of the gang of gamblers, holdup men, and killers who has sought refuge in the Ohio valley community under the leniency of an easy going political machine and an apathetic citizenry.

Attorney Here Is Critical.

Benjamin Landis, attorney with offices at 133 North La Salle street, a former assistant United States attorney, who is on the ever expanding list of Kentucky colonels, said yesterday that he could never give moral support to a state with such conditions.

"I don't believe Gov. Laffoon knows how bad things are," Attorney Landis declared, "and I feel he will remedy the situation in the near future. But I will not hesitate to tender my resignation if the situation continues."

Another Kentucky colonel here, Arthur S. Lytton, an attorney at 134 North La Salle street, said the conditions in Kentucky are not attributable to Gov. Laffoon or any one man.

"But, of course, if he's an unfit person I wouldn't want to be on his staf in any capacity," Lytton asserted.

Many of the other colonels in Chicago indicated that they never regarded their commissions seriously, considering them as documents "that would let you ride on a street car if you had the seven cents fare."

"I don't know anything about it," said Ald. Matthias F. [Paddy] Bauler [43d]. "Some one sent me one of those things with a big seal on it, but that doesn't make me a colonel, does it?"

"I received my colonel's commission by mail a year ago," said Judge William J. Lindsay of the Superior court, "and I'm not sure yet just why I got it."

"Do you intend to return it?" he was asked.

"It's not worth the three cents to mail it back," he replied. "We Kentucky colonels are as common as mint julep on the veranda at sundown."

WIDOW ASKS $10,000 FROM RUM SELLERS FOR DEATH OF MATE

Benton, Ill., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Mrs. Maude Garrison of McLeansboro sued today, through her attorney, Robert Smith, Benton, for $10,000 from eight residents of that place, under dram shop act. She charges them with being responsible for the death of her husband, Charles Garrison, Dec. 20.

Following an auto wreck, Garrison was locked in jail on charges of drunkenness. He was found dead next morning by Sherif Malone. While the coroner's jury verdict was suicide, Mrs. Garrison contends that injuries caused his death.

Her suit is brought in the Hamilton county Circuit court.

BAIATA PLEADS GUILTY; SWEAR IN BARRY JURY

CRIMINAL COURT.

A jury was completed yesterday before Judge Michael Feinberg of the Criminal court to try Dave [Long Count] Barry, who refereed the second Dempsey-Tunney fight, and Abraham Karatz, former St. Paul attorney, for the alleged plot to embezzle $55,000 from the Amalgamated Trust and Savings bank, 111 West Jackson boulevard.

Before jury selection began, Joseph Baiata, alleged leader of the plot, pleaded guilty to the charge. A fourth defendant, Otto Van Derck, 23 years old, former teller in the bank, was granted a separate trial and is expected to testify for the state against Barry and Karatz.

The prosecution charged that Baiata worked out the details of a plot to use embezzled money to purchase the Abraham Lincoln Life Insurance company of Springfield. The conspirators, according to the state, planned to load the portfolio of the insurance company with stolen bonds.

During the questioning of veniremen, Defense Attorney George Guenther asked Robert Bender, 1617 North Keeler avenue, if he held any opinion that would prevent his being a fair juror.

"Only my opinion of the long count that Barry gave Gene Tunney," Bender answered, and was dismissed.

Baiata, who has refused offers of legal counsel, announced his desire to plead guilty in a conference in Judge Feinberg's chambers.

"Have you been promised leniency or reward?" Judge Feinberg asked.

"No," replied Baiata, who is an ex-convict. "I'll take any punishment meted out to me."

He was warned that he faced a penalty of one to ten years in the penitentiary, and that he was entitled to a jury trial. Baiata still persisted in his announced desire and the plea of guilty was entered.

PRESIDENT SEES GOLD RULING AS RECOVERY SPUR

Expects Rapid Upturn in Business.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[Special.] — President Roosevelt, it was learned tonight, looks upon the Supreme court decision in the gold clause cases as a powerful spur to recovery.

The decision, in the President's opinion, dissipates such uncertainty as was causing business men to withhold commitments and generally to mark time pending the resolution of doubts regarding the monetary system.

Now that the Supreme court has emphasized the complete power of congress to determine the monetary system, now that it has been established that the 59 cent dollar stands, and now that the government and private corporations have been definitly relieved of the potential 69 billion dollar burden entailed by the gold payment clauses, the President believes that business will forge ahead with renewed confidence.

Will Ask NRA Extension.

Mr. Roosevelt is described by his intimates as taking fresh courage himself from the Supreme court's decision to push forward his New Deal program with redoubled vigor. He expects to send a message to congress tomorrow proposing a two year extension of the NRA along somewhat modified lines. In addition to the 5 billion dollar work relief bill and the social security legislation he will press for the reorganization of the banking system and the outlawing of public utility holding companies.

The inflationists also have been encouraged by the Supreme court's declaration that congress possesses full power to fix the medium of exchange. They rallied today behind an amendment to the work relief bill in the senate introduced by Senator Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla], which would reduce the value of the dollar still further through the issuance of silver money.

Under the terms of his amendment the price of silver would be raised to $1.29 an ounce at which time the free and unlimited coinage of silver would be initiated. Silver certificates would be issued against the 400 million ounces of silver in the treasury on the basis of $1.29 cents an ounce. This silver costs 50 cents an ounce and currency has been issued against it on the cost basis.

Forces Out Certificates

The federal reserve banks also would be required to issue 100 million dollars of silver certificates now in their possession. Purchases of silver by the treasury also would be greatly increased in volume. Payment for such silver would be made in silver certificates or gold and silver certificates would be issued against it on the $1.29 an ounce basis. Settlement of international balances in silver also would be permitted.

Senator Thomas said that the volume of new money would not exceed 1 billion dollars. The dollar would be cheapened and the price of silver enhanced.

"The dollar," said Senator Thomas, "is now worth $1.26, based on the 1926 price level. What we aim to do is to take out that extra 26 cents."

Fear Possible Damage Claims.

Official and unofficial circles buzzed today with the possibility that the Supreme court, unless blocked by new legislation, might later allow holders of treasury gold bonds to recover damages for the loss in purchasing power which they may have sustained because of the treasury's refusal to pay the gold bonds in anything but devalued paper currency.

Retail prices, for instance, as measured by the labor department index, have risen from 104.5 to 119.8 per cent of normal since the gold dollar was devaluated. Wholesale price indices have risen from 71 to 79.1 during this same period. These price rises mean a corresponding loss in the purchasing power of the dollar.

If the holders of treasury gold bonds could demonstrate that this loss in the purchasing power of their money was due to the government's gold policy, the Supreme court might allow the bondholder to collect damages against the government equal to the loss, according to the interpretation placed in yesterday's Liberty bond decision by many lawyers.

They point to the sentence in the decision which reads:

"And in view of the control of export and foreign exchange, and the restricted domestic use, the value in relation to transactions legally available to the plaintif would require a consideration of the purchasing power of the dollars which the plaintif has received."

Despite subsequent remarks in the decision about the parity of all currency, this sentence is believed by lawyers both inside and outside of the government to leave the door open for government gold bond holders to show that they suffered a loss in purchasing power because of the government's repudiation of its gold promise. The bondholders could then collect damages of that amount from the government unless new legislation blocks their claims, observers believe.

To make their claims stand up in court, the bondholders, officials point out, would have to determine conclusively that the loss of purchasing power resulted from the gold devaluation and the government's refusal to pay in dollars of the old gold content. This proof would be so difficult, many government lawyers believe, that to construct a sound court case against the government would be almost impossible. They believe special legislation to block these claims may not, therefore, be necessary.

Gold Lags Behind Dollar.

Official statistics show, on the other hand, that while the purchasing power of the dollar declined rapidly, as revealed by the wholesale and retail price indices given above, the purchasing power of gold did not decline equally.

Since 1932, for instance, the price of cotton has risen only from 7 to 8 cents per pound in terms of gold, whereas cotton prices in terms of the devalued dollar have jumped to 12½ cents, showing that there was a larger loss in the purchasing power of the dollar than in the purchasing power of gold.

STERILIZATION BILL IS FILED IN N. Y. ASSEMBLY

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Sterilization of mentally defective New Yorkers is proposed in a bill introduced in the legislature today.

Senator Martin W. Deyo of Binghamton and Assemblyman E. Ogden Bush of Walton, Republicans, said in introducing the bill that its purpose is to prevent "race degeneration."

The Deyo-Bush legislation is the first recent attempt to restore a sterilization law to the New York statutes. Such a law was passed in 1912, but was held unconstitutional in 1918. Fifty patients were treated.

Delaware Bill in Senate.

Dover, Del., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Compulsory sterilization of mental defectives as well as habitual criminals in Delaware was asked of the general assembly today. A bill empowering the state board of charities to take into custody all persons adjudged feeble minded, epileptic, or chronically or recurrently insane and have the sterilization performed was introduced by Senator Norris N. Wright of Newark. The state law now provides for sterilization of defectives, but it contains no enforcing power.

YOUNG MOTORIST FOUND GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

James Cermak, 22 years old, of La Grange, a nephew of the late Mayor A. J. Cermak, was found guilty of manslaughter last night by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Walter P. Steffen. A motion for a new trial will be argued Feb. 27.

The case involved the death of Leroy Susanka, 22 years old, 3720 South Home avenue, Berwyn, who was fatally injured Feb. 7, 1934, when he was struck by James Cermak's automobile.

According to Assistant State's Attorneys John J. Phillips and Robert Donigan, Susanka was employed in a gasoline station at Home and Ogden avenues, Berwyn. On the night of the accident a motorist had asked Susanka to push his car, which was stalled at Wenonah and Ogden avenues. Susanka was doing this when Cermak's car struck him.

Witnesses Tell of Speeding.

Witnesses testified that Cermak was speeding and was intoxicated. He and Robert Eggert of La Grange, his companion, said they had only had two glasses of beer and could not see because of a frosted windshield.

The trial was Cermak's third. In the first one Judge Harry B. Miller found him guilty, but granted a new trial. In the second hearing a jury disagreed.

Miss Anna Galanek, 20 years old, 5333 West 25th place, Cicero, died yesterday in the Frances Willard hospital of injuries incurred Sunday night when the automobile in which she was riding with three other persons plunged over the curb and into an iron fence at Roosevelt road and 54th avenue, Cicero.

County's Toll Up to 117.

The death of Miss Galanek brought the Cook county motor toll for 1935 to 117. Up to 4 p. m. yesterday there had been 97 automobile deaths within the city limits since Jan. 1, and the number of injured totaled 1,921.

A "clock of death," similar to that printed each day in THE TRIBUNE, was presented yesterday for use in the South State street trafic court presided over by Judge John Gutknecht. The clock, which has hands pointing to the number of dead and injured in automobile accidents in Chicago since the first of the year, was donated by the Illinois Automobile club. A map of Chicago, with pins showing the location of fatal accidents, also was presented to the court by the automobile club. Mayor Kelly, who was present, pledged himself to work for the addition of 2,500 police to Chicago's force to make Chicago a safer place in which to live.

"PANTS BANDITS" DISROBE 2 AND FLEE WITH $235

The latest foray of the pants bandits who have been operating in the loop for two months occurred yesterday in the Eastern Air Lines office at 131 West Monroe street. James Stuart, 28 years old, of the Midland Athletic club, 172 West Adams street, the manager, and his assistant, E. Stanton Brown, 26 years old, 8117 Ingleside avenue, were shoved into a rear room by one robber while his confederate scooped $235 from a cash drawer. The men then took their victims' trousers and shoes and locked them in a floor safe before strolling outside.

GRAFTS MUSCLE TO MAN'S HEART; PATIENT GAINING

Cleveland, O., Feb. 19.—(AP)—The first human patient to undergo a heart operation for the relief of angina pectoris was making an increasingly rapid improvement tonight, doctors at Lakeside hospital said. Dr. R. H. Bishop, superintendent of the hospital, said a gain was noted ever since the operation was performed there last Wednesday by Dr. Claude S. Beck of that hospital staf.

The patient's name was withheld. He still is kept under the influence of narcotics much of the time, Dr. Bishop asserted, but appears well started on the road to recovery.

Dr. Beck's operation consisted of cutting one end of the pectoral muscle on the chest and fastening the severed end against the wall of the heart.

Through that connection Dr. Beck expects the heart, by absorption, will receive a supply of blood to supplement the natural supply which had been reduced to a dangerous point by hardening of the coronary arteries.

It was the reduction of the blood supply to the heart muscles which was the primary cause of the patient's disease, one of the most serious maladies known to medical science.

Toman Cleaning House; Washing County Building

A crew of twenty workmen last night gave the marble base of the county building a scrubbing, the first in years. The cleaning was done by order of Sherif John Toman. The half of the building occupied by the city hall was left in its dingy state.

Dr. Harris Named President Emeritus of Henrotin

2 YOUNG WOMEN FINED FOR PART IN AUTO MISHAP

Two young women who were in an automobile that was involved in a collision near Highland Park on Jan. 30 pleaded guilty yesterday to disorderly conduct before Justice of the Peace Michael J. Haney of Waukegan and were fined a total of $125.

Miss Ruth Riley, 22 years old, driver of the car, who said she resided in the 2800 block of Wilcox street, Chicago, was fined $100, and Miss Shirley Jordon, 19 years old, 1659 Division street, $25. Both were injured in the accident and had been charged with driving while intoxicated, reckless driving, and passing a stop sign. These charges were dismissed and lesser ones substituted when Arthur Abraham of Sheboygan, Wis., driver of the truck which was struck by the car, failed to appear to prosecute. The young women paid their fines and were released.

SENATORS FEAR "WHITEWASH" ON BRITISH ARMS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Fear of a "whitewash" of British munition makers was expressed freely today by members of the senate munitions committee following Prime Minister MacDonald's announcement of the terms on which a British investigation would be conducted.

While these fears were mingled with gratification that an "entering wedge" had been found and that the American example was being followed at least to some extent, senators voiced surprise and disappointment at the announcement that witnesses would not be sworn and that the British government would reserve the right to withhold from the commission any documents it chose.

A defense of the navy department was presented to the senate committee today by Homer L. Ferguson, president of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock company, who declared that no responsible navy official "ever told me" that certain shipbuilding jobs in the 1933 program would "go to certain yards."

BILL FOR LOWER COLLECTOR BOND PASSED BY HOUSE

Lost Measure Resembles Policies of NRA.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Bonds of county collectors, insuring against the loss or theft of public funds in their custody, would be reduced considerably under a bill passed by the house today. The bill was sent to the senate for approval.

The bond would be reduced from 10 to 5 per cent of the largest amount of taxes collected in any one year during the preceding three. The amount of the bond would only need to equal the largest amount, estimated by the county board, as in the collector's custody at any one time. The present requirement is 1½ times that estimated amount.

Cite Reasons for Bill.

The reduction was urged as necessary by the bill's introducers, Representatives John M. Peffers [Rep., Aurora], John F. Petit [Dem., Batavia] and Frank A. McCarthy [Rep., Elgin]. They said many of Illinois' county treasurers have been unable to qualify as collectors due to "excessive" costs of obtaining surety bonds.

The house also passed senate bill 103, introduced by Senator Carl Behrman [Dem., Peoria]. That would permit the submission to the voters of a proposition for a tax of one fourth of a mill on the dollar for recreational and community center purposes.

Some Other House Bills.

Among the new bills introduced in the house today were the following:

By James P. Boyle [Dem., Chicago]—Providing that existing civil service lists of the various park districts consolidated into the Chicago Park district would be continued, to be used by superintendent of employment for filling vacancies. Those employed from these lists only would be appointed to positions, the duties of which are confined to the area that bounded that former park district.

By David Hunter Jr. [Rep., Rockford]—Providing an appropriation of $10,000,000 to employ relief persons on hard roads in various counties.

By Hugh M. Rigney [Dem., Arthur]—Making it necessary for any person elected as a county judge to be a duly licensed attorney.

By William J. Warfield [Rep., Chicago]—To prohibit manufacture, sale and distribution of punch boards.

START CLEARING SITE FOR NEW LIFT SPAN ON TORRENCE AVENUE

Preparations to replace the ancient Torrence avenue pontoon bridge over the Calumet river at 124th street were begun yesterday. Construction of a modern vertical lift span is the first step in a broad plan to develop the Calumet region into major industrial area.

The work begun yesterday was the moving aside of the pontoon bridge to permit erection of the new one. Start of the construction, which will cost an estimated $1,100,000, awaits the approval by the federal Public Works administration of Mayor Kelly's application for a $300,000 grant. Chicago's share of the gasoline tax will complete the financing.

Benefits of the newest phase of the Calumet development were outlined yesterday by Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, who supervised the driving of the first pile.

"It is a tribute to Mayor Kelly's courage," he said, "that work on this bridge has begun. Few mayors would start so immense a construction project without knowing for a certainty that all the necessary money is available, but the mayor has an abiding faith in the district's future."

FORMER CHICAGO WOMAN MISSING; FEAR KIDNAPING

Omaha, Neb., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Lloyd Skinner, president of an Omaha manufacturing company, tonight awaited developments after enlisting the aid of the department of justice in locating his wife who left early yesterday to drive to the home of her mother in Kansas City, Kas.

After more than 30 hours had elapsed since Mrs. Skinner departed, Skinner expressed fear she had been kidnaped.

Mrs. Skinner was the former Frances Peck of Chicago. Her mother is Mrs. Frances A. Peck.

Mrs. Skinner was wearing a $4,000 diamond ring and had $25 in her purse, the husband said.

The Skinners were married at Waukegan, Ill., in 1933, five days after Mr. Skinner was divorced by his third wife. Mrs. Skinner was graduated from the University of Missouri and later studied at the Chicago Art institute.

Vermont House Refuses to Ratify Child Labor Law

Montpelier, Vt., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Ratification of the child labor amendment to the federal constitution was refused today by the Vermont state house of representatives. The vote was 229 to 6.

REYNOLDS, CHIEF OF RELIEF, UNDER STATE QUIZ FIRE

Entire New Setup Urged as a Way Out.

U. S. Might Approve Change.

From Hunter it was learned that the FERA probably would approve a change in the system of relief fund distribution through township organization, providing the state commission continued as head of the organization. This assurance was predicated, however, upon a revision of the poor laws of the state, which Hunter declared were antiquated.

Mr. Dunham had proposed returning the bulk of relief work to the counties when he made a formal address to the joint session earlier in the day.

Tells of Three Years' Work.

Chairman Dunham led off, detailing the work of the commission since it was authorized by the legislature in February, 1932, and concluding with his recommendations. His final words were that he believed, "making reasonable allowances for the unavoidable defects inevitable in such a huge and unprecedented operation as the relief necessities have required, there is being conducted in Illinois a competent emergency relief service."

Victor A. Olander, secretary of the Illinois Federation of Labor, and a commissioner followed Mr. Dunham and was succeeded on the rostrum by Mr. Wright.

"We've made mistakes," Wright said quietly, "some abuses have crept in, and there has been some waste, but by and large, I think we've done a pretty good job."

Group Backs Reynolds.

William P. Sexton, corporation counsel of Chicago, was the last commission to speak. Sensing, perhaps, some antipathy toward Reynolds, Mr. Sexton told the legislators, "If you want to say Reynolds is wrong, you'll have to say the commission is wrong, for the commission is not going to run out on Reynolds."

Speaker Devine then called for questions and Representative Lottie Holman O'Neill, Downers Grove, was recognized first. She asked Secretary Reynolds to take the rostrum and inquired if he thought there could be any improvement in the administration of relief in Illinois. Reynolds replied that he thought there could be.

During the short pause that followed Lyons took the floor. He went at first to the salaries paid by the commission in the attempt to show that some employés who draw salaries of $400 or $500 monthly are overpaid. Reynolds did not agree.

During this give and take it was brought out that Reynolds' salary is $666 monthly.

Produces Purchase Vouchers.

Lyons then produced a sheaf of vouchers for the purchase of filing cabinets. He declared they showed that cabinets had been bought from a Pennsylvania firm at a cost of from $30 to $35 per cabinet, whereas it would have been possible to buy them in Illinois for $15 each.

Reynolds said that had been attended to by the purchasing department and was a matter he was not familiar with.

"Are there any coal dealers on the commission?" Lyon demanded.

Mr. Reynolds didn't know.

The Williams report was not couched in temperate language, particularly when it referred to Secretary Reynolds.

Called "Despotic Dictatorship."

A report prepared by a commission of senators and representatives, chairmaned by Senator Louis O. Williams [Dem., Clinton], criticized the commission severely for its high cost of administration. Particularly as it referred to Reynolds, was this report scathing.

"The members of the Illinois commission," the report stated, "have very little to do with formulating the policies of the administration of relief. The policies of the relief administration in Illinois are formulated very largely by the executive secretary [Mr. Reynolds]. These policies are supposed to be largely in compliance with the requirements of the Federal Relief administration.

"Few dictatorships in America have been set with so much despotic power as that exercised by the executive secretary, and of the officers and employés under him. Millions of dollars of the people's money are being expended each month by this organization, which is beyond the review of any court or any tribunal.

"Some provision should be made for an impartial review of the acts of the employés of the relief commission, when injustice is done."

Warns on Right to Relief.

"Another very disturbing notion growing in the minds of certain classes of our people is the belief that every person out of a job has a legal right to receive relief aid. Basing their claim on this alleged right, societies and organizations have been, and are being, formed in this state among persons on relief, or who desire to receive relief, to secure and enforce this alleged right. When a person on relief becomes convinced that relief is a 'right' due him from the taxpayers, his value as a patriotic citizen is largely destroyed. When his mind becomes obsessed with this belief the next step in his reasoning is that 'the world owes me a living.' Thereafter personal independence from honest work is out of his viewpoint. He has become a parasite on the body politic and will continue to be such for the remainder of his life, if it is in his power.

"When prosperity and normal times return the question of how many people will prefer to remain objects of charity rather than make an honest effort to live an independent life by work, cannot be answered even by our social experts. Doubtless the present dole plan, through the case-worker system now operative in Illinois, is creating a permanent pauper class that will try to remain on relief the remainder of their lives without contributing anything toward the necessary work of the world.

United States Demands Control.

Federal control over the Illinois commission was illustrated by a quote from Howard O. Hunter, federal district relief representative. Hunter told the commission:

"We [the FERA] will not put federal funds into a state or in a locality for relief purposes unless that state or locality spend their own money according to our standards. We decide how the money shall be used. Consequently, if a county, city, or state does not live up to our standards we won't be a party to it, and if they don't like that they can do what they please with their own money, but we shall not be a party to it."

WM. A. WHITE TELLS EDITORS HE'S STUMPED

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

"What is the matter with the world?" William Allen White, Emporia, Kas., editor, wanted to know last night as he discussed his fifty years in the newspaper business at the golden anniversary banquet of the Inland Daily Press association at the Palmer house. He first came into fame thirty-six years ago with his editorial, "What Is the Matter with Kansas?"

"I became the editor of a weekly newspaper because I wanted to be my own particular kind of damn fool," he said after his introduction by Verne Joy of Centralia, the toastmaster, as "the premier small town editor in America."

Recalls Populist Uprising.

"There was a Populist uprising in those days. I was a stiff necked conservative. I had a notion that brains and money are synonomous. I was always lambasting the Populists and one day when I was coming from the postoffice they surrounded me and gave me all kinds of merry hell.

"I was young and they had whiskers and I could not answer back very well, but I went to my office and, full of wrath and righteous emotion, wrote the editorial which brought me some fame. I lost all my subscribers, but was able to sell some stories on the strength of it.

Watches Public's Wants Grow.

"I covered one county fairly well with my paper. It has the same population today as then, within a thousand. I started out with a circulation of 485 and in 1929 had 7,000. One dry goods store which used to pay me $24 a month for a small ad was then paying $4,000 or $5,000 a year for advertising. The wants of the people had mounted. What mysterious alchemy of change came into the minds and heads and hearts of the American people? What happened to the world to multiply the wealth of that county? It came from the same soil without any great increase in production.

"And where in the devil has it gone now, may I ask?

"I changed my political views and bolted with Theodore Roosevelt. What made that slowing down? In these 50 years we have seen what seemed a successful system grow slowly and mount steadily to a fair approximation of justice.

"Then, out of God knows where, came this change. What a strange world. I am without rudder, anchor or compass. I don't know what is the matter."

Will Rogers at Banquet.

Will Rogers appeared at the banquet for a few minutes later in the evening. He said he didn't get into the newspaper business until it began paying.

George Purcell of Bloomington, Ind., midwest newspaper historian, recounted the history of the association from 1885.

Lauds Fight for Free Press.

Elisha Hanson, Washington attorney and general counsel for the American Newspaper Publishers' association, praised the activities of publishers in fighting for the freedom of the press at the code hearings in Washington.

"The press of the United States," he said, "has not had its foundations weakened by any act of its own or by any act of government. No agency of the government, no agency set up by the code, no court in the light of article seven [of NRA] can force a closed shop editorial and news department agreement upon a publisher who does not want such an agreement."

JUDGE MOVES TO GAG PAPER IN VICE EXPOSE

Three in Miami Face Contempt Citation.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Three members of the editorial staf of the Miami Beach Tribune today were ordered by Judge Jefferson Browne to appear before him tomorrow morning and show cause why they should not be adjudged guilty of contempt of court.

The basis for the citation was an item printed yesterday in the paper, which has been conducting a crusade against gambling. During the crusade allegations and intimations have been made that vice resorts received the protection of police and public officials.

Objects to News Story.

Specifically, Judge Browne objected to the Tribune's account of his assignment to preside at the trial of State Senator Hays Lewis, who was indicted on a charge of operating a gambling establishment in Beautiful Deauville, a night club and hotel. Senator Lewis, who pleaded that he was merely a paying guest and not a proprietor of the club, was acquitted late today.

Judge Browne interrupted the trial, which started yesterday, to call the three newspaper men before him. They are Paul G. Jeans, editor; Tommy Thompson, a copyreader, and Shannon Cormack, a reporter. The judge first read part of the paper's account of the court proceedings of yesterday. The quotations were:

"Judge Jefferson B. Browne, former chief justice of the Supreme court, was ordered to the Lewis trial today by Gov. Dave Scholtz and at first he saw nothing wrong with Pine's prosecuting his friend.

Refers to "Vindication."

"It was Judge Browne who presided at the trial of Pine himself a few days ago when the county solicitor was 'vindicated' on charges of improperly performing the duties of his office in connection with the slot machine scandal that brought about the suicide of former Sherif Lehman."

Officially the prosecution of State Senator Lewis was in the hands of County Prosecutor Fred W. Pine, but the known friendship of the two men caused the bar association to insist that a special prosecutor be named. Judge Browne held it was improper and malicious for the newspaper to refer to his presiding in these terms and had the three newspaper men haled before him.

"These statements," he said, "are untrue. I am not a former chief justice of the Supreme court, but an associate justice. I did not preside at the Pine hearing. The court sat as a whole."

Declines to Break Confidence.

Reporter Cormack declined to tell the judge where he got his information. Jeans said the item reached him in the usual course of the day's work and Thompson said his connection with it was limited to its technical form. Judge Browne, dissatisfied with their answers, ordered them to be prepared tomorrow morning to show why they should not be held in contempt.

"Editors," he said, "have a definite responsibility of vertifying all they handle or print. The reporter has a definite responsibility in crediting the authenticity of his sources. In this case all seem remiss."

Walter Annenberg, publisher of the Miami Beach Tribune, asserted that an "unimportant misstatement" in regard to Judge Browne was being used to throttle the campaign against gambling. He declared that even if his workers were locked up the crusade would continue.

"Press Freedom Attacked."

"This is an attack on the freedom of the press," he averred. "It is being carried out by indirect methods."

State Senator Lewis was only one of seventeen persons indicted in connection with gambling charges. The others are still to be tried. Among them are Big Bill Dwyer, chief stockholder in the Tropical Park race track, and Mrs. Lucy Cotton Thomas Magraw, former actress and mother of Lucetta Cotton Thomas, 9 years old, one of the principal heirs to a 27 million dollar trust estate.

Five Confess Stripping Autos and Selling Parts

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 18; recovered, 21; stripped, 2 [from police records for the twenty-four hours ending at midnight Monday].

Five young men who confessed to Willow Springs county highway police that they stripped three stolen automobiles, and sold the parts, will appear this morning before Justice of the Peace C. C. Foster of Palos Park. They are Robert Parker, 16 years old; Walter Schwarg, 19, and Edward Daliege, 23, all of Argo; Charles Schwingle, 19, of Summit, and Roger Klasek, 17, of 5523 South Nottingham avenue.

THIRD '3D PARTY' STARTS PETITION IN MAYORAL RACE

Ford Van Decker Names "Fusion Party Slate."

BY PARKE BROWN.

A third party that wants to get on the mayoral election ballot of April 2 made its appearance yesterday. Here and there petitions of this organization, "the Fusion party," went into circulation.

These, like the petitions of the organization headed by Newton Jenkins for mayor, which calls itself "the third party," and those for "the fusion ticket" led by Prof. Paul H. Douglas of the University of Chicago, are being prepared under the "new party provision" of the state election law. The minimum of signatures required is approximately 58,000. The Socialist and Communist parties are attempting to nominate by the same procedure.

Origin of the New Group.

The announcement of the new third party came from Ford M. Van Decker, who ran a poor race for Republican ward committeeman of the Fifteenth ward in 1930, ran third in a field of four for the Republican nomination for congress in the Third district in 1932, and last fall announced he would start a party of his own.

These new party petitions must be filed next Tuesday. Political managers of long experience say it will be impossible for Van Decker to complete his 58,000 by that time, but the father of his party in this instance predicts that he will have between 60,000 and 90,000 signatures by Saturday and will file the "fusion party" ticket that day.

The Party's Three Candidates.

The ticket consists of Dale D. McCutcheon, an advertising man, for mayor, and two lawyers, A. L. Van Winkle and Louis A. Pinderski, for the other two offices, those of city treasurer and city clerk.

None of them is publicly known with the possible exception of Pinderski, whom some may recall as an assistant state's attorney under the late John E. W. Wayman about a quarter of a century ago.

So far as can be ascertained Attorney David H. Caplow, an unsuccessful candidate for the Municipal bench last year, is in charge of Prof. Douglas' campaign. It is being conducted from Caplow's office at 10 North Clark street. Mr. Caplow was requested to let a reporter see the 40,000 petition signatures which the lawyer announced he had collected. He refused. A photographer asked to photograph the stack. Mr. Caplow declined.

Would Jeopard Signers' Standing.

Mr. Caplow's formal statement asserted that the "fusion ticket" is not a new party movement, though its petition forms are headed with the words "Declaration of intention to form a new political party." The Caplow pronouncement said the "fusion ticket" asked no one to give up his party affiliations, but under the law the man who signs a Douglas, Jenkins, or Van Decker petition is disqualified from voting in either the Democratic or the Republican primary next Tuesday.

FARMER BELIEVED MURDERED.

RAID WAREHOUSE AND SEIZE 6 MEN AT ILLICIT STILL

Capt. John Norton and a detail of Maxwell street police raided yesterday the Continental warehouse at 973 Cullerton street, and found a 50,000 gallon illicit still in operation. The raiders seized 50,000 gallons of alcohol and arrested six men whom they turned over to E. C. Yellowley, superintendent of the federal alcohol tax unit for this district.

A search was started for William J. Workman, 8212 South Aberdeen street, said to be president of the warehouse corporation. At his home it was said he had been absent since Monday.

Those arrested identified themselves as: Bernard Stephensen, 42 years old, 5022 North Kildare avenue, a cartage contractor; Lloyd Summers, 32, of 6018 South Bishop street, and William Kranzusch, 31, of 3125 Archer avenue, employés of Stephensen; Tony Williams, 32, of 553 East 34th street, foreman in the warehouse; Edward F. Young, 53, of 4948 Wabansia avenue, a clerk; and Arthur Phelps, colored, 24, of 2224 South La Salle street, fireman.

Police believed the still had been in operation only a short time. It occupied the three top floors of the six story building.

CAPITAL SILENT ON LOAN BY U. S. TO BOOTLEGGER

Agents Raid Vinegar Plant at Syracuse.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Official Washington remains tight lipped concerning the discovery that the federal government has an equity in the largest New York state illicit liquor plant seized since repeal.

Investigation has revealed that the Clyde Products company at Clyde, N. Y., was financed by a Reconstruction Finance corporation loan to make vinegar, but that the money actually has been used for the redistillation of denatured alcohol.

United States Agents Raid Plant.

Some days ago federal agents commanded by John J. Flynn of New York City, head of the alcohol tax unit of the state, raided the plant. On a siding they found a carload of 10,000 gallons of specially denatured alcohol, ostensibly for use in making vinegar. In the plant itself they found 9,000 gallons of apple brandy and 4,000 gallons of vinegar.

It was learned that in November, 1934, the RFC authorized a loan of $40,000 to Charles L. Noble, trading as the Clyde Products company. Actually the company received $25,000, according to James Keehan, head of the New York City alcohol tax unit.

Say Vinegar Covers Loan.

The loan, according to Keehan, is covered by warehouse receipts of the Guardian Warehouse corporation of New Orleans. The latter concern, Keehan states, leases space in the plant for storing vinegar.

Keehan says that the warehouse company says there is $98,000 worth of vinegar in the plant to cover the loan. It was pointed out that although the raiding squad found only 4,000 gallons of vinegar, it is of higher concentration than the commercial product used by housewives, and therefore represents a much greater volume of the commercial product.

It has been learned that bonds held by the government on the permit authorizing Noble to draw 10,000 gallons of specially denatured alcohol every month total about $58,000 instead of $40,000 as first stated.

The difference, Keehan says, is covered by bonds which have been canceled, but which the alcohol tax unit officials believe to have been in force during the time the alcohol allegedly was diverted from vinegar making to liquor manufacture. If they are able to prove that diversion was going on at the time the canceled bonds were in force they hold the government can force forefeiture.

Government officials remain silent as to how it was possible to disguise so completely the real business of the vinegar plant that the RFC loan was made in good faith. Raiders said only 20 per cent of the factory's business was devoted to making vinegar.

Proof of Contents Reduced.

Contents of the tank cars, permitted at the plant at the rate of one a month, were "cleaned," reduced from 190 proof to about 85 proof and reshipped, federal agents say.

The government now finds itself in a dilemma over destruction of the plant. After aiding in financing the plant, the government is confronted with the usual procedure of destroying it. If that is done, there admittedly will be slight chance of reimbursement for the $25,000 lent to the company. The company's bond of $40,000 and the loan have no connection, although both are government actions.

Officials of the A. T. U. refused to say what progress has been made in the investigation of the company's records or to reveal by whom the loan was approved or how the money was spent. It is expected that the investigation will implicate others in Syracuse and larger eastern cities.

WAGE DISPUTES DIVIDE SPONSORS OF 5 BILLION BILL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Division of the administration forces on the McCarran prevailing wage amendment, on which debates began in the senate today, indicated trouble ahead for President Roosevelt's "five billion dollar" work relief bill.

Some administration leaders contend that the prevailing wage on federal construction jobs would defeat the very purpose of the bill," but a large Democratic faction friendly to organized labor nevertheless began a determined fight for adoption of the McCarran amendment. Their leader was Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], sponsor in the senate of the President's social security measure.

Wagner Fears Pay Cut.

"Congress does not need further experimentation to demonstrate that if the employers of 3,500,000 men slash wage rates, others will be forced to follow suit," Wagner declared. "It has been demonstrated a thousand times; its recognition is the mainspring of the whole recovery program."

Senator M. M. Logan [Dem., Ky.], another loyal New Dealer, replied with an attack on what he called the "obstructionist" attitude of organized labor and said he would vote against the five billion dollar bill if the McCarran amendment prevailed.

"We have done more to help labor and labor is doing more to wreck this program than any group," Senator Logan of Kentucky said.

Wagner argued that the proposed wage of $50 a month would destroy everything that the NRA has accomplished toward the elimination of sweat shops.

Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho] said he would not disagree with Wagner on the desirability of paying the prevailing wage, but did disagree with the theory that NRA had abolished sweat shops.

Hits Small Industries.

"It has abolished a lot of small industries," Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], chairman of the appropriations committee, said. That committee reported out the five billion dollar bill without recommendation that it pass.

Senator McCarran [Dem., Nev.] plans to demand a roll call on his amendment. That is what worries the administration forces. They don't want to antagonize President Roosevelt on the one hand or the American Federation of Labor on the other. Furthermore, if the amendment passed the senate, there would be a fight in the house.

There the Roosevelt machine would attempt to get a vote on a conference report rather to go on record specifically on the wage question.

While the wage question was being discussed in the senate, two more amendments were introduced from the floor. One of these, by Senator Robert La Follette [Radical, Wis.], would increase the appropriation to 10 billion dollars with earmarked appropriations of one billion 162 million for federal highways; 650 million for grade separations; 125 million for state highways; 520 million for new building construction, and 3 billion 44 million for nonfederal projects.

Charges Sovietizing Plot.

Senator Thomas D. Schall [Rep., Minn.] introduced an amendment to abolish all federal emergency corporations chartered under the laws of Delaware or any other state and prohibiting the organization of any more without specific authorization of congress.

He charged that the New Deal emergency corporations, chartered under the Delaware laws with vast powers to be held in perpetuity, were designed to sovietize the United States.

JUDGE, FREES TWO GIRLS.

Disorderly conduct charges against Miss Winifred Caldwell, 23 years old, and Miss Irene North, 21, both of 6220 Woodlawn avenue, arrested in the investigation of the deaths of two men by "knockout drops," were dismissed yesterday by Municipal Judge Edward S. Sheffler.

TAMMANY AIDS CRUSH FARLEY INQUIRY MOVE

New York Aldermen Table Quiz Resolution.

New York, Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Ald. A. Newbold Morris' attempt to investigate a reported connection of Postmaster General James A. Farley with the General Builders' Supply corporation was crushed today by the Tammany steamroller.

Ald. Morris introduced a resolution at today's meeting calling upon the aldermen to investigate dealings between the city and the General Builders' Supply corporation.

Having handed up his resolution, Ald. Morris sank back in his chair to hear it read.

Resolution Is Tabled.

The reading clerk had completed the first ten words when Ald. Edward J. Sullivan, Greenwich Village Democrat, broke in with a motion to table the resolution.

Before anything further could be said, Vice Chairman Murray W. Stand called for a viva voce vote. The motion to table was adopted easily.

Morris protested that he had not even been given the courtesy of having his resolution read. Ald. Stand admitted that courtesy was a virtue to be sought after but explained there was "nothing before the house" on which his Republican colleague might speak. Having tabled the Morris resolution the board, in the language of some of its less diplomatic members, had deposited it in the ashcan.

The resolution said there had been frequent criticism on the administration of public funds advanced for work relief here and that one of the chief concerns of the board of aldermen was to safeguard these funds.

Quiz Backing Sought.

The measure called upon the aldermen to approve the impending United States senate investigation into the activities of "certain business concerns in which it is reputed that the postmaster general has been, or has had, directly or indirectly, a financial interest."

It also requested the aldermen to investigate records of the purchase department and those of the state PWA engineer which might deal with the General Builders Supply corporation.

Before the meeting Morris issued a statement tracing the history of certain city bids for cement. He said the low bidder got the contract for 90,000 bags of cement at 56 cents a bag. Before delivery was made Morris said Washington directed cancellation of the order on the ground that the price was too low for the NRA code. Later, the federal government directed reinstatement of the contract and delivery was completed.

Tells of Drawing by Lot.

"Subsequent contracts for cement were awarded to the General Builders Supply corporation [Mr. James A. Farley's concern] at the code price of 62 cents a bag, drawing by 'lot.' Then the administration in Washington revoked the price fixing provisions of the code," Morris said.

"It is interesting to note that efforts for effecting economies in the city's purchasing appear to be irreconcilable with the program for national recovery, since the federal government frowns on awarding contracts to the lowest bidders," he added.

Report to Go to Senate.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes declared today that his division of investigation has conducted no investigation of Postmaster General James A. Farley.

However, the secretary said that a report on the James Stewart company, in which Farley formerly was interested, would be forwarded to the senate. He declined to say whether Louis R. Glavis, head of the division of investigation, had any records of the General Supply corporation, in which Farley was said to be interested.

The resolution for a senate investigation was asked by Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana. Farley returned today from his tour of the south. He had no statement to make on the investigation.

SPAIN SHIPS FORMER QUEEN'S PERSONAL EFFECTS TO BRITAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 19.—Two packing cases containing the personal effects of the British born former Queen Victoria Eugénie of Spain arrived here today from the British vice consul at Santander.

Long negotiations by the British embassy at Madrid were required before the property was allowed to leave Spain, despite the fact that it is not of great intrinsic value. It consists chiefly of gifts from Queen Victoria, King Edward VII., and King George V. of England.

It is considered significant that the property is being sent to former Queen Victoria Eugénie's childhood home at Carisbrooke castle, Isle of Wight. This is interpreted here as another indication that she is breaking with both Spain and former King Alfonso.

BLANTON PUSHES FOR 10 YEAR BAN ON IMMIGRATION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Angered at the bottling up of his bill to stop all immigration for ten years, Representative Thomas L. Blanton [Dem., Tex.] notified the house today that he would start a petition Thursday to force the legislation out of committee. Under the new rules of the house the petition will require 218 signatures.

The gray haired Texan, noted for his firebrand tactics, boiled over when Representative Samuel Dickstein [Dem., N. Y.], chairman of the house immigration and naturalization committee, said Blanton had misrepresented figures and asserted that more persons were going out of the country than coming in.

"Bruno Hauptmann was here and we didn't find out about him until he committed murder," shouted Blanton. "There are thousands here just like him."

"If you will work with me we'll correct the situation," said Dickstein.

"If you work with me we'll give jobs back to 12 million Americans," retorted Blanton.

ROTARY, 30 YEARS OLD, HONORS 48 EARLY MEMBERS

The Chicago Rotary club, oldest Rotary club in the world, observed its 30th anniversary yesterday by honoring 48 veteran members at a luncheon in the Hotel Sherman. These men, many with white hair, sat at terraced tables decorated with Rotary emblems and the flags of the nations and all were lauded for their services to the organization.

Sylvester Schiele, first president of the first Rotary club, headed the list of honored guests. Henry R. Paul and Arthur Glessner, Rotarians of 1910, were honored for their 25 years of membership.

Dr. Allen D. Albert, past president of Rotary International, the principal speaker, recalled the early days of Rotary, and urged its members to undertake a civic program far more reaching than any attempted heretofore. He suggested that Rotary aid in the drive to decrease automobile accidents in Chicago and Cook county. Another service, he said, should be support of plans to reorganize and consolidate the 438 units of government in Cook county to reduce expenses.

HOW DID YOU DO IT? YOU'VE ALWAYS BEEN AS THIN AS I AM SURE! I TOO WAS NATURALLY SKINNY.. UNTIL I DISCOVERED KELPAMALT
Skinny Since Childhood! Suddenly Puts on Weight!

Amazing New Mineral Concentrate Adds 5 lbs. of Solid Flesh in 1 week ..... OR NO COST!

There is hope now for pale, rundown, underweight men and women—even "NATURALLY SKINNY" folks—who never can seem to add a single ounce. Thousands have tried it and are amazed at this quick, natural, easy way to fill out scrawny hollows and put on firm, solid flesh. Gains of from 15 pounds to 20 pounds in one month—5 pounds in a week—are reported regularly.

Kelpamalt, the new mineral concentrate from the sea—gets right down to the cause of thin, underweight conditions and adds weight, through a "2 ways in 1" natural process.

First, its rich supply of easily assimilable minerals stimulate the digestive glands which produce the juices that alone enable you to digest the fats and starches—the weight-making elements in your daily diet. Second, Kelpamalt's NATURAL IODINE is a mineral needed by the vital organ which regulates metabolism—the process through which the body is constantly building firm, solid flesh, new strength and energy. Three Kelpamalt tablets contain more iron and copper than a pound of spinach or 7½ pounds of fresh tomatoes; more calcium than 6 eggs; more phosphorus than 1½ lbs. carrots; more NATURAL IODINE than 1600 lbs. of beef.

Try Kelpamalt for a single week and notice the difference—how much better you feel. If you don't gain at least 5 lbs. of good, firm flesh in 1 week the trial is free. Kelpamalt costs but little at all Walgreen Drug Stores

Kelpamalt Tablets

As the result of Kelpamalt's tremendous popularity, many inferior imitations—sold as kelp and malt preparations—are being advertised. Don't be fooled. Ask for the original, genuine Kelpamalt Tablets. They are easily assimilated, do not upset the stomach nor injure the teeth. Absolutely guaranteed to produce results or money back.

Empty Your Gall Bladder

And You'll Feel Like a Billion Dollars!

Sleepless nights, dog-tired days, headaches, pains in all parts of the body—indigestion—gas. Do you suffer from one or all?

And have you tried every medicine under the sun, only to find yourself back where you started?

No wonder, for you, like thousands of others have probably been treating yourself for everything but the right thing. Get at the unsuspected cause—your gall bladder. If sluggish, it won't pour into your small intestines the most important digestive juice necessary for neutralizing gastric acid, quickening digestion and disinfecting the intestinal tract. If this juice doesn't flow freely, then your food sours, putrifies, stomach becomes filled with gas and acidity.

From the world's greatest chemists comes a simple, pleasant means to make this digestive juice flow freely, and put you on the sunny side of life. Magnesia Oxoids, little white tablets that release pure oxygen. This amazing oxygen—purer than the air you breathe—plus magnesia, gently stimulates the gall bladder, neutralizes burning acidity and sweeps that poison-packed bowel clean.

Take two Oxoids after each meal—and before retiring—drink plenty of water—put your gall bladder to work—and you'll jump out of your skin for joy. Such new health! Such robust vigor! Get Magnesia Oxoids today from your druggist.—Advertisement.

For sale by Walgreen Drug Stores and all good druggists.

It gives a most pleasant feeling, a real sense of security and holds and holds. Breath is always pleasant. If anyone with loose-fitting false teeth wants all-day comfort and a real stay there fit, insist upon FASTEETH at Walgreen's or any good drug store.

PREDICTS RAPID INCREASE IN TAX PAID PHYSICIANS

Dr. Heyd of Columbia U. Sees Clinics' Spread.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

A large increase in hospital care and medical service paid for by tax funds within the next decade was predicted yesterday by Dr. Charles Gordon Heyd, head of the department of surgery of New York Postgraduate hospital of Columbia university. He spoke in the Palmer house at the closing session of the American Medical association's congress on medical education.

Within ten years, Dr. Heyd believes, 60 per cent of medical practice in the more thickly populated states will be carried on in hospital dispensaries or clinics; physicians, who now largely give clinical and dispensary service free, will be paid for it, and tax funds will be necessary to save a large number of private hospitals from closing.

Discusses Physicians' Training.

Holding that "the defect in medical practice today is the lag between scientific knowledge and its practical application," Dr. Heyd discussed the planning of postgraduate instruction for physicians in the future. His predictions of the increase in state medicine outlined a probable condition with which such education programs would have to be correlated.

Without discussing the desirability of such movements, which the medical association condemned bitterly last Saturday through its house of delegates, Dr. Heyd assumed the eventual enactment of some form of national sickness insurance law, as well as of further intrusion of the government into medical practice.

"Graduate medical teaching," he said, "will necessarily have to consider the relation of medicine and its practice to the programs of social betterment—old age pensions, sickness insurance, physicians under the Civil Works administration program, social security.

Have Doctors Under Government.

"The increased number of doctors who will be employed by the government for medical work will tend to bring into the ranks of the salaried physicians the moderately trained type of doctor rather than the individual who is in a sense a much better trained physician. This income bracket of physicians will constitute a problem for periodic reëducation."

If costs of medical training rise and the average compensation of physicians falls, Dr. Heyd pointed out, the natural tendency will be for medical ranks to be filled with students desirous of making their practice "a business or trade enterprise." This, he held, will increase hospital dispensary and clinic practice.

"It is apparent that the voluntary hospital system is in the process of breaking down by reason of the inadequacy of funds derived from philanthropic sources and that many of the hospitals will be salvaged by becoming parts of the city, state, or government system."

More "Old People" to Treat.

A little recognized biological problem, the increasing proportion of "old" people in our population, will increase the usefulness of the physician, Dr. Hyde believes. In the last fifty years the number of persons over 65 has increased 600 per cent, four times as fast as the total population of the United States has grown.

The floor of the congress saw a lively debate when several osteopaths rose to defend their profession after Dr. Frederick Etherington, dean of the faculty in medicine at Queens university, Kingston, Ont., had given a report on a survey of the four leading American osteopathic colleges.

Dr. Etherington and a colleague made the survey after Ontario osteopaths asked the right to engage in general practice of medicine, asserting that their schools offered training equivalent to that obtained in orthodox medical colleges.

Conclusions on Osteopathic Schools.

The survey, Dr. Etherington said, showed that the osteopathic schools had inadequate physical facilities for proper medical instruction, that their hospital and clinical facilities were also inadequate, that the entrance requirements and qualifications of the instruction staffs were substandard, and that their curricula and courses were so "far different in quality and fundamental principles of instruction" as to be impossible of comparison with the usual medical education.

The principal criticism levied at him by the osteopaths, led by Dr. Charles Hazzard of New York, was that the survey was hasty.

PUT DENTAL CARE IN REACH OF ALL, TUGWELL URGES

Dr. Rexford Guy Tugwell, undersecretary of agriculture and adviser to President Roosevelt, gave some 1,000 dentists a strong dose of New Dealism last night and warned them that the profession must correct the condition which finds too small a portion of the public receiving dental care. He spoke in the Stevens hotel before a session of the four day annual convention of the Chicago Dental society.

"There is a great vested interest of time, skill, and training involved in caring for the health needs of the American people," Dr. Tugwell said. "From some of the views published on the subject I infer that there is a lively apprehension among the health professions.

Looks to the Future.

"I cannot read the future, but I can only repeat my conviction that you, like every other group whose interests are part of the whole picture, will have to make your choice between the needs of the future—whatever they may be—and the futile alternative of trying to protect existing special interests at any cost to society.

"I do not, however, feel that the choice is necessarily painful or the future inevitably appalling. You yourselves can help to create the future in such a way as best to serve your own interests and those of society if you take an active part in the process of adjusting our professional health services to the changing needs of society. The future has always belonged to those who anticipated it rather than to those who turned away from it.

Foresees Economic Readjustment.

"I am confident that in the future we shall establish the principle of paying for health services in advance rather than in arrears."

The long delay at present between services and payment, he said, has been reflected in costs and fees which shut off a large part of the public from access to medical treatment. Three-quarters of the population, he declared, cannot now pay illness costs.

The goal Prof. Tugwell pictured was to have medical and dental care as completely accessible to all of the people as are educational opportunities.

"That is your present task," he asserted. "It cannot be accomplished if it is entered on in a cautious and withdrawing way with a view first to the protection of an existing interest. I am convinced that this can be done without impairing professional zeal or preventing the development of individual incentive."

Social Problem in General.

In the first part of his speech Dr. Tugwell dealt with the problem of economic insecurity generally. He asked that all of the suggestions thus far advanced by the administration be regarded as "tentative," and declared himself in favor of continued "very bold" experiments. He added:

"We must loosen our ways of thinking in order to adjust an industrious and inventive population, used to the ways of self-reliance, to the fact of an increasing store of wealth in return for a decreasing amount of work."

The annual junior-senior prom of the Chicago College of Dental Surgery will be held at the Drake hotel this evening. Many of the delegates to the convention are planning to attend.

AGED DOLTON MAN MISSING.

Police were asked last night by Ralph Schamp, 1449 East 65th street, to search for his father, John H. Schamp, 80 years old, 547 Lincoln avenue, Dolton, who disappeared from his home Monday morning.

URGE MORE BEDS, BETTER CARE FOR CONVALESCENT

Physicians, welfare leaders, nurses, heads of hospitals, and other institutions agreed in a symposium held in Thorne hall on McKinlock campus of Northwestern university last night that Chicago needs more facilities for the care of low salaried and needy persons convalescing from illness.

Although Chicago has need of at least 1,500 beds for convalescent care, there are at present 522 beds, only 290 of which are available the year round, Alexander Ropchan, executive secretary of the health division of the Council of Social Agencies, revealed.

Dr. Harry Mock, senior surgeon at St. Luke's hospital, recommended a movement for a country convalescent center where county patients might be transferred. For private hospitals he suggested the opening of wings for convalescent care at a cheaper rate than hospital care.

Other speakers included Dr. Robert Black, medical director of La Rabida Jackson Park sanitarium; Samuel A. Goldsmith, chairman of the health division of the Council of Social Agencies; Dr. Charles E. Phifer, president, and Dr. Julius Hess, president elect of the Chicago Medical society, and Miss Edna L. Foley, superintendent of the Visiting Nurse association.

DENIES VIGILANT GROUP TRIES TO STIR RACE HATE

Harry A. Jung, head of the American Vigilant Intelligence federation, accused by a committee under Congressman John W. McCormack [Dem., Mass.] of trying to incite racial intolerance, sent a telegram to McCormack yesterday denying the charge. McCormack is chairman of a congressional committee investigating propaganda. Jung, in his telegram, demanded further investigation by the committee.

In its report, the result of a year's investigation into alleged "un-American" groups, the committee charged that Jung had "published and circulated great masses of literature tending to incite racial and religious intolerance," and that contributors to the federation were unaware of the use to which their money was put. Jung replied:

"Your committee investigating un-American activities should investigate itself for un-American practices. . . . Why did the committee run away from Chicago and refuse to hear me?"

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

OVER 30,000 CHILDREN took their first steps in Field Nature Shoes last year, a striking example of the confidence parents place in the integrity of Field's service.

BUILDING LITTLE FEET...

Meet Field Nature Juniors—Field's shoes for beginners. Equipped with non-skid soles to give Junior firm footing for his first steps.

Children's shoes have always been a major interest with us. No one realizes more than we the importance of the right footwear during the first years. We have devoted much research to materials and lasts for these soft young feet, realizing that wrongly constructed shoes could cause a great deal of trouble later on. We are proud of the large number of little feet we start growing right each year.

And Field's knows the importance of the right shoes for adults as well as children. Our Children's Shoes are just a sample of the remarkable building that has gone into all Field's famous makes. Field's shoes aren't made like other shoes. Their leathers come from the most durable parts of the hide, their lasts are carefully modeled to the human foot and their corrective features are scientific achievements.

Of tremendous importance, also, is their styling. The finest designers select their new and fashionable colors, streamlining them to give your foot grace and slenderness. Such makes as Aristos and Young Moderns are leaders in the fashion field.

To fit you scientifically we have a staff of highly trained men. Seven X-ray machines make your fitting no matter of guesswork. We run shops for custom making. And you will be interested to know that nationally-known surgeons and eminent shoe specialists from all over the country send their patients to Field's.

QUACKERY DENIED BY O'DONOVAN AS TESTIMONY ENDS

"Patients" Heard; Final Arguments Feb. 27.

Contradictory versions of the powers and actions of James Patrick O'Donovan, self-described ex-British army captain and psychology professor with hypnotic and mesmeric powers, were presented yesterday to Municipal Judge Eugene Holland, before whom O'Donovan is on trial for practicing medicine without a state license. At the end of the day both sides announced the testimony closed and agreed to proceed with final arguments Wednesday, Feb. 27.

One of the tales was told to the court by "Captain" O'Donovan himself. The defendant, debonairly twirling his hairline mustache or stroking a saber scar on his cheek, explained how he used his knowledge to "help others to cure themselves."

Some of his patients he helped by mesmerism, others by hypnosis. He treated all "as a gentleman should," he avowed.

Other Versions Given.

The other version came from two rebuttal witnesses called by Assistant State's Attorney William Kearney. The first was Bernard Gorman, 6545 North Mozart street, who related that the "captain" had once characterized him as "a perfect mesmeric subject." The second was Mrs. Charlotte Hermes, investigator for the state department of education and registration which started the prosecution.

"I inculcate God," O'Donovan calmly announced when, during his cross-examination, he was asked to explain his methods of treatment. "I endeavor to ascertain the position of the ecclesiastical training of my students. Then if there is anything derogatory to their health and happiness I bend all efforts to helping them to dislodge this thing.

"I never treated anybody," was his denial when asked if he diagnosed physical ills or prescribed medicine intended to cure them. "I gave a course of training, of helping out the emotional activity of my patients."

All Called "Patients."

Interrogated on the meaning of the word "patient" to him he said: "O, that's an elastic term. I used it for any one who came to me, but never in the sense that physicians use it."

"I always tried to induce sleep. Almost always I succeeded, although of course you cannot do so to any one who resists you."

Gorman, a white haired man of 60 years, grinned sheepishly as he told of visiting the defendant's office "fifteen or sixteen times." He told of being touched by electric "gadgets," mentioned by other witnesses, and then launched into his account of how he was mesmerized.

"The captain told me to sit down in a chair," he said. "It was a right comfortable seat. He said to relax and close my eyes, and he started to count. Pretty soon he told me I was asleep and could only hear his voice.

"Patient" Really Awake.

"As a matter of fact I wasn't. I could still hear the elevated trains going by outside the window but I kept my eyes shut. He walked out and brought somebody into the room and said: 'There's an example of a perfect mesmeric subject.'"

"But why did you try to deceive the captain like that?" demanded Defense Attorney Eugene Bernstein.

"O, I was just letting him have his fun," replied the witness with an embarassed grin. "I didn't want to make a liar out of him."

Mrs. Hermes testified that the alleged hypnotist had tried his powers on her, but had failed signally. Never during four other visits to him did he try to put her to sleep, she said, and he constantly tried to relieve pain he diagnosed as neuritis, with a small electric pencil he ran over her skin.

The house of representatives debated more than two hours the attempt of 22 year old Cecil Anderson, Vanderbilt law student-legislator, to repeal the statute which gained world wide attention at a trial in which the late William Jennings Bryan, the "great commoner," defended it. The vote was 67 to 20 to retain it.

Against Anderson stood the oldest member, Dave W. Ruffin, 76, who mounted the speaker's rostrum holding aloft a bible, from which he read the story of the creation in the first chapter of Genesis.

Anderson levelled a sweeping forensic fire against "narrow, prejudiced religious fanatics," and said he did not fear their criticism.

SCOUTING LAUDED AS A BUILDER OF GOOD CITIZENSHIP

Maj. Gen. McCoy Speaker at Huge Celebration.

The Boy Scout movement in America is a builder of good citizenship and alert patriotism, Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, commander of the 6th corps area, declared last night at a party sponsored by the Chicago council celebrating the 25th anniversary of the founding of the Scout movement in this country. The celebration was held at the Hotel La Salle and was attended by 1,500 persons.

In his address, Maj. Gen. McCoy told of major disasters, such as the Dayton flood, in which he found Scouts giving assistance.

Giant Cake Is Decorated.

The program included the decorating of a giant birthday cake with 525 candles, representing the 525 Scout troops in Chicago. A uniformed representative from each troop, Sea Scout ship and cub pack placed a candle on the cake.

Seven of the city's 4,000 adult volunteer Scout leaders were presented with the silver beaver award, highst scouting honor, for long and outstanding service to the scouting movement. They are S. R. Jensen, Philip R. Reed, Walter J. Mattick, Alexander L. Ewing, R. E. Maysack, W. W. Craig, and Ira B. Yates.

Featured on the program was the presentation to R. Douglas Stuart of a framed reproduction of Carey Orr's cartoon, "A Favorite Nephew," which appeared on the front page of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE on Feb. 9. Mr. Stuart is president of the Chicago council of scouting.

At the annual business meeting of the council Mr. Stuart was reelected. Other officers reelected are: James B. Forgan Jr., Laurence B. Robbins, Alfred W. Stern and Mason Phelps, vice presidents; A. Watson Armour, treasurer; Samuel G. Gorsline, scout commissioner, and Dr. H. W. Gentles, scout surgeon. Sheldon Clark was elected sea scout commander to succeed William C. Menninger.

Two Founders Present.

Two founders of the Chicago scout movement were present at the birthday party. They are Dr. Graham Taylor of the Chicago commons and Leroy T. Stewart.

Scouting's 25th annual national convention, to be held in Chicago May 16 and 17, was announced at the meeting.

"Moist-Throat" Method ended his COUGH in 2 days

"I'm a singer," writes Russell Johns, Chillicothe, O. "2 days before an audition I had a bad cough. Pertussin made it stop quickly!"

WHEN you catch cold, your throat feels dry because thousands of its tiny moisture glands clog. Infected mucus irritates—then you cough. To relieve the coughing, you must "unclog" those glands and so moisten the throat. Pertussin does just that. It helps the throat glands to pour out their natural moisture. Sticky phlegm loosens—Relief. Get a bottle now!

Student Released on Bond in Car Crash Fatal to Two

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 19.—(AP)—William Moritz, 21, of Newark, N. J., junior in the engineering school at Notre Dame university, was arrested today following a secret indictment involving him in an automobile crash in Mishawaka last Oct. 30 when Helen Ricci, 17, and Jack Wilcox, 17, were killed. Moritz is charged with leaving the scene of an accident and failing to report to authorities. He has been released on bond.

WARN LOW MAIL RATES IMPERIL AVIATION LINES

Ruinous air mail rates under the present temporary contracts will drive the major air transportation companies from business in two or three months, according to a joint statement issued yesterday through the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce by executives of all lines operating from the Chicago airport.

A year ago yesterday President Roosevelt canceled all air mail contracts. Military planes flew the mails until twelve aviators had been killed, then the government returned the task to private concerns under temporary contracts.

By this arrangement, the executives reported yesterday, 29 of the 33 air mail routes operated during the last 7½ months of 1934 at a loss of $2,908,000. The same rates continued through 1935, they said, would entail a loss of $5,000,000.

They declared that any delay in congressional action to "lay down a permanent policy under which the airlines can plan the future of an industry representing an investment in the United States of $26,000,000 and affecting 250,000 people" means bankruptcy.

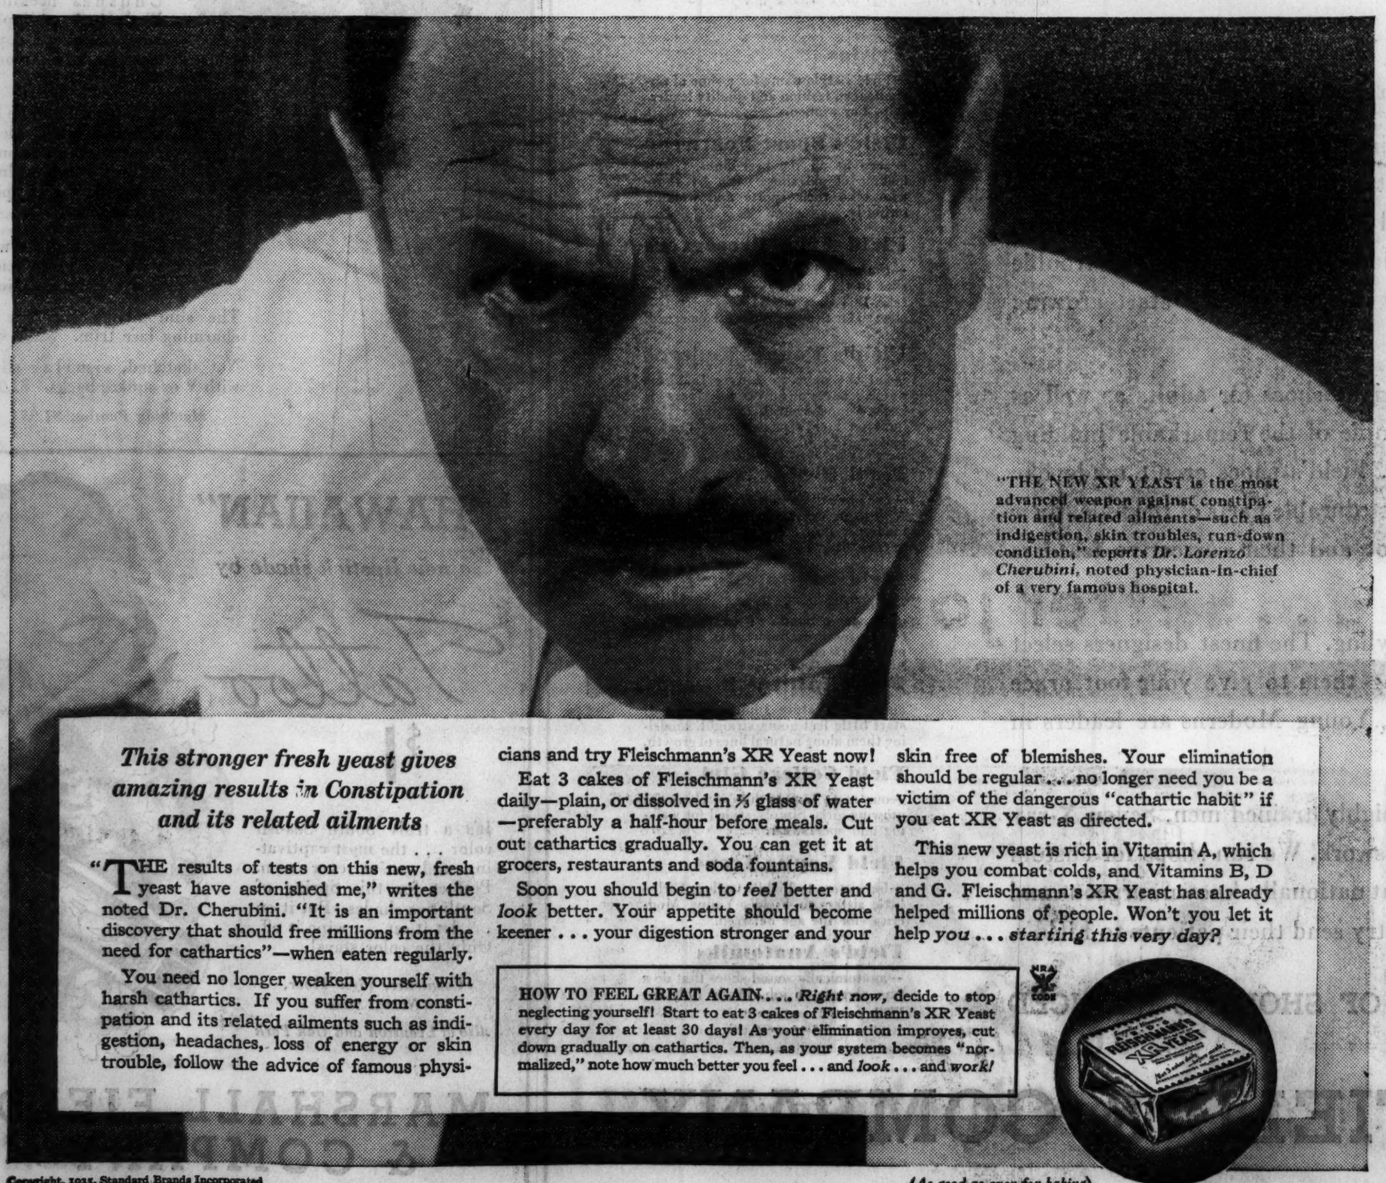
"Millions will no longer need to depend on physics—thanks to XR Yeast" PREDICT NOTED PHYSICIANS!



"THE NEW XR YEAST is the most advanced weapon against constipation and related ailments—such as indigestion, skin troubles, run-down condition," reports Dr. Lorenzo Cherubini, noted physician-in-chief of a very famous hospital.

This stronger fresh yeast gives amazing results in Constipation and its related ailments

"THE results of tests on this new, fresh yeast have astonished me," writes the noted Dr. Cherubini. "It is an important discovery that should free millions from the need for cathartics"—when eaten regularly.

You need no longer weaken yourself with harsh cathartics. If you suffer from constipation and its related ailments such as indigestion, headaches, loss of energy or skin trouble, follow the advice of famous physicians and try Fleischmann's XR Yeast now!

Eat 3 cakes of Fleischmann's XR Yeast daily—plain, or dissolved in ⅓ glass of water—preferably a half-hour before meals. Cut out cathartics gradually. You can get it at grocers, restaurants and soda fountains.

Soon you should begin to feel better and look better. Your appetite should become keener . . . your digestion stronger and your skin free of blemishes. Your elimination should be regular . . . no longer need you be a victim of the dangerous "cathartic habit" if you eat XR Yeast as directed.

This new yeast is rich in Vitamin A, which helps you combat colds, and Vitamins B, D and G. Fleischmann's XR Yeast has already helped millions of people. Won't you let it help you . . . starting this very day?

HOW TO FEEL GREAT AGAIN . . . Right now, decide to stop neglecting yourself! Start to eat 3 cakes of Fleischmann's XR Yeast every day for at least 30 days! As your elimination improves, cut down gradually on cathartics. Then, as your system becomes "normalized," note how much better you feel . . . and look . . . and work!

AUSPICES OF THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

G. O. P. Attacks Control of Democrats.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Providence, R. I., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—The "twelve minute judges" of the Supreme court of Rhode Island look down solemnly today on a horde of petitioners for a new state constitution. The second phase of the political revolution of this state, hailed as a "coup d'état" by Democrats, denounced as a dastardly plot by Republicans, had begun.

Last Jan. 2, in rapid-fire proceedings which lasted a total of twelve minutes, the new Democratic administration swept out of office the entire Supreme court and substituted five new members. The new chief justice is Edmund W. Flynn, who had been Democratic house leader.

Seek New, Basic Law.

The administration, headed by Gov. Theodore Francis Green, was now prepared to seek of the new judges authority to call a constitutional convention which would draft a new constitution. Frankly Gov. Green admitted success in the petition would mean the instalment of Democrats in authority for many blissful years.

Thousands of words were poured into the record today. The appeal of the Democrats was for a ruling of the court which would uphold the authority of the general assembly to call a convention of delegates to draft a constitution which would then be declared legal upon the approval of a majority of the voters.

There were some plaintive protests from lawyers representing the Republican minority that the state constitution plainly outlines the procedure to be followed in moving for a new constitution. The provision is that the question of calling a constitutional convention should be submitted to the people and that a two-thirds vote is necessary for passage of the proposition.

Hope for Quicker Action.

Democratic leaders, however, conceding that such a majority is practically impossible and flushed with triumph as a result of the astounding political maneuvers of six weeks ago, have turned to the state's highest tribunal.

There was no decision today. The new judges must consider the lengthy briefs submitted and draft an opinion to be delivered. But there was little doubt expressed that Chief Justice Flynn and his associates would agree with the suggestion that these are new times and the old constitution must go.

Coup d'Etat of January.

When the two houses met, the Democrats controled the house, 58 to 42, but the Republicans had a majority in the senate, 22 to 20.

Lieut. Gov. Robert E. Quinn, presiding over the latter, started things off with a bang. He ruled that all the senators, except two Republicans, had been legally elected. By a vocal vote, with no count, a resolution was adopted to appoint a special committee to canvass the ballots of these two unfortunates.

The ballots were counted behind closed doors and a report was made that the Republicans had lost, one by 10 votes, another by 26 votes.

That made the senate membership Democrats 22, Republicans 20. The Republicans, in disgust, started to leave. Three of them were put under arrest in order to maintain a quorum.

Declare Bench Vacancies.

In a couple more minutes the senate had declared vacant the five seats in the Supreme court. Obtaining a promise from the five Republican incumbents that they would make no legal trouble, the legislators rewarded the deposed justices with full-time pensions. Another minute and eighty state commissions, boards and bureaus had been abolished and eleven departments substituted. The house cheerfully concurred in all those moves.

The second step in the program by which Gov. Green and his followers hope to maintain their rule over the state came today with the appeal to the brand new Supreme court for authority to call a constitutional convention.

Finds Youth Sane

Dr. G. Wilse Robinson, Kansas City alienist, testifies that Phil Kennamer, murder defendant at Pawnee, Okla., is sane.

KIDNAP PLOT NO SLAYING EXCUSE, ASSERTS JUDGE

Kennamer Jury Given Instructions.

Pawnee, Okla., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Judge Thurmon Hurst today instructed the Kennamer murder trial jury that if it believed Phil Kennamer, 19 year old son of a federal judge, had killed John F. Gorrell to prevent his kidnaping Miss Virginia Wilcox, it should convict him of murder.

The instruction was given as the southwest's "society murder trial" neared the jury. Counsel for both sides will argue their cases tomorrow.

Lists Two Exceptions.

The judge instructed that "even if John Gorrell had planned and threatened to kidnap Virginia Wilcox for the purpose of extorting money from her father, and was about to carry such plan into execution, nevertheless, the defendant had no right to kill him to prevent the plan being carried out."

Exceptions listed by the judge were self-defense or insanity. These alone would permit acquittal. The jury was instructed that it could find Kennamer guilty of murder, manslaughter, or could acquit him.

Oklahoma juries asses the penalty in murder convictions, and the law permits but two, death in the electric chair or life imprisonment.

Arguments Due Today.

In event the jurors reach a verdict of manslaughter the sentence may be fixed at four years' imprisonment to 99 years or the jury may leave the term to be fixed by the judge.

Tomorrow morning Tom Wallace, assistant Tulsa county prosecutor, will open for the state, and then will come alternate arguments by three defense attorneys and three others of the prosecution. The defense's first argument will be made by A. Flint Moss, chief counsel for Kennamer.

Seventy Bombs Slaughter 20,000 Crows in Roost

SPLIT DECISION MADE IN INSULL INCOME APPEAL

Board Ruling May Cut Tax Claims in Half.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—The United States board of tax appeals today handed down a split decision on the federal government's attempt to collect $255,000 in income taxes from Samuel Insull Sr. and his wife and son.

The board ruled against the Insulls on two points raised by the case and in favor of them on the remaining two points. The decision may reduce the government's income tax claims against the Insulls from $255,000 to approximately half of that amount, Laurence Graves, their attorney, estimated.

Lawyer Predicts Appeal.

Graves also predicted that the three Insulls, Samuel Sr., Margaret, his wife; and Samuel Jr., his son, may appeal their income tax fight to the federal courts in order to have the entire assessment set aside.

Although it knocked out two of the government's important claims against Insull, the tax appeals board did not stipulate exactly how much in back taxes it still believes the Insulls should pay. It ruled only that, on the basis of the decision, the Insulls and the bureau of internal revenue should work out anew the tax liability, subject to approval of the board.

Samuel Insull Sr. has a $198,656 stake in the income tax case. The bureau of internal revenue claims he underpaid his income taxes on his 1929 and 1930 incomes by $176,898. Insull entered a counter claim, insisting that he had actually overpaid $21,758 and bringing the total involved to $198,656.

Wife Seeks $21,135.

Margaret A. Insull, the bureau of internal revenue charges, owes an additional $17,280 in taxes on her 1929 and 1930 incomes. She wants a refund of $3,855, making he total in the case $21,135.

Samuel Insull Jr. was assessed $26,872 in additional taxes on his earnings in 1929 and 1930. He filed a counter claim for a $8,131 rebate, bringing his total to $35,003.

Of the four points involved in the cases, the Insulls won the first two. The board held that the bureau of internal revenue had erred in not allowing the Insulls to deduct from their taxable income certain charitable contributions which they made during 1929 and 1930.

More than a half million dollars was contributed to charitable and educational enterprises by the Insulls during 1929 and 1930, according to their tax returns. Samuel Insull Sr. claimed to have given away $85,600 in 1929 and $365,400 in 1930. Contributions by his wife and son during those two years aggregated over $81,000.

Second Point Won.

The second point won by the Insulls was their insistence that they should not be taxed for paper profits accruing to them when in 1929 they turned over certain of their privately owned securities to Insull Utility Investments, Inc., receiving in payments stocks of a higher value issued by Insull Utility Investment.

The two points lost by the Insulls involved the technical question of whether certain of their stock profits should be taxed as ordinary income or investment profits.

The board overruled the Insull claim that the stock gains were investment profits and held that the higher tax applicable to ordinary income should be assessed on them.

HANGS SELF IN POLICE CELL.

INDIANA HOUSE GETS PLAN FOR A 49TH STATE

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—A plan for a forty-ninth state to be created from northwest Indiana was introduced in the Indiana house of representatives this afternoon

Amid laughter, the military affairs committee of the house made a favorable report on the bill to make Lake county a separate state, and this report was adopted, sending the measure to second reading.

The bill was introduced by Representative James V. Kent Jr., Hillisburg, Democrat.

FIND CUMMINGS AID BACKER OF MELLON CHARGES

Government Persecution, Says Ex-Secretary.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Attorneys for Andrew W. Mellon sought by testimony today to prove their contention that Attorney General Homer D. Cummings forced the $3,089,000 extra income tax assessment against the former secretary of the treasury.

Charles D. Russell, deputy revenue commissioner and the first witness called at a hearing before the board of tax appeals, testified that—for the first time to his knowledge—an assistant in the attorney general's office had passed upon and initialed the letter notifying Mellon of the assessment covering his 1931 income.

Throughout the long drawn proceedings, instituted last March, the banker has charged the government with "political persecution."

Identifies Initials.

Under questioning by Attorney Frank J. Hogan, chief counsel for Mellon, Russell identified the initials, "F. J. W." on copies of the letter brought from his files as those of Frank J. Wideman, an assistant United States attorney general.

Hogan also charged the banker was not given the customary 30 day notice before deficiency in his 1931 income tax was formally announced, but the government attorneys attempted to show notice was unnecessary because of prior personal conferences between D. D. Shepard, Mellon's tax lawyer, and revenue bureau officials.

Russell testified under examination by Hogan that the reason the papers were taken to the attorney general's office before the reassessment notice was merely "to let them know we were prepared to proceed."

Mellon contends not only that he owes the government nothing in delinquent taxes but that he has $139,000 coming because he overpaid them.

Asks for New Accounting.

The present hearing is on Mellon's petition for a redetermination. In his petition he asserted the government "would not have made the determination [for alleged delinquent taxes] nor issued the notice except for the fact the attorney general directed such to be done."

Russell was asked by Attorney Hogan:

"Is it a practice for the attorney general or any one in his office to pass on determination papers like this in your department?"

"No, sir," was the reply.

"Ever happen before?"

"I don't recall that it did."

Mr. Mellon, with a hand rubbing his chin, listened intently from his counsel's table.

"Didn't Mr. Wideman pass on the papers because your department didn't want to take the responsibility?" Hogan continued.

Never Notified, Says Mellon.

The letter in question was dated March 19, 1934. This was two weeks after Attorney General Cummings announced he was going to ask a grand jury indictment on the wealthy banker, who replied immediately he had not even been notified his income was a subject of investigation, "as was usual under the procedure."

CONCLUDE MALOY INQUEST; ADVISE FURTHER INQUIRY

Deputy Coroner James J. Whalen formally closed yesterday the inquest into the slaying of Thomas Maloy, business agent for the Motion Picture Operators' union, who was shot to death in his automobile on the outer drive, near 24th street, on Feb. 4. The coroner's jury held that the labor leader was murdered by persons unknown and recommended continued police investigation. Felix Jablonski, 2744 Pine Grove avenue, a restaurant owner, who was riding several hundred feet behind the killers' car, was the only witness at yesterday's hearing. He said that the assassins mounted the shotgun on a tripod when they fired upon Maloy.

"I thought at first that they were going to take a picture," he said, "until I heard the shots and saw them speed away."

He saw two men in the slayers' car, but asserted he could not identify them. He was unable to obtain the license number of the car.

BEHIND THE CURTAIN.

To the processes which produced the decisions in the gold cases the opinions give no clew. Probably different members of the majority were swayed by different reasons or considerations, such as a disposition to support the administration, a desire to oppose it and incur the consequences, an unwillingness to change the present economic set-up, or a conviction of the impossibility of finding or creating a situation that would not leave matters in a worse condition. Perhaps a future generation will have light thrown upon these interesting and important questions from some one's memoirs. Supreme court secrecy as to how it reached its conclusions will keep this knowledge from our generation.

The decisions made, words had to be found to express and explain them. Are they the words of the chief justice who read the opinions, or those of Brandeis, accounted by some the master mind of the new dispensation, or of Stone or Cardozo? We could understand an unwillingness to acknowledge this literary parentage, for the opinions were not a very good job. But perhaps it was the best that could be done with a problem so difficult, if not, in fact, beyond logical or legal explanation.

At any rate, the rubber dollar has been upheld, if not precisely sanctified. Perhaps, all things considered, it was necessary or at least very urgently expedient. Yet the question remains, Has the Supreme court transformed the constitution into a spineless contortionist, and its guaranties of rights into mere interrogations?

MUCH NEEDED REFORMS.

The revolt against scandal suits is spreading. In Indiana and Ohio women representatives have introduced bills to abolish actions for alienation of affection and breach of promise of marriage. In Illinois Judge Desort with the coöperation of Senator Richey Graham and Representative Adamowski has proposed four conservative measures for the correction of existing abuses in this field of litigation, and it may be hoped this will result in a serious general reconsideration of existing law and procedure dealing with marriage and divorce. And now comes the Bar Association of the City of New York with a proposal to limit suits of breach of promise to those based on written agreements, with damages limited to actual expenses paid or incurred in contemplation of marriage.

The New York proposal is based on the obviously extortionate character of many of these suits. The Indiana legislator would abolish this form of action, relying upon other forms for the recovery of actual material losses and refusing recognition by the law of the fallacy that emotional disappointments can or ought to be compensated in cash. The New York proposal is in harmony with this policy and we think public opinion will strongly support it. All the existing laws which are abused notoriously by unscrupulous individuals for profit in money, or the satisfaction of vengeful feeling, or for an easy living, ought to be cleared away. They are agencies of injustice and of public scandal and they have survived far too long.

VAUDEVILLE CONTRACTS FOR JURORS.

The offer of a vaudeville contract to the members of the Hauptmann jury is, of course, an affront to decency and dignity. Worse still, prospective jurors who ought for one reason or another to disqualify themselves from serving in a particular case will be tempted in future to conceal their prejudices in the hope of obtaining the handsome monetary reward of a vaudeville contract after the trial. Likewise, jurors may be tempted to render verdicts which will be popular at the box office.

Perhaps neither the offer of such a contract nor the acceptance of it constitutes contempt of court, for the trial of Hauptmann is concluded. But certainly the business of turning jury service to private profit does constitute contempt of all courts and all judicial processes. If that kind of thing is permissible there can be no expectation of even-handed justice in cases in which the public interest is widespread and intense.

The behavior of the booking agent and of the jurors who listened to him without indignation is one more illustration of the shocking lack of education in this country in the elements of responsible citizenship in a democracy. Our public school curricula have been devised on the assumption, apparently, that free institutions and a democratic government can be maintained on a foundation no firmer than the hot air of Fourth of July oratory.

Children who have been taught tap dancing but not the history and meaning of the jury system cannot be expected always to have a fitting sense of the solemn obligation which jury duty imposes. They may be pardoned for thinking that justice is not degraded when its officers appear on the same stage with dancing teams.

Our country has managed thus far to ward off tyranny, oppression and their offspring, poverty, in spite of the absence of adequate instruction in our schools in the history and operation of free institutions. The achievement is to be attributed in part to native intelligence, in part to bull luck and in part to the inherent strength of free institutions. Post-war history in Europe and America has shown these defenses to be insufficient. At least a third of our population are blood brothers to those whose native intelligence did not prevent the destruction of human liberty in Germany, Poland, Italy, Hungary, Russia, and the Balkans. Some of these lands had known free institutions but the institutions did not survive of themselves. Nor has our luck been anything of late to exult over.

If we are not to lose some or all of the fruits of 300 years of struggle for human liberty we dare not delay longer in requiring our schoolmen to prepare adequate courses for the instruction of our children in their duties, responsibilities, and rights as American citizens, and our school authorities to see to it that the instruction is loyal and competent. The invitation to the Hauptmann jury stands as a warning.

KEEP AHEAD IN THE AIR.

The first to become established in any field of commerce holds a tremendous advantage. This is as true of aviation as of any other pursuit, and for that reason THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has been concerned that the first air service to Europe should be American—so much so that it is carrying in its Platform for America, "Establish an American Trans-Atlantic Air Service." On the surface of the sea most of the important departures from our ports for Europe are of foreign ownership. Over the sea the first trans-Atlantic liner must be American.

Just how urgent early action may be is clearly demonstrated by the fact that in the British house of commons recently the undersecretary of state for air made the statement that it was his understanding that one flying boat suitable for trans-Atlantic service to the United States via the Azores and Bermuda had been ordered and that preparations for British participation in the project were being pushed as rapidly as possible.

We have been waiting expectantly for a statement that ships of the type operated by the Pan-American Airways will start on European schedules early this coming summer. All America hopes that we will not be disappointed. Let us maintain our air supremacy.

THE TROLLEY ON TRIAL.

In a recent radio speech Mayor La Guardia of New York asserted that "trolleys are as dead as sailing ships," thus adding the title of seer to his other accomplishments; though at the same time there were more passengers riding on street cars within the area of Greater New York than in Chicago and very likely more than were riding in New York street cars a year ago.

Of course, conditions on Manhattan Island are not comparable with conditions in Chicago, nor for that matter in other sections of Greater New York. Manhattan uses its rapid transit lines and its subways, while its street cars, and buses too, crawl along the crowded thoroughfare at snail's pace. The street cars have fallen into disuse because when a New Yorker is in a hurry to get from one point to another on Manhattan Island he will, if he is wise, walk.

Continuing his radio address Mr. La Guardia referred to his comprehensive plan that will provide for limited profits by operating companies with a provision for "the final retirement of the investment in order to give New York within a few years complete ownership and operation of all its traction systems." May prompt action by the officials of Chicago's Surface Lines protect Chicago from a similar fate.

Editorial of the Day

REVIVING FOREIGN TRADE.

[Grand Rapids Press.]

Trade agreements with twelve nations are under negotiation in Washington for the ultimate purpose of increasing employment in this country. Any treaties that may be made—and two have been concluded—will not require ratification by the senate. Several months ago congress granted President Roosevelt the right to arrange trade pacts on his own responsibility.

This act recognized that the success of the negotiations would depend largely on our willingness to lower certain tarif barriers against foreign imports. While it concentrates much power in the hands of the President, it also discourages industries that have received super-protection for years from interfering in behalf of their own interests. The special committee writing the agreements is much harder to approach than senators, who in the past have had the power of approval. Many of these industries which deserved protection in their infancy are now hiding their beards and refusing to stand on their own feet in world competition.

With the decrease in our exports from 1.7 billions in 1929 to 490 millions in 1933 it has become evident that the "overproduction" in our domestic market has come about partly because our surplus products have remained at home. Those persons who urge economic self-containment by pointing out that we usually absorb 92 per cent of all we produce overlook the significance of foreign trade. In some lines—wheat, cotton, automobiles, and oil preëminently—we produce much more than we can consume. If we can't sell the excess abroad we make these producers confine themselves to supplying domestic needs. As a result the purchasing power of a large group is cut by as much as 40 per cent.

The revival of our foreign trade can do much to hasten recovery. Manufacturers should understand, however, that in order to export we must import. Secretary of State Hull, who is represented on the committee, is doing some intelligent bargaining with foreign countries. The agreement with Brazil was based on our acceptance of coffee duty free and Brazil's purchase of American cotton.

With other nations it may be necessary, in order to sell American products, to admit without a tarif products of theirs which they can make cheaper than we can. Then the domestic industries affected by the imports will yell for protection. The committee has adopted a policy of "selective imports" in order not to destroy companies that employ large numbers of men. Between an industry that has reduced its employment because it can't sell abroad and an industry that will have to discharge many workers if foreign produots compete with it, the problem is to determine which one employs more men. Undoubtedly the consumer deserves a hearing, too. He may say that he is interested in prices and that if the domestic producer won't lower his prices to compete at a fair tarif rate he ought to quit business.

The important principle underlying all the negotiations is that trade must move. Only by active exchange will prices and wages ever reach a proper relationship.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

SOMETIMES WE WAKE UP suddenly and find out that this now machine age has its good points. I have always wept because I couldn't have a gin fizz such as I used to get at Ramos' famous bar down in ole New Ohleens in the pre-prohibition days. But Mr. Ramos had fifteen highly trained and very athletic Africans lined up behind the bar and after the barkeep with many flourishes had put the juice of half a lemon into a tall tumbler, a half tablespoonful of powdered sugar, the white of an egg, a glass of dry gin, three deft dashes of Fleur de Orange and a tablespoonful of sweet cream he handed it to one of the African athletes, who thereupon shook it for fifteen minutes. And if the African athlete seemed to grow weary in his labor the barkeep would say to him in a very sharp voice, "Heah, yo trifiin' skunk, Ah sed, shake that gin fizz. Ah didn't say nothin' 'bout rockin' hit ter sleep. Shake hit, yo' black splinter o' hell's midnight, SHAKE HIT!" Whereupon the African athlete would come to life and how he would shake that gin fizz. Then the barkeep would take it back, pour it into another tall tumbler and shoot a stream from the siphon soda bottle into it. Ah, that was indeed a gin fizz! The most delectable gin fizz in all the great wide world. I've tried many times to make a New Orleans gin fizz such as I got at Ramos', but I never could. I used to regret that I didn't live in those delectable days before the very regrettable War Between the States. I would have owned one slave who wouldn't have done anything all day long but shake up New Orleans gin fizzes. But the other day I tried it again when the neighbors came in. "Oh," said they, "that's too much like hard work. Wait a minute. Let us bring over our electric beater." And so they brought in a contraption and plugged it into a wall socket and turned it loose. And what a New Orleans gin fizz that was. Mr. Ramos in his best days never turned out anything better than that. I wonder where that electrical egg beater has been all my life, anyhow? I'm going to watch these inventors more closely. Maybe they've got something that will write paragraphs for me and pick out the best poems the contributors send in. I'm going around to the shop right away and find out.

GULLS.

There is a torment in the hearts of gulls
That makes the seeking wildness in their eyes . . .
Swift hunger twisting through each wing that pulls
The eager body through unquiet skies.
The heart continually compels the search
Instinctively each bird's sure heritage,
For which he flings his white weight out, to lurch
Of water with bright wings. In their sharp crying
There is the slow ache of deliberate seas.
Gulls are at home in space, whether they're flying
Low into the spray, or climbing surfs of trees.
No bay curves far enough. Where both blues meet,
Gulls yearn for skies their wings will never beat.

TWENTY-EIGHT THOUSAND WORDS in the Supreme court gold decision. Quite a good sized book, but it will never be a best seller; no sex in it, and no dark suspicion that the lovely young widow, her pious old auntie or her jovial Uncle Henry killed old Miser Skinflint. And the worst thing about the Supreme court's masterpiece is that the reader knows how it comes out even before he reads the first chapter. What chance has a book like that got? Not any.

THE SUPREME COURT gold decision nothing! Something happened in the world yesterday that is much more important to one and all. San Francisco reports that hot dogs went up from a nickel to six cents and hamburger from a dime to eleven cents. Wow! Bow wow! Even if the Supreme court had declared that borrowed gold must be paid in gold that wouldn't bother many of us. But six cents for a hot dog and eleven cents for hamburger. That hits us every one, and hits us hard. Wow! Bow wow!

AND NOW AN AUSTRIAN professor bobs up and says he found a chemical which he declares from extensive experimentation will restore youth. What, turn back to childhood days again and have sixty or seventy years before us of the machine age and the New Deal and crooners and the fear of hit-and-run drivers and currency inflation and people calling us up on the telephone and saying, "Guess-who-this-is," and postcards from Miami and Loz Onglize saying, "Having-grand-time-wish-you-were-here." And sixty or seventy years before us to be told every night by the radio what tooth paste to use. And to walk around and meet police dogs without leashes on. No, if that Austrian prof. comes around me with his darned old elixir of youth I'll give him a swift kick in the pants. I know when I've had enough.

MOTHER IN IDLENESS.

When I am old I'll sit at home,
And sleep, and rest and think.
I shall have ginger bread to eat,
And tamarind to drink.

I'll show my friends the kitchen,
With pride and smiling face;
As they exclaim with lifted hands:
"Oh! What a tidy place!"

And I shall rent the orchard,
The barn and garden, too,
In order that when I am old
I'll not have much to do,

But lean against a window pane,
And watch the snow that falls—
And listen to the little mice
That nest within my walls.

TREATMENT OF DIABETES. PART I.

DIABETES is a very old disease and throughout the years has handicapped hundreds of thousands of persons. The ancient writer Cornelius Celsus is said to have mentioned it, and in the fifth century a Hindu physician described what he called "honey urine."

It was not until 1675, however, that Thomas Willis, a celebrated English physician and anatomist, associated "sweet urine" with the disease. Numerous writers following Willis noted the symptoms of extreme thirst, foul breath, frequent urination, fatigue, loss of weight, and the occurrence of boils—all accompanying the presence of sugar in the urine. In 1889 research workers proved that the condition was associated with the pancreas, inasmuch as the removal of the gland was followed by diabetes.

The pancreas is a gland that produces two secretions. It has been known for centuries that one of these is a secretion rich in digestive ferments that is poured into the intestine. Only recently has the true nature of the second secretion been described. This is the one that governs the use of sugar in the body. Sir Frederick G. Banting of the University of Toronto, assisted by a young medical student, Charles A. Best, succeeded in preparing an extract of this secretion. They named it insulin.

Insulin does not reach the intestine. It is formed by certain cells of the pancreas and enters the blood directly and hence is known as an endocrine product (endocrine secretions pass directly into the blood or lymph).

This important endocrine produced by the pancreas is prepared from fresh beef glands, is carefully purified and standardized, and is now used when the pancreas fails to secrete this vital substance. The standardization has been so exact that it is now known that one unit of insulin can govern the burning or digestion (metabolism) of from one to two grams of carbohydrates (starches and sugars).

The management of a case of diabetes requires complete coöperation between patient and physician. An attempt is made to adjust the carbohydrates in the diet so that the patient will be sufficiently nourished and at the same time sugar will not appear in the urine nor be unduly high in the blood. By means of insulin this can be done. Numerous test diets may have to be tried and finally a proper balance between carbohydrates, proteins, and fats will be determined. The diabetic diet cannot be guesswork. Food must be weighed accurately. Scales are obtainable with a revolving dial, and soon the patient will learn a rapid method of computing needed food quantities exactly.

Insulin must be administered by means of a hypodermic needle. When injected under the skin it is absorbed by the circulation. If taken by mouth it would be destroyed in the digestive tract and would have no effect whatever. Patients easily learn how to use a hypodermic syringe, how to sterilize it, together with the needle, and how much insulin to use in relation to the diet. Many are able to test the urine. The most accurate method of determining the condition of the patient is to check the amount of sugar in the blood, and diabetics are taught how to withdraw a few drops of blood from a finger, collect them in a proper container, and send the specimen to a laboratory.

If the pancreas cannot produce a sufficient amount of insulin the individual undergoes starvation; that is, he is not able to utilize an important part of his food—namely, carbohydrates. Introducing insulin hypodermically provides the necessary substance so that carbohydrates can be utilized (burned) by the body.

The discussion of diabetes will be concluded tomorrow.

MAY BE ULCERS.

R. P. T. writes: At times I pass blood in my urine. What is the cause? I am 62 years old.

REPLY.

Blood is probably coming from an ulcerated area somewhere along the urinary tract—bladder, ureters, kidneys. Inflammation of the bladder is usually accompanied by considerable pain at the time of urination. Stone in the kidney and tuberculosis are other causes.

HE SURVIVED.

D. I. writes: I was much interested in your articles on grandmother's remedies. At an early age I was a rebellious victim of all you stated and more, too. I did not miss anything from smartweed tea to nanny berry tea. I wore a hemp rope around my body to keep mumps from wandering.

REPLY.

And you survived!

MINERAL OIL.

F. S. writes: Is it harmful to take mineral oil regularly? What about the wax?

REPLY.

Probably not. Even though you swallow paraffin wax it will pass through the intestinal tract undigested.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—The old châteaux of France—chief attraction for the visitor from abroad—and their silver, and gold, and porcelain and other art treasures are threatened with destruction. A wave of incendiarism and robbery has within the last few months wiped out or pilfered more than twenty of them. The epidemic is so persistent that French society is alarmed and alleges that it must be the work of an organized band.

Within the last few weeks fire or robbery has visited the châteaux of Dampierre, d'Artagnan, de la Gaudinière, de la Gorge, du Plaix, de Courances, and de Varaville.

The château of De Varaville, near Caen, Normandy, is the most recent sensational example. It was destroyed by fire in mysterious circumstances. With the château went up in flames several splendid collections of art and a great library. The loss was more than $350,000.

The first explanation of the fire was that an ember from a fireplace—these châteaux are still archaically heated and lighted for the most part—had rolled out on the floor and set fire to the place.

Another suggestion is that candles or kerosene lamps—most of the châteaux have electric lighting, but many still do not—may be to blame for the epidemic. Yet another is that the heating systems are antiquated. Still another is that the châteaux are usually so far from towns with fire apparatus that when fire occurs there is no possibility of fighting it.

It should be added that in the case of the recent Château de Varaville fire the blaze suspected of being started by an ember rolling out of the old fashioned fireplace found immediate inflammable material in a supply of high powered brandy.

But the fireplace fire which is officially blamed for the burning down of the château should have been pretty well out at 3 o'clock in the morning, in the opinion of the aroused Paris press.

The war on the châteaux is not confined to fires. It includes numerous robberies. The château of the Marquis de Ganay at Coutances was recently robbed of more than $6,000 worth of silverware. The château at Dampierre recently lost more than $20,000 worth of jewelry and art objects.

Other robberies occurred at Grobois, Villaudry, Rosny, Cheverny, Ancy-le-Franc, Taulay, Ormesson, Ferrieres, and Saint Fargeau. Many of these were set afire after being robbed, the purpose being presumably to obliterate the evidences of robbery.

All efforts to catch the perpetrators have so far been unsuccessful. M. Carvallo, president of the committee which busies itself with the preservation of French historic buildings, has filed a vigorous complaint with the police and the surete generale—French Scotland Yard—has launched out in a widespread investigation.

STATUS OF LOAN.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In 1929 I loaned $550 to a person. This person has a house on which there is a first and second mortgage. I asked for a new receipt but was refused. It is now six years since the loan was made and I am afraid the receipts are too old. 1. Can I make them sign a new receipt? 2. How many years is a receipt good? My mother holds the second $3,000 mortgage on the same house, and they also refuse to give her new papers. Another man holds a $6,000 first mortgage. 3. Can the first mortgage owner take the house over without letting the second mortgage owner know? 4. What can mother do to have her papers straightened out? 5. Does she have to pay the fee for renewing the second mortgage? G. N.

1. You can bring suit on your present obligation. The question whether the receipt is sufficient to take the case out of the five year statute applicable to oral agreements would depend on the wording of the receipt.
2. See 1.
3. The equity owner could convey to the first mortgage holder without notifying the second mortgage holder, if that is what you mean to ask.
4. In general, the only way for a second mortgage holder to enforce his rights against the first mortgage holder is by taking up the first mortgage.
5. The mortgage holder is under no obligation to renew. This is another way of saying that he can name the terms on which he is willing to renew.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.

The voice of birds is produced entirely by the "syrinx" or voice box, and the tongue appears to have no part whatever in it. Thus it is both cruel and absurd for people to slit the tongue of a crow or any other bird in the belief that this will improve the "talking" of the bird.

GRATEFUL TO THE PRESIDENT.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—In the midst of criticism I would be ungrateful if I did not arise with a word of gratefulness to our President. I have been a lifelong Republican and voted for Hoover, but Franklin D. R. saved my home.

A morigage held by a local bank was up for renewal, but just at that time I was unable to clean up taxes and pay the interest, and, although I pleaded for time, was informed bluntly the unpaid bills must be paid or no renewal. Although for 20 years I had paid all bills promptly when due at this bank, their hard-hearted attitude to me was disheartening.

Then word came from Washington they had granted a certain home loan on a home in which I held a valid claim for interest and taxes paid by the writer on said property, recorded by a second mortgage of mine. I consider this an act of Providence through our benefactor, F. D. R. N. W. H.

WORDS VS. DEEDS.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 16.—I wonder how many people saved any or all of Franklin D. Roosevelt's 1932 campaign speeches. In them were many solemn warnings about "unprecedented deficits," "reckless and extravagant pace" of government spending, "centering the control of everything in Washington," etc., and promises of reduction of 25 per cent in government operation costs, a job for every man, increase in foreign trade, etc., etc., ad infinitum.

For instance, read the following which is taken from Candidate Franklin D.'s campaign speech in Pittsburgh, Oct. 20, 1932:

"What I should like to do is to reduce the problem of our national finances to the terms of a family budget. Now the credit of the family depends chiefly on whether that family is living within its income. And this is so of the nation. If the nation is living within its income, its credit is good. But if, like a spendthrift, it throws discretion to the winds, is willing to make no sacrifice at all in spending, extends its taxing to the limit of the people's power to pay and continues to pile up deficits, it is on the road to bankruptcy.

"I regard reduction in federal spending as one of the most important issues in this campaign. In my opinion, it is the most direct and effective contribution that government can make to business."

Already this same Candidate Roosevelt, as President, has sent the national debt to new heights and in addition he now wants nearly 5 billion dollars more to spend just as he pleases. Where is there any justification for confidence in such an "about face" individual, no matter how small or great the office he holds? HELEN GOLDIE.

A TURN TO THE RIGHT!

Chicago, Feb. 16.—Roosevelt is bright enough to sense, in part at least, the damage his cracked brain advisers have caused to him and the party, and he has just a scant year left to mend his ways. The present spell of executive inactivity, with the world court as a smoke screen, may presage a few sane gestures toward genuine relief from present conditions. HOPEFUL.

LIFE IN THE COUNTRY.

Weldon, Ill., Feb. 13.—An imprudent salesman has just made the technical error of extoling the virtues of my colleagues in a nearby city as compared with those or country doctors. In a recent issue of THE TRIBUNE Dean Pound stated that the era of Main Streetism is passing. Sinclair Lewis' novels, while only partly correct, are yet cross-sections of a rather popular point of view. And everywhere one gathers that the complacency of the city dweller is enhanced by an increasing contempt for the country as a permanent place in which to work and live.

That the country, in times past, has been inferior to the city, both materially and mentally, I will not dispute. Lack of wide contacts such as are obtainable in crowded cities necessarily made the country outlook very limited indeed. Yokels and bumpkins were perhaps the rule. But now I wonder if the situation has not changed. Rapid transportation, good pavements, radio, telephone, good libraries and schools, and metropolitan newspapers have placed the little hamlet in touch with the world at large. Professional meetings, postgraduate courses, the theater, music, and hospitals are now within an hour's drive of almost any village in the middle west.

Space will permit me only to mention as assets of the country the quieter life, the close friendships, the simple outdoor pleasures, the jests of nonpernicious gossip, the pleasant summers, the true democracy, the honesty and good humor of the people, and the place of importance that each individual holds in the community.

The depression has, in a sense, created an opportunity for the progressive individual by opening his eyes to the opportunities of the small town. I believe we are procuring a more capable group of workers in the small town than we did years ago. Whereas competition, much of it unfair, is making the city uninhabitable, in some small town there is a place for any man who has ability in his particular vocation. Competition is small, one's territory large, one's contacts friendly, and one's friendships great. Perhaps Cæsar was right:

"Better to be first in the little village of Ithaca than second in Rome!"

HERMAN L. MELTZER, M. D.

LIFE IN THE GOLDFISH BOWL.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—I want to add my protest to the many you are doubtless receiving against the treasury department's requirement of form 1094 displaying to the public income figures that are wholly private to the individual. This will expose every one to the importunities of racketeers of all kinds and degree and impose unending embarrassment. Honest citizens do not object to giving necessary and legitimate information to the government, but no good purpose can be served by making public display of it. I subscribe to the efforts of the Sentinels of the Republic and others to have this provision of the revenue act repealed, and if possible to have its enforcement on March 15, 1935, postponed until the repeal can be accomplished. J. K. PRENTICE.

PREFERENCE EXPRESSED.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—Headline in THE TRIBUNE reads: "$250 seats to see King of England offered for sale." Shucks, I'd rather attend a Democratic meeting where I could sleep and know for sure I wasn't missing anything of interest. W. C. H.

ELEVATOR UNION REBELS IN N. Y. PERIL NEW PEACE

Insurgents Call Scattered Walkouts Over City.

New York, Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Scattered strikes, lockouts, and confusion prevailed today in the city-wide building service labor dispute while employers and union leaders sought to abide by the terms of a six months' armistice, signed early this morning in Mayor La Guardia's office after eighteen hours of continuous discussion.

The threat of a paralyzing general strike of elevator operators and others in office buildings and apartment houses was removed, at least temporarily, by the agreement, but only a few hours had passed before "independents" emerged in the ranks of both employers and employés.

The Walter J. Salmon interests, operating three skyscrapers at 5th avenue and 42d street, scene of much confusion during yesterday's demonstration strike in more than 100 buildings, undertook to oppose the union with strike breakers and armed guards.

Insurgents Among Labor.

On the other hand, union leaders saw signs of insurgency among some of the members and impatient threats of unauthorized sectional strikes were made.

Clifford McLeod, chairman of the Harlem council of the union, blandly announced he had "temporarily suspended all connections with our main body," and proposed to "pull out the men on at least forty buildings immediately."

George J. Troy, Brooklyn leader, voiced fears of unauthorized strike action in that borough.

"I am afraid of a strike without warning," he said. "We are making every effort to prevent such an occurrence. We want no radicals to take advantage of the psychology of our members at this time."

Strike Threat in Bronx.

In the Bronx there loomed the threat of a general strike by 14,000 union members before the week-end as Louis Cooper, president of the Bronx local, called a mass meeting for a strike vote.

Mr. Cooper charged that the Bronx real estate board had ignored his requests for a conference, while Charles E. Reid, executive vice president of the board, declared the organization had no jurisdiction in such matters, maintaining that the union would have to deal with individual owners and agents.

At the central headquarters, 1450 Broadway, David Richey, chairman of the strike committee, was trying to get yesterday's strikers back on their jobs. Adding to the uncertainty of the situation, he announced the union held that it still has the right to strike against any owner who has refused to sign an agreement to abide by the disputed award of the mayor's arbitration committee.

WRITER TO DUEL FILM CHIEF OVER MOVIE CRITICISM

PARIS, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Bertrand de Jouvenel, critic, laid down the pen and took up the sword tonight as he made ready to defend on the field of honor the wisecracks he wrote about Julien Duvivier's unfinished movie.

A duel at dawn Friday was in prospect unless seconds for the writer and the film director come to the conclusion that the former's professional dignity had not been impaired by Duvivier's published complaint that "he lied" in making fun of the film.

In sending his seconds to the director, Jouvenel asserted he was defending the "newspaper man's right to describe what he sees." Duvivier questioned the propriety of his commenting on one scene before seeing the finished work.

Policeman Kills Self by Shooting in Home

Policeman Otto Link, 37 years old, 1811 West 71st street, shot and killed himself last night at his home. He had been despondent over illness. Link was formerly assigned to the Brighton Park district, but was transferred to the vehicle bureau more than a year ago. Surviving are his widow, a son, and a daughter.

NEW YORK MARKS UP A WHOLE DAY WITHOUT CRIME

New York, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The largest city in the world today marked up 24 hours without a major crime.

Assistant Chief Inspector John J. Sullivan said he was at once "surprised and puzzled" that for 24 hours preceding 8 a. m. police reported there was no major crime in New York City.

"We haven't had any such peace for more than two years," he commented.

APPEAL TO GIVE MONTHS' RESPITE TO HAUPTMANN

He Is Sure to Live Until Autumn at Least.

New York, Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Bruno Hauptmann will not die during the week of March 18. He cannot be electrocuted before September at the earliest. By denial of his appeal to the Supreme court Hauptmann's case goes to the Court of Errors and Appeals, with still further recourse to the Court of Pardons. The Court of Errors and Appeals will hear Hauptmann's case some time after May 21.

Hauptmann was sentenced to die as the killer of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. after trial in the court of oyer and terminer. The next step is an application for a writ of grace, an application for a review of the entire conviction by the Supreme court. Only in six such instances has that been granted in the history of the state. Today Chancellor Campbell denied it, as expected.

The next step is an application for a writ of error, to which Hauptmann is entitled, "as a matter of right," putting the case before the Court of Errors and Appeals.

In connection with the appeal Hauptmann has signed a "pauper's oath" because his only funds are tied up by a federal income tax lien filed against his brokerage account in which Hauptmann's equity is estimated at $10,000.

Although Reilly had no part in today's activities in behalf of the condemned man, he is not entirely out of the picture. All indications were, however, that C. Lloyd Fisher and the other New Jersey associates probably would proceed with the appeal.

Fisher says he is chief counsel now that Edward J. Reilly is out. He says he has written authority from Hauptmann.

Reilly says he still is chief counsel. He concludes all discussion with the phrase, "Ask Annie." [Mrs. Hauptmann]. Reilly still enjoys her confidence, even if he doesn't enjoy her husband's. Fisher says that only $68 have been subscribed.

SCOTTISH TOWN VOTES TO IGNORE KING'S JUBILEE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 19.—While the rest of Great Britain will celebrate the silver jubilee of King George on May 6, the 79,000 inhabitants of the Scottish shipbuilding and manufacturing town of Greenock, Renfrewshire, will carry on their daily round without so much as waving a flag.

The town council of Greenock today decided by a vote of 15 to 9 to ignore the jubilee. The Socialist aldermen, who hold a majority on the council, were indignant over proposals for widespread celebrations while the town is suffering severely from unemployment.

PUT STREAMLINE LOCOMOTIVE INTO REGULAR SERVICE

The New York Central's streamlined steam locomotive went into regular service between Chicago and Toledo yesterday when it took out the first section of the Twentieth Century at 2:15 p. m. on the three hour and fiftey-seven minute run.

The locomotive, which develops 4,075 horse power and has a speed of from seventy to ninety miles an hour, will not shorten the time between the two points, but is expected to reduce air resistance 35 per cent and thus cut operating costs.

It is expected that the locomotive, built in the West Albany shops of the New York Central lines, will be given speed tests in the spring, said T. W. Evans, vice president in charge of the Chicago offices. A second streamlined locomotive is now being completed in the West Albany shops and will be placed in service on an eastern run.

NAZIS PREPARE CHOPPING BLOCK FOR 2 MEN SPIES

Identity Secret; Graves for Women Nameless.

[Copyright; 1935; By the Associated Press.]

BERLIN, Feb. 20 (Wednesday).—Two men, one a former naval technician, caught in the ever-tightening reichswehr (army) espionage net, are marked to follow the two women spies who lost their heads Monday on the block at Ploetzensee prison, it was learned today. The names of the two men and the time of execution are to be announced later.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 19.—The most prominent undertaker in Berlin today sought a burial ground for the two noblewomen, Baroness Benita von Berg and Renate von Natzmer, who were beheaded yesterday as spies for Poland. Prison authorities released the bodies, and they were taken from Ploetzensee prison.

Nazi officials ruled that their graves must be nameless, stoneless and in unhallowed ground. They will delegate a squad of detectives to supervise the interment, to see that only three or at the most four of the closest relatives of the executed women attend. No speeches will be permitted.

May Seal Graves Today.

The detectives will be present until the graves are sealed in secret some time tomorrow or the day after.

While the bodies of the women were awaiting burial, Capt. Baron Yurek [George] von Sosnowski, master spy of Poland whom the executed women served, is in a Berlin prison awaiting transfer to a provincial jail. Von Sosnowski and a third woman, Irene von Jena, were sentenced to imprisonment for life by the "People's" court for their activities against Germany.

Diplomatic circles in Berlin assert that the Polish ambassador, Josef Lipski, who helped frame the German-Polish peace agreement, made only routine gestures to protect his countryman and the women who worked for Poland, fearing that he might upset the Polish-German entente.

Prosecutor General Parisius, who was loudest in the cry for the death sentences in the reichstag fire trial and the Von Sosnowski trial, had to attend the execution of the women. Friends who saw him today assert he is on the verge of a nervous breakdown. They understand that the courage the women spies showed in facing death moved him deeply.

Tells Story of Beheading.

[Copyright; 1935; By the Associated Press.]

BERLIN, Feb. 19.—Two women spies of Berlin society who were beheaded here early yesterday died silently and without show of emotion.

An eye witness to the execution of beautiful Baroness Benita von Berg, divorced wife of Richard Falkenhayn, son of Gen. Erich von Falkenhayn of world war fame, and Renate von Natzmer, said today:

"What impressed us most about the two women's behavior during their last minutes of life was that neither one of them murmured a single word."

Both went to their death with outward calm and bravery, he said, their bodies erect, their heads held high.

The execution of the two, charged with betraying Germany's military secrets, took only six minutes, the informant said.

"Frau von Falkenhayn [the baroness] was the first," he related. "When she was led into the lights, she walked first to the improvised stand for the jury which was witnessing the affair. Both her hands were chained on her back. She stood there and heard once more the verdict of death read aloud by the state prosecutor.

"Bowing before a crucifix on a table dimly lit by tall wax candles, the prosecutor surrendered Frau von Falkenhayn to the executioner with the words:

"'Executioner, do your duty.'

Walks Rigidly Erect.

"This woman should be an example to male delinquents whom we usually have to drag to the scaffold," the informant said.

After the executioner, 67 year old August Griebler of Magdeburg, and his three assistants beheaded the woman with a medieval battleax, her body was placed in its simple, black, narrow coffin, and Frau Von Natzmer, whom the eye witness described as "an extremely good looking person about 35 years old," went to her death in equal calm.

Employed in Foreign Office.

The informant said the two women, both of whom were employed in the foreign office, and not, as previously reported, in the reichswehr [regular army] ministry, were taken to Ploetzenses prison at 6 p. m. Saturday, "one hour after the death verdict was passed," he said. "Nobody ever dreamed they would be decapitated so soon."

"Not until Sunday night did we learn that the beheading would take place Monday. The executioner and his assistants arrived late Sunday night and the scaffold was erected during the night."

Disclosing that the two women spent their last hours drinking wine and coffee and "smoking uncountable expensive cigarets," the eye witness said they wore blue prison garments to their death. They also had to wear "short, heavy, woolen socks for men," he added, "because the prison has no women's wear."

Edward C. Hildreth Dies in Wilmette of Pneumonia

Edward Carpenter Hildreth, 38 years old, personnel manager of Montgomery Ward & Co. for the last three years, died yesterday of pneumonia in his home at 2006 Beachwood avenue, Wilmette. For nine years until 1931 Mr. Hildreth was general service manager of the U. S. Gypsum company. He was born in Colorado Springs, Colo., and educated at Beloit college. Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Margaret Owen Hildreth, and two sons, Owen Richard and Edward Jr.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Had a Good Day

ASK ACCOUNTING OF RICH WIDOW'S $650,000 ESTATE

State Acts to Clear Charity Bequest.

Clarence S. Ruddy, assistant attorney general of Illinois, yesterday filed in the Probate court of Kane county at Geneva a petition requesting that William George, former Aurora banker, be required to give an accounting of the estate of Mrs. Fanny Bishop Henderson.

Mrs. Henderson, a widow, who died in 1931 at the age of 77, left property valued at $650,000 for the establishment of an old people's home in Aurora and named George as trustee.

The action, which Mr. Ruddy announced was authorized by Attorney General Kerner, is only one of a series of court battles that have developed over the estate of Mrs. Henderson, whose father was at one time mayor of Aurora.

Halt Work on Home.

An attempt to break the will was made by five cousins of Mrs. Henderson, but in October, 1933, her competency was upheld by Judge Frank Shepherd and the will validated. Then all steps toward building the old folks' home as ordered by the document were halted by the filing of another suit by Attorney Lionel R. Barbour of Detroit.

He advanced the claim that he had been united in a common law marriage with Mrs. Henderson when she visited Detroit in the summer of 1925. At that time the widow was 71 years old and Barbour was 31. In spite of this disparity, according to Barbour, they went to Havana on a honeymoon.

His petition asking that he be declared legally the husband, and consequently the possessor of dower rights in the estate, was first filed in the Kane county Probate court before the relatives made their fruitless effort to have the will set aside.

In this action Barbour asserted that Mrs. Henderson had made a will in 1928, naming him the sole heir, but that this had been destroyed. The testament ordering the establishment of the home in Aurora was dated in 1922.

At his own request, the attorney's petition was dismissed by the Kane county Probate court. On Aug. 8, 1934, he filed suit in the federal court here to obtain dower rights.

U. S. Court Trial in June.

The trial was delayed to allow the trustee and the claimant to take depositions of witnesses in Detroit, Cobourg, Ont., and Buffalo, in regard to the alleged marriage. It is expected that the trial will come up in June.

The will of Mrs. Henderson gave Mr. George, who was formerly president of the Second National bank of Aurora, full power to handle the assets. It was the contention of Assistant Attorney General Ruddy, in the petition filed yesterday, that since the estate was bequeathed for a charitable purpose, Mr. George should be ordered to make an accounting and also to file a bond of $1,600,000. Arguments on the petition will be heard tomorrow afternoon.

ACCIDENTAL SHOT HITS HOST, THEN SOLVES ROBBERY

The burglary of a barber shop adjoining the New City police station at 1702 West 47th street on Monday night was solved last night with the accidental shooting of Adam Shaewich, 18 years old, 4930 South Honore street. He was shot while in the basement of his home by a pistol in the hand of Robert Barnes, 18 years old, 1736 West 47th street. Under questioning by police, Barnes admitted the gun was stolen from the barber shop. He named Matthew Szczepanski, 19 years old, 4932 Lafin street, as his accomplice, and the latter also confessed. Police said Shaewich, who was taken to the County hospital in a serious condition, was not implicated.

Child's Mystery Death Investigated by Coroner

An investigation was begun last night by the coroner's office into the death yesterday of Mary Fudala, 8 years old, 1714 West 21st place, who died supposedly from some poison contained in a piece of candy. She became ill on Tuesday. Her 6 year old brother, John, is seriously ill at the county hospital, apparently from the same cause, police said.

Fall Injuries Prove Fatal to Dr. William J. Decorse

Hagerstown, Md., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Dr. William J. Decorse, 66, formerly of Chicago and New York, died in a hospital here last night of injuries suffered in a fall a month ago. He had moved here two years ago. Burial will be in Chicago.

New Wills Filed

The following wills were admitted to probate yesterday and filed with Clerk Mitchell C. Robin:

BEN M. JACKSON, died Feb. 13. Estate $5,000 to widow and brother. Austin State bank, executor.

MATEJ SEDIVY, died Dec. 27. Estate $5,000 to five daughters and three sons. John Sedivy, son, executor.

THEODORE TENBUSCH, died Jan. 16. Estate $6,000 to two sons and daughter. Alma Bull, daughter, executrix.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, two of the few great names of the stage who have not yet tackled radio, may yield this spring to the call of the microphone. Alice Duer Miller is writing a series of programs to star the Lunts. Alexander Woollcott, the Town Crier of CBS, is said to be behind the project. The Lunts are among this reconteur's intimate friends and he is said to have persuaded them that they might do well on the air.

For the first time in history the entire cabinet will participate in a broadcast March 4 when CBS is to present a two hour review of the first two years of Franklin D. Roosevelt's administration. All cabinet members, together with Vice President Garner and Speaker Joseph W. Byrns, will be presented from their offices. Announcers will be on hand to introduce and in some instances to interview them. Secretary of State Hull will lead off.

Those identification discs passed out by the sponsors of Little Orphan Annie enabled Hudson avenue police yesterday to return a bewildered youngster to her home. On the wrist of a child who had wandered too far from home they found a metal tag bearing a number and the name of the Wander company, the sponsors, who maintain an identification bureau. On calling the bureau they found the girl was Marion Wager, 1859 Burling street.

Eddie Cantor, who doesn't need the money, won a $1,000 bet from a friend this week. He wagered that at the end of eight weeks he would be leading all other radio programs according to a standard listeners' survey. He's at the top after his second week on the air, according to this poll. Comparative ratings for the first three are: Cantor, 40.2; Show Boat, 38.1, and Rudy Vallee, 36.5.

Cantor is using real pies, according to a press release, to hurl at Parkyakakas during his shows; which is all very fine for the studio audience but so far as listeners are concerned that is an item that could just as well be handled by the sound effects department, if not omitted altogether.

Though broadcasting law forbids person to person communication, several artists do indulge in this practice. John Charles Thomas always closes his broadcasts with the words, "Good Night, Mother." Recently Grace Moore, singing a song for Thomas, expressed her hope to him that he might soon recover from his illness. And last week Lawrence Tibbett, before singing a Vincent Youman's number, addressed a cheery message to the composer, who is recuperating in Denver.

ETHIOPIA WARNED ITALY READY FOR STRONGER ACTION

Il Duce Rejects Conditions for Neutral Zone.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Feb. 19.—Ethiopia's conditions for establishment of a neutral zone along the borders of Italian Somaliland are unacceptable and Italy may be forced to take stronger measures, an Italian government spokesman announced today.

The spokesman denied that an agreement had been effected for establishment of a neutral zone and boundary commission, as had been announced from Addis Ababa, capital of Ethiopia.

One condition may be accepted, he said, "that nomad tribes shall have the right to use wells and cross through the border zone for the needs of their cattle. There can be no question of a neutral zone until the Ethiopians have evacuated the places they have occupied. Our precautionary measures do not seem to have affected them in any way."

Four Hundred Artisans Sail.

The occupations apparently refer to the Ualual, Gerlogubi, and Afdub area, where Italians charge Ethiopians attacked them on Dec. 5, Jan. 29, and Feb. 2. The "precautionary measures" are taken to mean Italy's strengthening of all forces and equipment in its colonies of Eritrea and Somaliland and the troop mobilization in Italy.

Negotiations with Addis Ababa are continuing the spokesman said. At the same time the flow of the Italian expedition to Africa continues. Today 400 skilled laborers followed the 2,000 Black Shirt militia who sailed yesterday from Naples.

To the outspoken notes from Addis Ababa which have irritated Premier Mussolini was added another today which assailed Italy for sending "boisterous" troops to Eritrea and Somaliland. Ethiopia, said the public release, is guided by a pacific spirit and will not follow Italy's example.

Desire for Pressure.

The movement, says Emperor Haile Selassie's message, indicates Italy's desire to bring pressure on the negotiations for a neutral zone. Ethiopia hopes that peaceful arbitration can be arranged as provided for in the Italo-Ethiopian treaty of 1928.

Mussolini's dislike for the league of nations did not prevent a suggestion at Geneva today that the league police a neutral zone with a force of international troops. Geoffrey le Mesurier Mander, Liberal from Wolverhampton, said he will ask the house of commons Feb. 27 for Great Britain's support of the idea.

Ljubljana, Jugo-Slavia, was stirred today by the disclosure that 300 Italian residents there had been ordered to report to their regiments in Italy. Travelers arriving at Ljubljana report that Carinthia, the Nazi hotbed of Austria, is in a state of agitation because of Italian troop movements along the Austrian border. The Carinthia Nazis are covertly watchful.

Ethiopian Demand Refused.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—(AP)—A new rift has opened between Italy and Ethiopia as result of the latter's demand that Belgian and Swedish officials be included in the delegation to define the proposed neutral zone along the frontier, advices reaching government circles today said.

WAITRESS KILLED BY AUTO.

Davenport, Ia., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Mrs. Mary Ristau, 34, a waitress, died this morning from a fractured skull received when she stepped out from behind a parked car into the path of a machine driven by E. J. Harrigan, a salesman.

MOSCOW PAPER SEES NAZI APPROVAL OF JAP INFLUENCE IN ETHIOPIA

MOSCOW, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Pravda, officially inspired daily, said today it had "discovered" that indirect German approval has been given to Japanese influence in Ethiopia.

The newspaper called attention to what it termed the raging of the German Fascist press against Italian "aggression" in the African kingdom. At the same time it quotes foreign newspapers to the effect that the Japanese have an understanding with the Ethiopians which enables Japan to flood the Ethiopian market with its goods.

An increasingly bitter attitude is shown toward British comment on Germany's stand on the London proposals. There are indications that Russia considers that Great Britain betrayed her by encouraging the Nazis.

The paper raises a cry of alarm over the plans of Germans and Poles to whom the soviets for some time have been attributing ambitions to seize the Ukraine.

STEALS "PERFECT" MAID FROM HIS NEIGHBOR; SUED

Plaintif Cites Old English Law.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 19. — Edith Saville is one of those rare maids called "pearls" by their employers. She can do everything from making beds to putting together a perfect steak pudding. The neighbors fight for her.

She is a model maid, so the civil court was regaled today with a lawsuit in which it was alleged a man kidnaped the maid from a neighbor and held her a virtual prisoner for five days until she agreed to work for him.

Quotes 10th Commandment.

The plaintif, Herbert Mercer Stretch, who is asking damages, quoted the Tenth Commandment and the old English law.

The defendant, Alexander Frederick Churchill Sim, denied all allegations.

The maid told her own story from the stand. She was working for the Sim family, she said, when the Stretch family moved into the neighborhood and employed her full time. Then, it is alleged, the Sims found they could not get along without her. When she refused to return they lured her into a car and drove off, remarking: "We have won our bet." The girl said she was too dazed to know what was happening.

Sue as "Social Duty"

That was ten months ago, and the maid is still with the Simses. The Stretches are far from satisfied, and hence their suit, "as a social duty to the girl."

It is expected that the trial will end in a decision based on some obscure part of the old common law, which often is full of surprises for moderns.

TWO HELD AS CIGAR THIEVES.

Frank Esposito, 19 years old, 901 South Oakley boulevard, and John Tano, 20, of 927 South Oakley boulevard, charged with stealing 2,000 cigars from a parked automobile, were held to the grand jury in $1,500 bonds each yesterday by Municipal Judge Lambert K. Hayes.

PARIS PREPARES TO CRUSH REVOLT DANGER IN AFRICA

Nazi Movement Grows; Mob Cheers Hitler.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 19.—The mounting discontent of the native populations of Algeria and Tunisia is developing into a real menace to France's north African empire conquest, which was completed last summer.

The north African problem was given considerable attention at today's council of ministers. Worried by the recent insurrection at Setif and the less serious riots at Sidi-bel-Abbes, Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin yesterday conferred with Marcel Regnier, minister of interior; Gen. Victor Denain, minister of air, and Gen. Louis Philip Thomas Maurin, minister of war.

Prepares "Energetic Measures."

The premier is reported to have prepared a series of energetic measures to halt the spread of dissatisfaction and tighten France's grip on its two most important African colonies.

These measures were laid before the council, but apparently the cabinet has not yet reached a full agreement on the steps to be taken, so the problem will be tackled again in a special cabinet council to be convoked shortly.

The recent decision of Minister of Interior Regnier to make a trip for personal investigation in Algeria is considered a striking indication of the gravity of the situation. Regnier is expected to leave in a few days.

Nazis Are Blamed.

Economic difficulties, due to the wheat and wine crisis, are said to be at the root of the discontent among the North African natives, but the Nazis also are accused of carrying on violent agitation in the hope of provoking revolt, or at least of maintaining a permanent tension which will necessitate the concentration of large military forces in Africa.

More serious than the general discontent arising out of the general misery is the Pan-Islamic Nationalist movement, which appears to be gaining strength and violence daily. This movement is not only anti-French but is anti-foreign in general, and particularly anti-Semitic.

A decision taken today by the cabinet to create a supreme ministerial council for Moslem affairs, embracing Syria as well as the French possessions in Africa, is considered in well informed quarters as an indication that the government is on guard against a wave of fanatical nationalism which it is feared may sweep all Islam into revolt.

Mob Cries "Vive Hitler."

This, it is alleged, is precisely what the Nazi agitators are trying to bring about, just as it was tried at the beginning of the world war. One reliable Paris newspaper reports that in the recent Setif riots "'Vive Hitler' was one of the war cries of the mob."

The most popular war cry of any mob in north Africa these days, though, is: "Long Live Ben Djelloul." Ben Djelloul is a physician and local political leader of Constantine, but rapidly is becoming a mouthpiece and champion of all African Moslems—a sort of civilian and civilized Abd el Krim. One of the objects of Minister of Interior Regnier's trip is said to be to talk Ben Djelloul into a less belligerent frame of mind.

BARS SACRIFICE OF U. S. AIRCRAFT AS PEACE MOVE

No Menace to Europe, Says Envoy.

GENEVA, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The United States today made plain its determination not to let European war fears interfere with the normal development of American commercial aviation.

Before representatives of the world's powers gathered here under the disarmanent conference in an effort to devise an agreement for arms supervision, Hugh Wilson, United States minister to Switzerland, said flatly the United States cannot submit to any harsh supervision of civil aircraft.

Trade for U. S. Craft.

Lord Stanhope, British representative, had expressed anew Britain's fear of an assault from the air, indicating her belief that civil planes may be used for military purposes.

"Some powerful civil aircraft are superior to many military machines," the British delegate said, intimating that the United States' civil planes would constitute an aerial weapon of formidable proportions. Any European nation, he added, would gladly exchange its military ships for America's commercial craft.

Trucks Into Tanks.

In replying, Wilson pointed out the vast distances to be covered in the United States and declared America's development of commercial aviation, necessary to the nation's development, is no war problem.

Commercial vessels may be converted into ships of war, motor trucks may be turned into tanks, and "an ordinary citizen can be made into a fighting man," Wilson argued.

108 SERB LEADERS FACING TRIAL IN FOREST SCANDAL

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Micola Nikich, the late King Alexander's minister of war, today was arrested in connection with Jugo-Slavia's great forestry scandal, compared by some observers to the Teapot Dome case in the United States.

With 107 co-defendants, among them members of parliament and officials in other governments, Nikich was charged with the illegal cutting of government timber at Mashitza, in Bosnia, for private gain.

More than 1,000 witnesses already have been examined, their testimony implicating many highly placed persons in Jugo-Slavia's official and social life.

$260,750 PWA Check for Nurses' Home Received

A federal Public Works administration check for $260,750, part of a grant for the new Cook county nurses' home which will open about April 1, was received yesterday by Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board. The grant represents all except $52,500 of the amount the PWA agreed to pay toward the cost. The remainder will be paid when the building is ready for occupancy.

Belgian Chamber Approves Ban on Labor Massmeeting

BRUSSELS, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Premier George Theunis' government today won an 89 to 73 vote of confidence from the chamber of deputies on its action in prohibiting an anti-government labor demonstration proposed for next Sunday.

EARTHQUAKE REVEALS CENTER OF ANCIENT MAYA CIVILIZATION

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Discovery of big stone staircases exposed by recent earthquakes leading to subterranean galleries of a 1,700 year old Maya civilization was announced today by Gustav Stromsvik, heading an archeological commission of the Carnegie institute of Washington, now working at Copan.

Stromsvik said the discovery revealed Copan was the most important center of ancient Maya civilization yet found, and added he had established that the ancient Mayas knew uses of gold heretofore unsuspected.

Under a huge statue of a warrior he found a pair of solid gold boots, marvelously wrought, less than two inches in height. He discovered various cross-shaped rooms of stone with floors surprisingly well preserved under a coat of scarlet paint. Big stone canals and a sewerage system connecting large underground buildings were described by Stromsvik.

GRAIN ELEVATOR BURNS.

Madison, Ill., Feb. 15.—(AP)—The Western Grain elevator, loaded with 20,000 bushels of wheat, was wrecked early today by fire, which also destroyed a freight car, two small houses, and an automobile. Total damages were estimated at $25,000.

BRITAIN TO TRY ADMIRAL IN CRASH OF TWO CRUISERS

First Court Martial for Flag Officer Since War.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 19.—Rear Admiral Sidney Robert Bailey, former naval attaché in Washington and husband of an American, will be tried by a public court martial because of a collision last month between the battle cruisers Renown and Hood, the latter his flagship. The call for the court martial was issued today by the British admiralty.

He will be the first flag officer tried by court martial since the war. Only four admirals have been tried since 1856, and all have been acquitted.

Rear Admiral Bailey was naval attaché in Washington in 1921 and 1922, and in the latter year married Mildred Bromwell, daughter of the late Col. Charles Bromwell of the United States army, at Charlevoix, Mich.

He served as flag commander and war staf officer of Admiral Lord Beatty, hero of the Jutland battle, from 1916 to 1919. He was made a rear admiral in 1931. He has been in command of the battle cruiser squadron, consisting only of the Renown and Hood, since last year.

The collision between the two cruisers occurred off the coast of Spain Jan. 23, when they were en route to the Mediterranean for maneuvers. Both ships were damaged and the Renown was unable to leave Gibraltar for England.

Capt. F. T. B. Tower, flag captain of the Hood, and Capt. H. R. Sawbridge of the Renown will be tried with Rear Admiral Bailey. The courts martial will take place at the Portsmouth naval base.

7 SERB FARMERS SLAIN IN CLASH WITH GENDARMES

BROD, Jugo-Slavia, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Seven persons were killed and six seriously wounded today when gendarmes and farmers clashed at Sibinji, near here.

The farmers had collected in front of the police station to demand the release of six who were arrested yesterday. When gendarmes attempted to disperse the mob, shots were fired.

The gendarmes in turn opened fire, killing seven farmers and seriously wounding three. Several of the gendarmes suffered wounds.

BERMUDA'S ISLES, WINTER UTOPIA, LURE CHICAGOANS

Warm Islands Steeped in Historic Traditions.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Bermuda, a modern newlyweds' paradise, also has been a utopia for their tired mamas and papas and their school going brothers and sisters since the days Mark Twain first viewed and wrote about the coral reefed islands.

One of the first Americans to "discover" the Bermudas in the early part of the century, the famous humorist remarked to his traveling companion, the Rev. Joseph H. Twichell, on his first visit: "Joe, this place is like Heaven, and I'm going to make the most of it."

"Mark," the Rev. Twichell replied, "you're right. Make the most of a place like Heaven while you have the chance."

Travel Reaches Peak in Month.

Travel over the 666 mile ocean expanse between New York and Bermuda is increasing this month in direct proportion to the severity of northern ice and slush and the accumulated boredom of elevator, telephone, and trafic hum. It will reach a peak at the end of March and the beginning of April when dozens of eastern college and finishing school pupils leave for their spring holidays at Hamilton or St. George or some other town on the Bermudas.

By mail between Winnetka and Northampton, Mass., Mrs. Edward V. L. Brown and her daughter, Miss Nancy Brown, a Smith college student and a debutante of last season, are completing plans for a Bermuda vacation. They will be on the islands at the same time another party of Chicagoans will be enjoying swimming, sailing, cycling, and tennis in Bermuda's 70 degree climate.

According to present plans, Mrs. Frances Peabody Butler and her debutante daughter, Deborah, recently tennis singles champion in Palm Beach, Miss Bette Rich and Miss Betty Brooks, two more of the past season's buds, will be on the Furness boat, Monarch of Bermuda, headed south on March 2. Mrs. Butler's younger daughter, Jessica, Miss Jane Brooks, and Miss Louise Forgan will join the party later.

The Henry Dawes in Islands.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Dawes left Chicago a week ago last Sunday for a Bermuda holiday. This coming weekend their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Henry Schulz, will return from a Raymond-Whitcomb cruise to the West Indies aboard the S. S. Britannic.

Mr. and Mrs. Royal C. Vilas and William E. Graham timed their Bermuda trip so that they would be able to see the Castle Harbour Gun club classic held over Lincoln's birthday. Shooters from Canada, the United States, and England participated in the skeet shooting championship, which was the feature of the classic.

Few know that Bermuda has not always carried its present name. According to old records it was first called" Somer Island, as well in respect of the continual temporal ayre as in remembrance of Sir George Somers that died there."

It was Juan de Bermudez, however, who discovered the Bermudas prior to 1511. In 1609 Admiral Somers and a party of Virginia colonists were wrecked near the site of St. George, eventually continuing their voyage to Jamestown.

Islands Colonized in 1612.

After Somers returned to Bermuda, later dying there, the islands were colonized in 1612 by the Virginia company, which was succeeded by the Bermuda company. Of the estimated 30,000 present inhabitants about one-half are white.

Still a few more notes jotted at random are of historical interest. Bermuda is the oldest self-governing colony in the British empire and its parliament the empires' oldest law making body, excepting only the mother parliament in London.

St. George, the ancient capital, dates back to 1612 and is the oldest British garrison town in the western hemisphere.

To modesty does Bermuda owe its three types of fireplaces, the ankle, knee, and waist high. According to Claudia Darrell, whose three hundred year old home, Waterlot Inn, has many features of early architecture, the harth was so raised that women would not have to bend over the fire, thus running the risk of showing their petticoats.

Whaling, once a leading Bermuda industry, is at present carried on by a single boat. Its crew has been whaling over a decade without ever catching a whale.

Picture Brides, Too.

Bermuda also had its picture brides at one time just like Japan. Early settlers could send to London for wives by paying 12 pounds in money or 150 pounds of tobacco.

The restful beauty and quiet of Bermuda's coral roadways is undisturbed by factories, billboards, and motorcycles, and the general use of automobiles is prohibited. In the pleasant nineteenth century manner victorias and bicycles are the fashion.

Brewster Homeward Bound.

Sailing north past Bermuda this week will be Walter S. Brewster, who is returning to New York after a three weeks' holiday in the Virgin Islands with Mrs. Brewster. Mr. Brewster is making the trip back on the S. S. Nerissa of the Furness Line. Varying her itinerary, Mrs. Brewster is taking an airplane today at St. Thomas and flying across to Florida where she will have a week or more before coming back to Chicago.

The Brewsters have spent most of the past three weeks at the Bluebeard Castle hotel in St. Thomas, a true picture book town. The lake like harbor is set in a frame of green hills and the town itself, with its red roofs and palms and mahogany trees, climbs gently up the slope of a mountain. Two ancient red topped towers beyond the clustered houses, known as Bluebeard's castle and Blackbeard's castle, add a touch of the romantic.

The United States bought the Virgin Islands just a few years ago from Denmark because, naval strategists point out, they command both the Caribbean, and the Panama canal. There are three islands, equally beautiful. John Erskine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert De Wolf Erskine, is in Dominica, in the West Indies. This island was discovered by Columbus on Nov. 3, 1493, and it takes its name from the fact that the day of discovery was a Sunday.

No Itinerary to Curb Him.

Mr. Erskine sailed a fortnight ago and is not limited by an itinerary. He has no idea where he will go next nor when he will return north. In fact, he has a notion that he would like to find a job in Dominica, but whether he would run a coffee plantation or raise limes and other tropical fruits, he hasn't indicated.

On March 9, Mrs. William W. Gurley and her daughter, Miss Helen Gurley, veteran travelers, will be embarking on the S. S. Reliance of the Hamburg American-North German Lloyd Line for a 19 day cruise to the West Indies.

Now on their way to the West Indies are Mrs. Edith E. Webster and Miss Marjorie Jane McMahon of Evanston. They will continue their trip through the Panama canal, so they won't return to Chicago until the end of April.

Chicagoans to Make Cruise.

The S. S. Britannic will leave New York next Tuesday on its second 18 day West Indian cruise this winter with at least two dozen Chicagoans aboard. Among them will be Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Betts of Evanston, the Frank R. Elliotts, Mrs. Robert Harkness, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Ashcraft and their daughter, Virginia; Mrs. Harold C. Smith and her two daughters, Anne and Betty, and Mrs. Howard Van Doren Shaw and her daughter, Theodora. Mrs. Shaw and Miss Shaw will leave the cruise at Treasure Island where they will visit the John T. McCutcheons. Mrs. McCutcheon is another of Mrs. Shaw's daughters.

This cruise, planned by Raymond-Whitcomb, includes world glamor in its 18 days, for it touches the Virgin Islands, Martinique, a French West Indian colony; Venezuela, a typical South American republic; Curacao in the Dutch West Indies, and Haiti, the black republic.

Mrs. Baur to Visit London.

Remaining in Chicago only long enough to repack her trunks, Mrs. Jacob Baur will sail Saturday on the S. S. Europa for England, where she will visit her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bartle Bull, in their London home. Mrs. Baur has just returned to Chicago after an extended motor trip through the east and south with Mrs. R. Townsend McKeever. Others embarking on the Hamburg American-North German Lloyd liner Europa will include Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Cargill of Madison, Wis., and Mrs. Sadie B. von Feigl of Chicago.

Miss Marguerita Wallen sailed for Rio from New York last Saturday on the American Legion of the Munson line. Miss Wallen will be in the South American city for the "Carnival Carioca," or mardi gras, which is one of the most important social events in Brazil.

4 'FLYING FOXES' ARE EXECUTED AT BROOKFIELD ZOO

Four flying foxes were put to death yesterday at the Chicago Zoölogical gardens in Brookfield. Frank Smolek Jr., deputy collector of customs in charge of inspectors, acted as executioner. He placed the bats in a wooden box and passed a rubber hose from the box to the exhaust pipe of his car. The word was given and the bats were killed by the exhaust fumes from the motor.

A month ago Inspector Smolek discovered that the bats had been received at the zoo. He reported that a federal law prohibits admission of the fruit eating bats into the United States because they would damage fruit crops if allowed to propagate. Officials at Washington ordered the bats put to death.

Edward H. Bean, director of the zoo, interceded for the bats on the grounds that they were all males and that they would not be allowed to get away from the zoo. The appeal was denied in Washington.

Suspect Stunned by Leap at New City Police Station

Martin Halpin, 21 years old, 910 West 50th street, arrested as a purse snatching suspect, yesterday plunged head first out of a window in the New City police station after he had been identified by an 18 year old girl as the man who had attempted to attack her a short time before. Halpin landed on a sidewalk ten feet below the window and was stunned so that he was easily recaptured. A bureau squad had just brought Halpin into the station when Miss Rose Wizer, 4744 South Justine avenue, entered to tell police of the attempted attack.

URGES FEDERAL FUNDS TO BUILD SAFE HIGHWAYS

Phil La Follette O. K.'s Chicago Project.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Wisconsin's youthful governor Phil La Follette, withdrew from a conference in his capitol offices here for a few minutes this noon to express the friendly and neighborly attitude the people of this state are taking toward Chicago's efforts to get $100,000,000 federal money for the construction of an elevated highway system in that metropolis.

"As part of Chicagoland," said the 33 year old executive, "a major improvement in that city's motor transportation facilities would be of direct benefit to this state. I am not passing judgment on the engineering aspects of the proposal, for those problems are strictly Chicago's, but relief from the delays and hazards of automobile travel within the city under present conditions is of concern to Wisconsin as well as to Chicago.

Affects Two Industries.

"Two major Wisconsin industries are directly concerned, the farms and the summer resorts. Both depend upon pavements for their present and future development. Trucks carry the soil produce into the city market. Passenger cars carry fishermen, hunters, vacationists and recreational travelers from the city to our lakes, streams and woods.

"The rural pavements have received much improvement in the past and further improvement is on the program for the future. Chicago's street facilities, as in many cities, have not grown in proportion with the increasing demands of trafic upon them.

"The present weak link in the motor transportation system between Chicago and Wisconsin is within that city itself. The hazards, delays and annoyances of getting out of the city do not encourage Chicagoans to drive to Wisconsin for pleasure."

The governor paused in his remarks to open a cigaret package. He walked around a table for a match with the quick, precise steps of a bantamweight boxer. If his abundance of straight hair, parted in the middle, were not gray, he might be mistaken for a college athlete, probably a dash man on the track team.

Wisconsin Would Benefit.

"I don't want to say anything that would jeopardize Wisconsin's possibilities of having a substantial portion of the proposed $4,880,000,000 work relief appropriation spent in this state. You appreciate my position," he commented with a smile, "but it is obvious that $100,000,000 federal money spent in Chicago for an elevated highway system would be of more direct benefit to Wisconsin than if it were spent on the east or the west coast or in Dixie."

The initial construction program for the proposed Chicago elevated highway system includes a structure extending from Chicago's central business district toward the northwest corner of the city to connect with a group of highways that radiate into Wisconsin.

Old Soldiers Guests of Illinois Daughters

Members of the G. A. R. were entertained yesterday at a luncheon in the Auditorium hotel by the Native Daughters of Illinois. Mrs. Eleanor Gridley spoke on "Lincoln's Boys of Blue." Several of the oldest civil war veterans in Chicago attended. Among them were Isaac Adler and James Arnold, members of the Board of Trade post of the G. A. R. They were greeted by Mrs. Pearl E. Cook, national president of the Ladies of the Grand Army auxiliary, who came here from Washington.

MRS. ROOSEVELT'S COUSIN HEADS FOR WILDS OF AFRICA

LONDON, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Mrs. Leila Roosevelt Denis, second cousin of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, and her husband, Armand Denis, started today on the first stage of an expedition to Africa.

They will brave the wilds of the Belgian Congo in two 5½ ton trucks with motion picture equipment and four assistants. A corps of natives will be hired on the spot. The de luxe safari will operate under the auspices of the Belgian government to film the wild life in the Belgian Congo's national park.

Mrs. Denis, who last year circled the world in a small truck, will add a fillip to the movie expedition by continuing on alone—also by automobile—to Cape Town from the Congo.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" —bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache caused by constipation —you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

Service Club Sets Date for Annual Revue

Nov. 2 Chosen; Later than Usual.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Service club, with customary foresight, has chosen the date for its revue next fall. Saturday, Nov. 2, has been set and, since this is later in the season by about a fortnight than the show usually is given, it means that St. Luke's fashion show will be later, too, for the debutantes cannot model for St. Luke's until they are finished with Service club rehersals and performance.

Last year's maleless Service club show, in spite of being a successful venture, seemed to lack the pep and verve of the productions of several years ago when beaux and husbands did their bits. It suffered when compared with the recent Evanston Junior League Follies, which were as smooth, suave, humorous, and entertaining as the most optimistic could hope an amateur performance would be.

The stage literally was packed with men in every full scene of the Follies, so the Service club officers have about decided that their husbands and beaux shall be persuaded to add their talents to next year's revue.

The officers are planning to make an effort to get more of the "old girls" into the show, too, and not leave so much to the inexperienced debutantes. The lovely little buds make charming chorus girls, but stage fright is apt to assail some of them the night of the show, and then it is well to have some experienced girls in the choruses to inspire the younger ones.

The young women who head the club this year are certain that they can give a show that not only will raise money for their charity fund but will entertain their audience, and they are determined to do so next fall.

Infant Welfare Plans Bridge Tea.

Lest the younger generation should be getting restless from too much rest, the junior auxiliary of the North Side Infant Welfare society has made plans for a bridge-tea the afternoon of March 6. The party will be given in a vacant apartment at 1430 Lake Shore drive, with tea served in the Robert W. Hymans' apartment in the same building. Miss Jean Hyman is chairman of the junior auxiliary.

Mrs. Charles Y. Freeman Jr. [Helen Marie Castle] is chairman of the benefit, which is the auxiliary's first attempt at earning money on its own hook. Until now its duties have been to assist the senior board, which is headed by Mrs. Hyman. Mrs. John R. Hurley, Miss Isobel and Miss Marion Gordon, Miss Martha Lee, Mrs. Joseph E. Nolan [Jane Fortune], and Miss Barbara Eldridge are some of the junior members.

More "for pleasure only" is the cocktail party to which this young post-deb crowd has been invited Saturday afternoon. Richard K. Juergens, Leicester Y. Ryan, and John McWilliams II. are entertaining for "George and Sis Shields, and Gracie Fitzmorris and Jack Brittingham. The party will be given in the house at 57 West Burton place that is occupied by Mr. Ryan, Mr. McWilliams and two other young bachelors, Webb Harrison and Ralph Applegate.

The especial guests are more formally Mr. and Mrs. George H. Shields III., Miss Gracie Fitzmorris, and John W. Brittingham. Mr. Shields, formerly of St. Louis, and his bride, the former Carolyn Cosgrave of Princeton, moved here recently and have settled in Glencoe. Mr. Shields, Mr. Juergens, Mr. McWilliams and Mr. Brittingham, who is engaged to Miss Fitzmorris, all were classmates at Princeton university.

Junior League Art Exhibition Best of Series

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

The annual exhibit of work by Chicago Junior league artists becomes more professional each year, and the one hung yesterday in the Fountain room at the Casino was the most attractive of the four that the arts and interests committee of the league has arranged. Congratulations were flying thick and fast, not only to those of the artists who were present but to Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer and her committee for their excellent work in planning the show. There were fewer prizes than in previous years and no "honorable mentions," which in itself stamped the exhibit as professional. Perhaps, too, the judges—Miss Alice Roullier, Miss Katherine Dudley, and John Storrs—felt that all that did not win blue or red ribbons were so good that it was better not to choose any of them for especial mention.

The central position in the show was occupied by a still life, painted by Madeleine Maher [Mrs. Philip], that was chosen from among several entries to hang above the fireplace in the league quarters at 664 North Michigan avenue. This winner of a prize of $40 is a charming painting of branches of goldenrod against a pale rose and lavender background. We announced in this column several days ago that there were onions in the still life, too, but the young lady who gave us this information doesn't "know her onions," for the two pale yellow articles on a green plate certainly are lemons.

Mrs. Maher is one of the most talented artists of the league, for she also won first prize in water colors with a delicate sketch of her two sons and her little niece playing on the sand, and second prize in pencil drawings with a nude study.

The several things exhibited by Miss Betty Ashcraft indicate that she is one of the most versatile and talented of the league artists. Her "Design," an intricate pen and ink that was awarded the blue ribbon in this section, was admired greatly and so was her entry in the water color section, an amusing diving girl. The blue ribbon in oils was pinned to Elizabeth Paepcke's [Mrs. Walter] painting of garden tools, flowers, and a glove, and Sarah Hodges' [Mrs. Duncan] gay "Masquerade" was the winner of the red ribbon in this class. Miss Veronese Beatty exhibited several sculptures, among them a figure of a panther which won the sculpture award.

Lena Gilbert [Mrs. Huntly] won second prize in water colors with a still life of tulips, a vivid thing of great charm. Mrs. Norman Pritchard, for several years considered the leading league photographer, now has a rival for that title, for Mrs. Daniel Peterkin Jr. won first prize in the photography class with a picture of her cunning 4½ month old daughter, Ann. Mrs. Pritchard's prize winner was a photograph of the Hayes McFarlands' little Betty, as darling a little curly head as Shirley Temple.

Mrs. Pritchard's picture of lovely Mrs. Ewing Webb in shorts with a squash racquet in her hand attracted much attention, and so did a portrait of dark eyed Mrs. Webb painted by Isabelle Satterthwaite [Mrs. John]. The subject of these two pictures was looking very charming yesterday in an emerald green tunic, black skirt, and hat.

The exhibit was open from 11 to 7 o'clock and it was most crowded at tea time, when Mrs. Alfred Wolfe, president; Mrs. John L. Cochran, Mrs. Grant Laing, Miss Margot Atkin, Miss Adelaide Atkin, and Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne took turns pouring. Before tea was served there was a delightful program given in the ballroom by Dario Shindell, who presented "Moods in Words and Music," accompanied on the piano by Claire Ross.

Among the several hundred who attended the program and exhibit were Mrs. Charles R. Lindsay III., whose "Abstraction" won second prize in the competition in which Mrs. Maher won first, and whose drawings of scenes and costumes for "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" presented by the league this winter were among the most charming things in the exhibit.

Good Morning!

Universal, in its second Dickens movie, provides a new ending to the author's unfinished novel "The Mystery of Edwin Drood." Charles Dickens died, as you undoubtedly know, after penning the twenty-third chapter.

In the picture there isn't really a great deal of mystery. The audience is early made acquainted with Mr. Jasper's unfortunate addiction to opium and his passion for the slim maid, Rosa Bud, engaged to his nephew, Edwin Drood, to whom she has been affianced, by family agreement, since her baby days.

Neither Rosa Bud nor Edwin wishes to wed the other and, when there came to Cloisterham a dark and tempestuous young man and his pretty sister, each of the affianced couple falls in love in a new quarter.

But Mr. Jasper, the village choirmaster, has other ideas in his opium clouded brain. . . .

And now you see him bribing the keeper to permit him to wander at will through the cathedral crypts at night. You find him carefully inquiring as to which tombs are vacant and which are filled. You observe the care with which he takes an impression of the crypt key. . . .

Edwin Drood disappears. And now there is a great hue and cry, led by Jasper, who directs suspicion at Neville Landless, known to have quarreled savagely with Drood on several occasions.

See the picture for the outcome.

The piece has a weird quality for which the eerie photography and the sinister appearance of Claude Rains are largely responsible. Mr. Rains certainly does draw the most hair raising rôles! Remember him in "The Invisible Man"? And in "The Man Who Reclaimed His Head"?

David Manners as Drood, Heather Angel as Rosa Bud, Forrester Harvey as the cryptkeeper, and a small urchin named Deputy who throws stones at the world at large, the while squealing "Winnie-winnie-wah," are all excellent in their rôles. Blond Douglass Montgomery as the stranger on whose darkly foreign appearance stress is laid, doesn't go so well. Not typed for the part.

Many endings have, through the years, been accorded "The Mystery of Edwin Drood"—in books, in plays, in articles. Most of them, I understand, hold to the murder theory. Some believe, however, that Dickens would have had Drood escape, and an opium dream responsible for a lot of things.

Color Accent

Clips and matching bracelet in rosy red coral are the subtle color accents and only jewelry worn with this lovely flesh pink lace gown. Similar clips and bracelet in many color combinations are available in Chicago shops.

Renaissance Society.

The Renaissance society will be entertained at tea this afternoon at the new Tower Town galleries at 113 East Pearson street. Jean Park Holm will lecture and will show for the first time her drawing called "Dear Reader" that was inspired by the hand of Juliet Barker when she was reading before the Chicago Drama league.

Sheer Woolen Dresses Give Touch of Spring

Expert Finds Frocks Best Buys in Town.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Sheer wool clothes are refreshingly springlike after months of heavy stuff muffled around your anatomy. From the pencil slim and simple one piece dresses made to wear as background frocks for the spectacular chalk white and peasant colored costume jewelry as well as all the exquisitely sheer bits of white organdy neckwear to the street ensembles of fur cape and dress, the thin woolens are now the best buys in town.

The long fur cape you own is perfect with these thin woolens. Such a thin wool dress worn over a taffeta slip, and trimmed with flaring bows or belt or scarf of either harmonizing or contrasting patterned and colored taffeta becomes the pet of any spring wardrobe.

Short capes, long capes, the big flaring models or the skimpy fitted shoulder models of fur are just coming into their own.

There are some costumes of wool with wool capes trimmed with flat sleek furlike galyak that are ideal spring street outfits. Most of the dresses are made with high simple necklines, long, moderately draped sleeves and narrow skirtlines with discreet slits at the side seams for freedom in action.

Wool and taffeta combinations are as new as they are smart and effective for afternoon wear. One suit of this combination has wide bands of the wool alternating with very narrow bands of the taffeta. The jacket is made with flared sleeves, a perky flared peplum, and the entire garment is lined with crisp rustling taffeta. Even the hem of the skirt is banded with taffeta. With this two piece outfit comes the newest of transparent white embroidered organdy blouses made with a cascading jabot of pleated organdy down the front.

Fashion photograph. . . . Costume accents for daytime or evening clothes include matching duets of clips and bracelet sometimes made as clusters of beads. The clusters are set in silver or gold or strung in massed effects on metal chains, such as dull white with silver with gold, coral with either silver or gold and all other color contrasts. Double clips are used at necklines with a matching bracelet on each wrist. The picture illustrates coral with flesh pink. The fragile lace beauty of the clinging lace dress uses rosy coral in the clip and effective bracelet. Similar clips and bracelet can be found in a Chicago shop.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

YESTERDAY was the first time, I think, that I have ever heard Mrs. Bernard Shaw mentioned. Whether or not there was a Mrs. Shaw had never entered my head, and it was a surprise to hear her mentioned by Dario Shindell. Shindell, the young actor and entertainer, who appeared before the Junior league and its guests at the Casino yesterday afternoon, and who many persons think bears a striking resemblance to Massine, mentioned during luncheon a luncheon party in London at which Mr. Shaw was present, and to which Mrs. Shaw arrived after a bad morning at the dentist.

Reminder—Explanation—Flippant—Freshman.

Aside from concerning herself with what Mr. Shaw ate, one gathered that Mrs. Shaw took little part in the conversation that followed. It was about India, and Mr. Shaw said, according to Shindell, that India was only important because of England's rulership. One would never hear of India if it were not for England, he continued. Just as one never hears of Ireland since it is independent. There is no possession of England's one would ever hear about if it were severed from England, he concluded.

"But what about America, Mr. Shaw?" Shindell reminded him gently.

ONE of the pictures in the current exhibition of Chicago artists at the Art institute has caused considerable speculation. It is the picture of a girl with her head resting on a small round table and her arms stretched out in a semicircle. She is sound asleep. She appears to be an entertainer, for she is dressed in the costume of a Russian dancer, and, gazing at it, one wonders as to the story behind the picture. The catalog gives the information that it is called "The Blue Room"; that it was painted by Constantine Pougialis, and that it was awarded the Jule F. Brower prize of $300.

The story behind that picture is disclosed by the Art institute. It is a portrait of Betty La Zar, born in Chicago of Russian parents. After years of effort and study she has so far failed to make the ballet. At times she posed for Mr. Pougialis in the dance costume she herself had made. One day, overcome by fatigue and despondency over her failure to realize her ambition, she laid her head wearily down on the table and fell asleep. The artist saw her in that position, discarded the canvas on which he had been working, and started on the new one. He called it "The Blue Room" because it was a pose of despondency.

* *

THE most flippant high school student to come to attention is the girl who goes to a north shore high school, reported by Dorothy Huber. She wrote a letter to the principal of a school she formerly attended and put on the envelope:

"If not delivered in five days, try like hell the sixth."

* *

SPEAKING of high school girls, a teacher in the Antioch Township High school, Cornelia N. Roberts, forwards a quote from the mid-semester of a freshman that is enough, she writes, to complete any English teacher's incipient insanity. The freshman wrote:

"Friends, Romans, countrymen, lend me your hears. I come to bury Cæsar, not to phrase him. . . ."

School Benefit

Miss Helen Jane Regan, 4843 Iowa street, is chairman of the reception committee for a dance to be held in the Morrison hotel tomorrow night as a benefit for St. Domitilla's parochial school, Hillside. Father Ambrose Griffin is the pastor. Albert J. Horan, Municipal court bailiff, a former pupil of Father Griffin at St. Philip's High school, is sponsoring the affair. Bishop Bernard J. Sheil is giving his active support. The school is attended by pupils of Hillside, Berkley and Bellwood and was recently in danger of being closed for lack of funds.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The engagement of Robert Boothby, M. P.—he once said women didn't know how to cook—and Diana Cavendish, daughter of Lord Richard and Lady Moyra Cavendish, was announced today. Boothby is 35 years old and has been a Conservative member of parliament since he was 24. His fiancée is 25, third daughter of Lord and Lady Cavendish to marry a member of the house of commons.

Club Officers Name Aids for Big Conference

Groups from Several States Will Attend.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Members of women's organizations are not going to be content with the passive pose of auditors at THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S Conference on Current Problems, opening next Tuesday at the Palmer House. So many eager offers of assistance have been registered at the conference headquarters in room 1107 of Tribune Tower, that various details of the floor committee's work will be handled by groups from three of the largest federations.

Representatives have been appointed by Mrs. William F. Farrell, president of the Illinois State Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. Burnett D. Warner, president of the Cook County Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. Henry Hardy, president of the Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's Organizations, to assist at the five sessions.

Distribution of programs, registration of visitors, dissemination of information to out of town delegates, page service and other duties will occupy the volunteers during the two days of music and speaking.

Large parties of club members of both federated and unfederated clubs are expected from cities in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa and Ohio, with smaller representation from other states.

A revised program of the event, listing the speakers in the order of their schedule, appears in this edition of THE TRIBUNE.

The conference, which was inaugurated last year by this newspaper, will present an impressive array of men and women from various fields of public and private enterprise, each qualified to speak with authority and from experience, on various phases of public questions. It is intended to clarify and extend the information on these topics, to clubs and organizations whose activities center around these and similar subjects.

Legislation will be the theme of the opening program on Tuesday morning. Cultural trends will be discussed that afternoon, and various perspectives on current conditions, during the evening.

On Wednesday morning, social welfare topics will be on the calendar, and at the closing session, on Wednesday afternoon, phases of economics will be in order.

Numerous national and state officials of several of the larger groups will be in attendance.

DON'T BE SATISFIED WITH HANDS THAT ARE artificially coated TO MAKE THEM SMOOTH

Skin specialists say, "You cannot feed the skin from the outside. If you want lovely, naturally-soft hands, use a lotion that works with Nature—from the inside."

Velure works in Nature's own way—by stimulating the oil cells of the underskin to send more natural softening oils to the outer skin.

New hand lotion — VELURE — gives skin a natural, refreshing softness — because it works from the inside, in Nature's own way. Recent scientific discovery.

● Here at last is a sensational new hand lotion that uses Nature's own softening method—and gives to your hands a refreshing, natural softness that will delight you!

Velure does not do its work by artificially coating the outer skin to give it a temporary smoothness. On the contrary, Velure works on the inside—stimulating the oil cells of the underskin to give off more of their precious natural softening oils.

The first time you use Velure you will see how quickly it disappears into the skin. It leaves no sticky, gummy coating that might clog the pores. Velure is not at all sticky—it is a delicate, fragrant liquid, the latest discovery of a brilliant organic chemist.

Velure is intended for women who lead busy lives—whose hands are exposed to weather, housework, dishwater, office work. Regular use of Velure will keep the skin in wonderful condition—soft with the supple, flexible softness you feel in a baby's skin.

Buy a beautiful bottle of Velure today at your drug or department store, or send the coupon for generous purse-size bottle containing 6-day supply. Treat your hands to the delightful experience of this "new Velure softness."

Velure is orchid in color, delicately scented. The Velure bottle is an authentic copy of an Early American hand blown bottle. Made so you can shake out only one drop at a time.

Keep Away from Water

By Alice Campbell.

SYNOPSIS.

Sarah MacNeil, young American living in London, accepts the hazardous though thrilling post as traveling companion to Miss Christine Venables, prim, kindly, and wealthy, who has been receiving letters that cannot be traced, threatening her life. Miss Venables spends most of the year at Ste. Brigitte, a small resort in southern France. Her nephew, Harry, is to join her there soon. With Miss Venables in London is her widowed sister-in-law, Mrs. Mark Venables, Harry's stepmother. She is in poor health and Miss Venables has Dr. Gilcrest, her Ste. Brigitte physician who is visiting in London, prescribe for her. Dr. Gilcrest treats Sarah with cool aloofness, though she and Harry immediately become friends. That night Mrs. Venables dies. Her death is attributed to natural causes. On the way to Ste. Brigitte Miss Venables tells Sarah that the death threats began after her friend, Maj. Frampton, was killed in a fall down an elevator shaft. She believes he was murdered.

INSTALMENT IX.

ORIENTAL DRUG VENDORS.

"You see, that lift was an old-fashioned model, about which there had been numerous complaints. The doors at each floor instead of automatically locking when the cage was not there had a way of springing apart, so that unless one was noticing one might easily step into the empty shaft supposing the lift itself was waiting to receive one. Only the week before Col. Bulstrode had snatched his wife back barely in time to save her from death. Owing to the row he raised the manager had promised faithfully to have the defect put right, but, of course, nothing had been done, and now one of us had lost his life through pure negligence on the management's part—or so it now seemed. That the major had left his glasses in his room and was very short sighted without them offered no excuse. The entire hotel was up in arms.

"Mrs. Bulstrode and a Devonshire girl called Beryl Tomlins drew me aside to whisper something to me. It appears they had been playing bridge when they saw the major come in along the same side passage Harry and I had just used. He strode straight through to the lobby to ask the clerk if I had come home. The music had stopped at the moment, so all four players heard his words quite plainly. The clerk himself added that on learning I was not yet returned the major scribbled a few lines of jerky writing on a sheet of paper, sealed it up, and slid the envelope into the pocket of his dinner coat.

The other peddler overtook us with a really beautiful strand.

He then entered the lift, working it himself; and no more was seen of him till, some five minutes later, his body came hurtling down the shaft to arrive bruised and broken on the machinery in the basement."

Miss Venables' voice shook with emotion. "The so-called accident occurred at 10:35, that is to say thirty-five minutes from the time he quitted the de Bellesnaves', and six or seven after reaching the hotel. Ordinarily he would not have taken half an hour to walk a bare mile, but as I have said we later learned about his stopping at the café bar to toss off a double fine. Double, mind, and he took the drink standing—two facts which made me ready to assume he had by then already received the shock he wished to tell me about, and while requiring something to steady him, was too agitated to sit down at a table.

"Seeing me quite overcome, Harry begged me to let him see me up to my room. He unlocked my door for me and there on the floor just inside lay an envelope addressed to me in the major's handwriting. Very shaky writing it was. Evidently the poor man had slipped the note under the door in order that I should get it directly I came in. I tore it open and Harry read it while I was fumbling for my lorgnette. Here word for word was what it said:

"'It is my urgent duty to warn you at once that your life is in imminent danger—probably mine as well. Speak to no one about the matter, but tap on my door as soon as you get this chit. What I have to tell you must be in the strictest privacy. Yours, Ian Frampton.'"

"Hold on," interrupted Sarah. "Had you any idea of the sort of danger he referred to?"

"A very good idea, as it happened; but I shall come to that presently. Harry offered a suggestion which I resented.

"'Harry,' I said, 'not once, in all the years I have known Maj. Frampton, have I seen him under the influence of drink!' Poor boy, his sole purpose had been to spare me alarm by pretending the note was written when the major was not himself. However, many other people took the same view, and for less worthy reasons. The manager's insistance on it was understandable. It saved his face, making him seem the less to blame. But all that is a side issue. I come now to a piece of evidence which to my mind entirely exploded the accident theory.

"The room next the major's was occupied by an aged gentleman named Vansittart, who, notoriously inquisitive, often sat with his door open. That evening he saw his neighbor enter his own quarters, and then, soon after ward, saw one of the waiters pass to knock on the adjacent door, mumble a message, and walk quickly away toward the lift. Two seconds later the major came out and also hurried toward the lift.

"This story caused a considerable stir. All the staf were questioned, but not one would admit approaching the major's room, or even being on the fifth floor at all, so the upshot was that Mr. Vansittart was entirely discredited. He was 82, his sight and hearing exceedingly poor. The old man was so outraged over not being believed that he left in a dudgeon, swearing never to set foot in Ste. Brigitte again. Nor did he, for six weeks later he died of a stroke. I, though, had talked with him, and knew just how positive he was. He declared he had not recognized the waiter, noticing only that it was some one taller than the general run of our staf. Personally I concluded that unless Mr. Vansittart had unconsciously exaggerated the man's height, the person seen by him was not a waiter at all, but an assassin masquerading as such—a creature who deliberately lay in wait to assault his victim and push him down the shaft."

"Did you mention your view to any one?" asked Sarah keenly.

"Very foolishly for me, I did. Driven by a strong conviction that my friend had been lured to his death, I went to the police and made a statement. Not that any good came of it. The jury returned a verdict of death by misadventure."

"By the way, where was the lift?"

"Ah, there's another queer point! It had been run up to the top—two floors higher up—and to this day no one knows by whom. The jury accepted the coroner's opinion that the guest or servant who last used the lift was simply too cowardly to come forward with the truth.

"Immediately after the inquest there arrived by post the first of the letters which have kept me on the rack from then till now. In order for you to understand completely I must tell you of another thing which happened shortly before these events.

"Coming back from the golf links late one afternoon, the major and I happened to meet two of those oriental vendors who simply infest the Riviera. These fellows, wearing turbans, were strung all over with ropes of pearls. I was wanting a longish strand to wear with a black lace gown I had, so I called to the men to show me what sort they were selling. After some hesitation one of them came back, but the string he offered me was of so inferior a grade that I refused to look at them. We strolled on again, turning a deaf ear to the man's whining insistance, and presently the other peddler overtook us holding out a really beautiful strand, which after some bargaining I bought for 30 francs. I may add that it was growing dark, which possibly explains the error that was made.

"Still, I might never have known anything was wrong if I had not that same evening had the ill luck to catch the pearls on a doorknob and break the string. I crushed one of the beads under foot, and there on the floor lay a little heap of snow white powder. My dear, it was cocaine!"

"Cocaine!" echoed Sarah, beginning to understand.

"Yes, the major suspected it, got the doctor's opinion, and then, rather against my inclinations, reported the matter to the police. The two drug sellers, never dreaming they had inadvertently sold me a strand not meant for ordinary trade, were arrested, and at their trial the major and I were called on to give evidence against them. Being old offenders, both received long sentences; and as they were being led out of court, the second one, a villainous brute, fixed his black eyes on us and muttered something in Arabic which the major understood. It was a threat declaring that sooner or later we should pay with our lives for the mischief we had wrought."

A Friend in Need

Help with These Scrap Books.

"Dear Miss Brown: Having become very much interested in making scrap books and sending them to various childrens' institutions and hospitals, I am appealing to your readers for old Christmas cards, attractive colored advertising matter, etc. I am unemployed at present, and enjoy the work as a pastime, and have found the books were greatly appreciated by the small recipients. An Irish Role for O'Sullivan Found at Last

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—At last Maureen O'Sullivan plays an Irish film rôle. She's the heroine of "Far Off Hills." Maureen was brought to Hollywood from Ireland to play with John McCormack in "Song of My Heart" six years ago and that's the only Irish rôle she played in six years.

Les Wagner, one of the alert young reporters who covers happenings around the studios, tells an incident from the set of "Les Miserables" at United Artists. Richard Boleslavsky [author of "Way of a Lancer" and director of several of Garbo's film hits], who is directing "Les Miserables," had strolled off the set and Wagner quotes an impertinent assistant director as telling the easy going actors: "Now throw away your gum and snap into it. We want plenty action in this next scene and everybody on his toes. Forget everything but the picture and when this Russian so-and-so comes back maybe we can get some good action."

As he finished his important harangue the assistant director was tapped on the shoulder and it proved to be Boleslavsky. "Polish so-and-so, not Russian," Boleslavsky corrected him gently.

Preparatory to his temporary absence from his new-found movie career to visit Durant, Okla. [the old home town], Chicago and New York, Pinkie Tomlin, the hog callin' crooner, today invested in a new sixteen cylinder auto. He'll drive east in it and hopes it'll be a big day when the chariot drives down the main street of Durant.

"Pinkie's car is so big," one of his new found studio friends at M-G-M said, that "when he gets to Durant they can put his brother Troy's fire engine in the rumble seat."

Brother Troy Tomlin is the Durant fire chief. Tomlin has employed a chauffeur for the new bus.

Kay Francis had another temperamental outburst with a reporter last Saturday night, ordering a representative of the Associated Press out of Café Vendome, which she had rented outright for the evening to act as hostess for 300 guests. Press association and newspaper photographers were permitted to remain on the premises by the fiery brunette and two women chatter writers from another news service were welcomed by her.

After the excitement of the party and strain of her incident with the news man Miss Francis went to Good Samaritan hospital on Sunday. She was there to be treated for influenza, it was said at the hospital. The café which the actress took over for one night was decorated outside and in like an ocean liner with brilliant lights about its front. The outside of the café had been transformed by studio stage building crews into a make believe dock, up whose gang plank the movie friends of Miss Francis walked to join the merry affair. Miss Francis' companion at her party was Maurice Chevalier.

Child Develops Rapidly Between Six and Twelve

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Those sevens and eights and nine year olds—how busy they are! It's school, then it's home to "dump" books on the table, to get a snack to satisfy the ever present appetite and fill the hollow legs, then out to play—play—play. Their capacity for it seems endless. It's hard to get them in for their practicing, or to stop their dawdling—or to get them to wash—or to do their share of the household chores.

They're a handful, if you don't understand them—those boys and girls between little childhood and adolescence—and don't know what to expect. Let us begin today, then—though we may not finish—to look over the landscape of these inbetween years, and see what happens in the lives of these children who are from 6 to 12 so that we can understand why they act as they do, know what to expect of them, and how to deal wtih them.

First, one of the big changes that comes into their lives is school. It looms large because it is so different from home life, it expands their world, and in it is spent (alas!) the larger part of thir waking hours. This whole experience, with its academic angle and its contact with teachers and other pupils, affects their personalities and characters.

Another thing that happens during these years is a widening social life and less dependence upon home.

During this period when reading becomes easy, books are discovered as a source of pleasure.

Also with a rich home life and a well rounded curriculum at school, talents are uncovered and special interests or hobbies developed, which are splendid for the child at the time, and often lead to either the choice of a life work or a permanent love of some craft or art which will mean a happy use of leisure in later years.

Another outstanding characteristic of this inbetween age is the love of the companionship of other children, and the "gang" (not the gangster!) spirit.

Also the children become husky, vigorous, noisy, active and consequently like rough, vigorous play.

They are absorbed in their doings and interest, but show a decided lack of concern about clothes, cleanliness, order and conventions.

This, more or less, paints a picture which will help us to an understanding of these inbetweens of ours.

Service Club Sets Date for Annual Revue

Nov. 2 Chosen; Later than Usual.

Goehst and John Goehst have sent out invitations for the same hours, from 4 until 7 o'clock, Saturday afternoon. They will entertain in the Bellevue residence of their mother, Mrs. John Goehst.

Luncheon on Friday for Jean Wilhelm.

Mrs. Byron S. Harvey is entertaining a number of the post-debs and several of her own friends at luncheon Friday for Miss Jean Wilhelm, who is soon to become her daughter-in-law. Miss Wilhelm's engagement to Daggett Harvey was announced last week. This is the first of a long series of prenuptial parties about to be planned for the popular young couple.

Miss Wilhelm's mother, Mrs. Frank E. Wilhelm, has issued cards for a tea late in the afternoon Sunday. The party will be at the Wilhelm residence at 2430 Lake View avenue.

Miss Wilhelm, as president of the Juniors of the Alliance Francaise, will preside at a meeting of "Les Jeunes" at 3 o'clock today in the Fine Arts building. Mrs. John Storrs will speak on "La Chanson Francaise."

Miss Wilhelm is following in the footsteps of former presidents in announcing her engagement or marrying during term of office. Mrs. C. Ross Cuthbert [Beatrice Kirk], Mrs. Allen Whitman [Betty Brown], and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey Jr. [Marjorie Goodman] are Miss Wilhelm's predecessors in the presidency.

Mme. Maurice Lanvis will talk on "L'Anjou, Province Francaise," at the weekly causerie of the alliance tomorrow afternoon. Mrs. John Root will be hostess for the day and Mrs. John Holabird and Miss Katherine Young will pour.

Supper Party Tonight for Miss Skinner.

The Arthur Cables are having a small supper party tonight in the Delaware place apartment they are occupying this winter for Miss Cornelia Otis Skinner, who is playing in Chicago this week. Miss Skinner is visiting Mrs. George R. Nichols at 1550 State parkway during her Chicago engagement. Mrs. Nichols will be an absent hostess, however, for the rest of the week, for she left yesterday for a brief visit in New York.

Mrs. Cable and Mrs. Donald M. Ryerson will leave on Friday for two weeks in old Mexico.

From Detroit comes word of the approaching marriage of Mrs. Margaret Page Rust of Grosse Pointe to F. Ballinger Fyffe of Milwaukee, which will take place tomorrow afternoon in the home of Mr. Fyffe's mother, Mrs. William Johnston Fyffe, at 195 Laurel avenue, Highland Park. This news puts the stamp of authority on rumors that have been flying lately concerning Mr. Fyffe's prospective marriage. This popular bachelor has been living in Milwaukee for the last year or two although he had been engaged in business here since his graduation from Princeton university a decade ago.

The service will be read at 3:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the presence of the immediate families, and Mr. Fyffe and his bride will go to Biloxi on their honeymoon. They will make their home in Milwaukee at 2210 North Lake drive, where Mrs. Rust's three small daughters, Patsy, Peggy, and Page, will join them.

Vassar House Party Monday.

Mrs. Andrew R. MacLeish will cut the nine story birthday cake celebrating the ninth anniversary of Vassar house at a large luncheon at the scholarship restaurant next Monday. Mrs. MacLeish was the first president of Vassar house. On succeeding days during the birthday week celebration there will be fresh nine story cakes and each one will be cut by some early member of the board of directors.

Mr. and Mrs. Fowler McCormick will sail Friday on the Olympic from New York for England. It is Mr. McCormick's business that is taking them abroad and before returning to Chicago in the spring they will travel extensively in Europe. Mrs. McCormick's youngest son, Guy Stillman, who goes to the Latin school, is remaining in Chicago and Alec Stillman, the middle one, is at Harvard.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrews Visiting His Mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Armstrong Andrews arrived from Hanover Monday to spend a week with Mr. Andrews' mother, Mrs. Emory Cobb Andrews, in Winnetka. Mr. and Mrs. Andrews motored here and when they leave they will go to Charleston, S. C., which is to be their future home.

The Countess Cardelli, the former Ruth Lamson, has returned from an extended stay abroad and is settled in her apartment at 1448 Lake Shore drive.

Mrs. Donald E. Jerrems and her daughter, Miss Eleanor Jerrems, who occupied the apartment the former part of the winter, have moved over to the Ambassador East. The countess' sister, Mrs. Harry Lobdell, expects to leave soon for Palm Springs in California.

The Robert F. Halls are at Winter Haven, Fla., for a late winter vacation. They will return to their apartment at the Churchill on or about March 15.

WOMAN'S AND MISS' BLOUSE.

The blouse in the upper sketch can be made of taffeta, silk, or satin crêpe in some bright color, and you will have brightened your winter wardrobe. It will be just the thing to wear under your new spring suit. If you want something more tailored looking in a blouse, choose the one in the lower sketch. It's smart for town wear or business.

The pattern, No. 2815, comes in sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure.

Through the Looking Glass

It's along about now that a woman begins to hate every single thing she has to wear. She's been wrapped in a winter coat too long for her soul satisfaction; she'd like to break out in something lighter, brighter, and not long out of its packing box. But what to do? Even if she could afford it now she'd probably get pneumonia for her flightiness.

We'd suggest for this midwinter droop of the spirits and the wardrobe a complete pickup in the form of a new and dashing perfume. We got the idea just yesterday when we wandered, weary and disheveled and discontented with everything, into one of our beauty salons. First crack out of the box some one sprayed us with a lovely scent and we felt like a new woman.

This scent is like that—and if you're on the hunt for something to boost your feminine morale we suggest it without a single reservation. It's literally a breath of spring, very gay, restrainedly sweet and with a touch of the tang that all things green and newly sprung from the earth have.

This perfume was inspired by the blue grass country, which happens to be a particular pet of ours, and we do think it was a slick idea. It is fresh, not sirenish—but not without its subtle aura of romance. You'll like it as a spring tonic for your wilted wardrobe, we know. And you'll like the fact, too, if you're saving your pennies these days, that you can buy it in small amounts at a price that isn't the least bit frightening.

It lasts well, we found, without becoming the least bit acrid, and while it is impressively successful on fur it fits in equally well with all fussy things.

Try a bit of it, anyway, if you want a charming experience that makes you believe spring is really here, even though the calendar says otherwise.

BY MARY MEADE.

With the annual revival of that old saw, the hatchet story, we feel it's a pretty opportune time to air the neat little collection of cherry recipes which has been piling up at our house. We cannot tell a lie—some of them probably are as old as the tale itself, but then so much the better if you're planning to give one of them an outing at a flag waving party. On the other hand, there's nothing moth-eaten about this new favorite of ours, cherry brandy ice cream.

So, to revere the name of our country's father and at the same time to cater to our own innate greediness for cherries, let's get into a red, white, and blue apron and do a bit of cherry cooking, humming, if possible, the national anthem as we flutter about the kitchen.

In spite of that honored custom of "saving the cherry till the last," or in this case the pet recipe until the last, we're going to give it first place on the list. Here we go on that distinctive frozen dessert:

Cherry Brandy Ice Cream.

2-3 cup sweetened condensed milk
½ cup water
1 medium bottle maraschino cherries, finely chopped
1 teaspoon brandy (or brandy extract)
1 cup whipping cream

Blend the sweetened condensed milk and water. Add the chopped maraschino cherries and brandy or brandy extract and chill. Whip the cream, not too stiff, and fold it into the chilled mixture. Pour into a freezing tray and place in the refrigerator. At the end of an hour or so take it out, give it a good, thorough whipping, and smooth it back into the tray to complete freezing for another hour or two.

You can't attempt to veer far away from the cherry pie idea in a collection like this, and we're not even going to try. Cherry pie it is, then, but not exactly the conventional kind:

Cherry Pie Glace.

1 No. 1 can unsweetened red cherries, drained
½ cup sugar
1 package cherry flavored gelatin
2¼ cups warm cherry juice and water, mixed
¼ teaspoon salt

Combine the cherries and the sugar. Dissolve the gelatin in the warm cherry juice and water, add the salt, and pour over the cherries. Chill. When slightly thickened pour into a baked pie shell and serve, when firm and cold, with sweetened whipped cream.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

THE OBLIGATORY RESPONSE TO A DOUBLE.

If your partner has doubled an opening bid and the next opponent passes, you must bid, even if you expect to beat the contract of one. To beat a contract of one doubled, to beat it two tricks, is no compensation for a game, and it may well be that your partner can make game though your hand appears worthless to you. The very fact that nearly all the thirteen cards of the suit in which the opening bid was made seem to be concentrated in your hand and that of the opener, makes it clear that your partner's hand is of an extremely unusual type. He has presumably made a strategic double not for defensive purposes only but with a very freakish distribution of exceedingly aggressive type, and your side should not only reënter the bidding but should take it to game if not slam. Probably your partner will force on the next round. If not, then your expectations of beating the bid may prove illusionary; they may make five trumps and two high cards against you even if you hold six small trumps or five to K Q and an outside king or so. Wernher recently played a hand in four spades doubled and redoubled and made it against six trumps in one hand, having the top six himself. They could not force him on the first lead, as he had the ace of their suit; so he drew trumps and ran three tricks in an off suit, thus taking in the first ten tricks. This is a hand against which one opponent—the one short in spades—might well have made a Sims strategic double, which his partner, with six small spades and two kings, would leave in if permitted to do so by the system.

The only time to leave in a double of one at this point is if:

(a) the opponents are vulnerable

(b) you have a splendid bid yourself in their suit, by which I mean at least five cards headed by ace-king or ace-queen-jack. It now looks like a psychic, or at any rate a hopeless position for your vulnerable opponents, and you may expect the extrication process to start—and once denials and rescue commence, a four figure score is in view for your side. If your partner's double was distributional, he can obviously double every bid they make; if strategic, with only one long suit, the opponents have a good out anyway, it may be, and would have got there anyhow. They might even have game in an off suit, and fail to reach it because of the double and your business pass. If one has

Sp. J 9 x x x x	Di. x
Hts. K J x x	Cl. A K and the other
Sp. x	Di. K x x
Hts. A 10 x x	Cl. Q x x x x

if the bidding goes—one spade, double, pass, pass, redouble, pass, two hearts, do you think they will get to four hearts? I doubt it. Yet had your partner with his six or seven diamonds to the ace-queen and perhaps the queen of hearts and maybe a singleton queen of spades, overcalled in diamonds instead of doubling, now the opening bidder would have got in a negative double, received a heart response, and nothing could keep them out of four hearts.

You may play constantly for twenty-five years and never have the occasion to pass your partner's double of an opening bid. I merely mention the one possibility of its happening, under my methods of handling the double, because otherwise many of you will, with your usual alertness, notice the omission and write in to inquire about it. I want to make it very clear, however, that this ban on a "business pass" of a double of one applies in this summary manner only when your partner will not have another chance to bid, assuming that the opening bidder passes; in other words, when your pass may well be the last bid that your side will be able to make. Over a redouble, or under other bidding sequences which I will discuss later in connection with the third kind of double, when your partner has another bidding opportunity inevitably coming to him, you may pass when you expect to defeat the contract of one. This I explained yesterday.

Club Support Insures Drama Festival Here

Ben Guy Phillips Will Be Director of Project.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

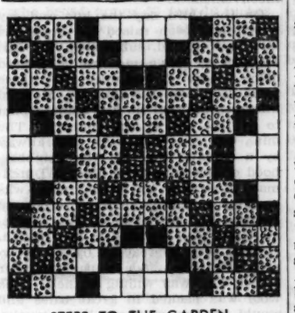
Plans for a summer theater in the Chicago area were announced yesterday by Ben Guy Phillips, the stage director who produced "Run, Little Chillun," at the Harris theater last fall. Guarantees of ticket purchases by women's clubs and cultural organizations have already been secured to provide financial backing for the enterprise.

This venture will be called the North Shore Drama Festival. The plays will be staged in Winnetka, either in the Skokie school auditorium or the Winnetka Community house. Both of these halls offer stage and seating facilities that will meet the needs of a summer theater.

"We intend to have a high-grade professional company," said Mr. Phillips, "and I am now in negotiation with Orson Welles, Earle Larimore, Blanche Yurka and other well established players for engagements as guest stars. We will make five productions, each for a two weeks' run. The season will begin late in May and continue until August.

"Among the plays that I hope to present are 'The Man with a Load of Mischief,' by Ashley Dukes, and 'The Mocking Bird,' by Lionel Hale. A number of plays that have been recent hits on Broadway are also available. In keeping with the festival idea, I hope to stage at least one new work, and am in the mood to read manuscripts. Playwrights who believe that they have written something that fits into the plans for this festival can reach me at 5520 South Shore drive."

Block Is Ideal for Attempts of Teen Age Quilter



STEPS TO THE GARDEN.

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Here is a simple pieced block which is ideal for young girls twelve or thirteen years of age, who are tiring of doll clothes and want something a little more "grown up" on which to sew. It is inexpensive because scraps from mother's quilt bag may be attractively utilized. A coverlet may be made entirely of the "Steps to the Garden," or the blocks may be alternated with plain ones.

With her second book of quilts, Nancy Cabot now offers 10 patterns of her own choice at a combination price of 10 cents (12 cents by mail). The booklet alone is 5 cents; by mail, 7 cents. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices—1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

This eager group of Chicago Savoyards is now in the presentation of one of the last works of the Gilbert and Sullivan partnership, one of the most intricate specimens of the Gilbert humor and one of the most sparkling of the Sullivan music. Unfortunately for the G. and S. adherents, who are many, the run is so limited that it will close tonight.

Looking in at the Goodman theater last night, the performance was seen to be going at a high tempo of music and humor, and a large audience was enjoying it to the utmost. The company boasts a large, seemly and melodious chorus, trained to a fine pitch of accuracy in music and the evolutions of the stage. In fact, several of the choral numbers ranked among the most enjoyable experiences of the evening.

The principals, however, were in no wise behind the chorus in the pace of the performance or in alert knowledge of what was required of them. Dialog rippled briskly, song followed song in swift succession. Miss Franston and Miss Phillips, stars of former performances, joined with Mr. Schowalter and Mr. Sullivan to make a most melodious Venetian quartet.

Mr. Helperin combined the duties of staging the performance and appearing as the Duke of Plaza-Toro in the best Gilbert and Sullivan traditions. Mr. Morton took a high rating with the dry humor of the grand inquisitor. Applause was frequent and hearty.

The Philharmonic String quartet, all members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, appeared in the foyer of Orchestra hall last night to play the second concert in the series arranged by the Chicago chamber music committee. It was a brief program, consisting only of the quartets by John Alden Carpenter and Cesar Franck, but it was an extremely attractive and ably played one. Mr. Carpenter's work has not been heard in several years, but it has survived the lapse of time in a way that made it sound as youthful and vigorous last night as when it was first made public. That is the most certain test that can be applied to music.

Simple Exercise Gets Legs in Trim for Spring Modes

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

If you're getting your legs in training for the Easter parade, and it's a good parade for which to train, you might take a leg reducing tip from Miss Harriet Hilliard of movie and radio fame. Her nether extremities, it might be said in passing, offer a forceful argument for television. They're a sight that shouldn't be denied her radio audience. Here's the exercise.

Jump up in the air. Land on left foot, throwing right foot out sidewise. Jump again and land on other foot. Keep on jumping, landing on one foot and the other until you "yump" the adipose into kingdom come. Only I wouldn't advise the real heavyweight to go in for the jumping until she has shed some of her extra burden. Neither would I advise rope jumping, a grand leg reducing exercise, for the obese. But there are any number of women whose plump legs or piano extremities are their only weight problem. These could do a lot of jumping with beneficial results.

Another leg and ankle offering from Miss Hilliard is to lie on the floor, face down, hands under chin. Raise one leg high, higher, bending knee and trying to get the toes pointed straight up in the air. Do this without moving hips from floor. Do other leg ditto and repeat, alternating one leg and then the other. The fat will be stubborn, indeed, that can resist that pull.

"MY LIFE," AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY

One chance in a thousand, one friend among a host of enemies, Churchill finds a fellow countryman in Africa, and his escape is successful. The story is told in today's instalment of his autobiography.

BY WINSTON CHURCHILL.

There was a pause. Then I knocked again. And almost immediately a light sprang up above and an upper window opened.

"Wer ist da?" cried a man's voice.

I felt the shock of disappointment and consternation to my fingers.

"I want help; I have had an accident," I replied.

Some muttering followed. Then I heard steps descending the stairs, the bolt of the door was drawn, its lock was turned. It was opened abruptly, and in the darkness of the passage a tall man, hastily attired, with a pale face and dark mustache, stood before me.

"What do you want?" he said, this time in English.

I had now to think of something to say. I wanted above all to get into parley with this man, to get matters in such a state that instead of raising an alarm and summoning others he would discuss things quietly.

Tells a Story.

"I am a burgher," I began. "I have had an accident. I was going to join my commando at Komati Poort. I have fallen off the train. We were skylarking. I have been unconscious for hours. I think I have dislocated my shoulder."

It is astonishing how one thinks of these things. This story leaped out as if I had learned it by heart. Yet I had not the slightest idea what I was going to say or what the next sentence would be.

The stranger regarded me intently, and after some hesitation said at length, "Well, come in." He retreated a little in the darkness of the passage, threw open a door on one side of it, and pointed with his left hand into a dark room. I walked past him and entered, wondering if it was to be my prison. He followed, struck a light, lit a lamp and set it on the table at the far side of which I stood. I was in a small room, evidently a dining room and office in one. I noticed besides the large table a roll desk, two or three chairs, and one of those machines for making soda water, consisting of two glass globes set one above the other and encased in thin wire netting. On his end of the table my host had laid a revolver, which he had hitherto presumably been holding in his right hand.

"I think I'd like to know a little more about this railway accident of yours," he said, after a considerable pause.

"I think," I replied, "I had better tell you the truth."

"I think you had," he said, slowly.

The Truth Comes Out.

So I took the plunge and threw all I had upon the board.

"I am Winston Churchill, war correspondent of the Morning Post. I escaped last night from Pretoria. I am making my way to the frontier." [Making my way!] "I have plenty of money. Will you help me?"

There was another long pause. My companion rose from the table slowly and locked the door. After this act, which struck me as unpromising, and was certainly ambiguous, he advanced upon me and suddenly held out his hand.

"Thank God you have come here! It is the only house for twenty miles where you would not have been handed over. But we are all British here, and we will see you through."

I felt like a drowning man pulled out of the water and informed he has won the Derby!

In Midst of Friends.

It will readily be seen that this wonderful stroke of fortune—Providence, I deemed it—had changed my forlorn plight to a position of real hopefulness. I was no longer a wandering outcast in a hostile land. I was in the midst of friends who had powerful resources of aid to bestow. Mr. Howard, such was the name of my host, was a British subject allowed with two or three of his men to stay upon his gold mine on taking the oath of neutrality. His risk in helping me was therefore grave. He put me down the bottom of the mine without an hour's delay, and there I remained for three days and nights in velvet darkness, save for an occasional spell of candlelight, amid the scurryings of innumerable white rats. But my joy and relief were such that I gladly endured these inconveniences.

On the third day the hue and cry which had been raised all along the line had abated sufficiently for Mr. Howard to move me into a disused office. Here I remained for three more days. On the 16th Mr. Howard informed me that he had made a plan to get me out of the country. The mine was connected with the railway by a private line. In the neighborhood of the mine there lived a Dutchman, Burgener by name, who was sending a consignment of wool to Delagoa bay on the 19th. This gentleman was well disposed to the British. He had been approached by Mr. Howard, had been made a party to our secret, and was willing to help. His wool was packed in great bales and would fill two or three large trucks. These trucks were being loaded at the mine siding. The bales could be so packed as to leave a small space in the center of the truck in which I could be concealed. A tarpaulin would be fastened over each truck after it had been loaded, and it was very unlikely that if the fastenings were found intact it would be rummaged at the frontier. Did I agree to take this chance?

Although I was deeply worried at the idea of lying helpless in the truck while it was searched at the frontier, and perhaps being tamely caught, I accepted the proposal of my generous rescuer. We were to have taken only about sixteen hours to the frontier, but actually the train took more than fifty hours. It lay on sidings during the whole of the nights of the 20th and 21st and here I was in great anxiety lest I should fall asleep and betray myself by snoring. I resolved to keep awake, but slept soundly without misadventure.

English Guard Him.

It is impossible to describe my exultation when about noon on the 22d I saw through a chink in the truck the uniforms of Portuguese officials. I got out of my truck at Komati Poort, and found my way to the British consul. The news of my arrival spread like wildfire through the town and many English residents came up armed to guard me against my illegal recapture. That very night there was a small steamer leaving for Durban. In fact you might almost say it ran in connection with my train. Closely guarded by my friends I embarked upon this and reached Durban and afterward the front line in time to eat my Christmas dinner with the British army, almost on the site where the armored train had been captured.

I am thankful to say this is the only experience of this kind I have ever had.

RICHARD BENNETT RECOVERING FROM PUNCTURED LUNG

LONDON, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Physicians attending Richard Bennett, who was seriously injured when he was thrown from his horse recently, said tonight the actor was improving and apparently past the crisis. Bennett suffered a punctured lung and two broken ribs.

"The fact that he is 65 years old and has a bronchial chest caused some worry," they said, "but we are now confident no complications will arise."

The famed stage player's daughter, Barbara, who is the wife of Morten Downey, the singer, will reach England Thursday to be at her father's bedside. Another daughter, Joan, is expected to come from Hollywood soon, while his third daughter, Constance, also is ready to hurry to London from Hollywood if there is a turn for the worse in his condition.

Richman Bros. to Remodel Store on Southwest Side

A complete modernization of the Richman Brothers store at 64th and Halsted streets, from plans by Albert Kahn of Detroit, was announced yesterday. Art marble, stainless steel, and black glass will be used for the new store front. The interior work will comprise new wall finish, fixtures, and cases, all in modern design. The cost is estimated at $15,000 and completion is scheduled for four weeks after work starts. Business will continue throughout the modernization program.

MICKEY MOUSE JAM

IT LOOKS like Mickey Mouse is in a jam! And he is in a jam of the most delectable sort! (eight different flavors—see the list below). But Mickey Mouse is as clever about jam as about everything else! He chooses one that won't stay in the jar long. It's so pure and so good, mothers may give it in plenty to little folks—to big folks, too—and it's ready to make money for small folks.

Be a Mickey Mouse Banker

Each jar becomes a Mickey Mouse Bank when empty. The decorated cap carries a large head of Mickey Mouse, large enough to accommodate pennies and dimes right in Mickey's mouth. Mickey Mouse Jam not only gives the Mickey Mouse bank but the pennies to fill it, too. Bring the Mickey Mouse Jam jar caps back here, and for each two caps we will give you one cent.

141 GOLDEN GLOVE BOUTS SCHEDULED TONIGHT

HAWKS DROP TO 3D AS BRUINS, RANGERS WIN

Penalties Help N. Y. to Beat Eagles, 2-1.

The Blackhawks, idle last night, dropped to third place in the American section of the National Hocky league, due to victories scored by the New York Rangers and Boston Bruins. The Hawks play the Canadiens at Montreal tomorrow, the Maple Leafs at Toronto Saturday, and the Maroons here Sunday.

New York, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The New York Rangers maintained their two point lead in the National Hocky league's American division by defeating the St. Louis Eagles, 2 to 1, tonight, but not until they had received one of the scares of the season from the cellar dwellers.

The Eagles took the lead in the middle of the first period and held it until the middle of the third, when penalties paved the way for the two Ranger goals.

Bill Cook's Goal Wins.

Glen Brydson was in the box when Murray Murdoch completed a gang play by banging home Bunny Cook's rebound for the tying goal. Three minutes later, while Frank Jerwa was on the bench, Bill Cook flipped in the winning counter.

The St. Louis goal came off Joe Lamb's stick on a remarkable pass, which Jerwa got off while he was falling after being checked by Hal Starr.

Lineups:

LOUIS AND RAMAGE.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 19.—Joe Louis, Golden Gloves light heavyweight champion of 1934, undefeated since joining the professional ranks last July, has made a profound impression on coast boxing critics. They have only nice things to say of him in advance of his return engagement with Lee Ramage at Wrigley field Thursday night.

Louis' record in the pro ranks speaks for itself—eleven knockouts, one technical knockout, and two decisions in fourteen engagements. Best of his opponents were Buck Everett, also once a Golden Glover; Adolph Winter, another from the Golden Gloves ranks; Art Sykes, Stan Poreda, and Lee Ramage. All took the soporific punch except Winter, who lost a ten round decision.

It is not only this record which has attracted local critics, but also the exceedingly modest manner of Louis and his co-managers, John Roxborough of Detroit and Julian Black of Chicago, both of his color. Yes, Louis has beaten Ramage once. He thinks the latter was a great boxer in Chicago. Louis hopes to go far—in fact, he hopes to reach the top. He does not feel he has yet had enough experience to meet Max Baer. These statements emanating from the Louis camp are frank, convincing, and withal so free from braggadocio, in contrast with many pugilistic entourages, that local commentators became friendly and complimentary at once.

Ramage, in kind, responds with: "Many thanks to Joe for his pleasant remarks to the newspapers about my boxing skill. It's nice to hear such things." To which his manager, Pop Hubley, adds: "Yes, and if Louis thought Lee was great in his Chicago fight he won't recognize him this time. He'll think Lee has his twin brother there in the ring helping him."

Ramage now is close to 195 pounds, free from the sinus trouble which Hubley asserts was a great handicap in his previous bout with Louis.

That Big Black Bear.

Worry is a big black bear.
O, he likes to growl and bite
And chase grown folks all round about
When they should sleep at night.

But worry can be changed from bears
To birds with gauzy wing
That nest outside your lattice door
As merrily they sing.

Yes, worry can be changed from bears
To honey bees that twine
And sip the kisses from the lips
Of honeysuckle vine.

Should worry stop to visit you,
Just sweep him off your roof!
And lock your door with laughter
When that big black bear says "woof."

Refusing a Screen Offer.

We'd like to tell the name, but mustn't, of a young lady who doesn't live 1,000 miles from Chicago out here seeking a film career. Recently she was offered $300 for three weeks, above the usual scale for beginners, to appear in a picture now in production.

When told of the costume, or rather lack of costume, she would wear, she declined the offer although it was her first. "Don't you want to get anywhere?" queried the casting director. "If you have a figure, why keep it a secret?" "Well, I don't want to get anywhere that fast," replied the young lady who doesn't live 1,000 miles from Chicago. Which shows the value of an allowance from home if one is finicky about exposing one's figure.

N. U. AND CHICAGO WANT FOOTBALL GAME IN 1936

Resumption of football rivalry between Northwestern university and the University of Chicago was urged yesterday by students of both institutions.

At Northwestern the sentiment in favor of renewing gridiron relations was expressed in an editorial in the Daily Northwestern urging the athletic authorities of both schools to agree on a game in 1936.

In an effort to sound out student opinion on the Chicago campus a reporter from the Daily Northwestern interviewed a number of Maroon athletes, all of whom were quoted as being enthusiastically in favor of the game.

Shaughnessy Favors Series.

The present flare of interest over the game originated in remarks made by Coach Clark Shaughnessy of the Maroons in a recent speech in Evanston when he said that he was highly in favor of resuming the series that was disrupted in 1926. Previously the Northwestern-Chicago game had been one of the high points of the football season for many years.

In yesterday's editorial the Daily Northwestern said: "When the coaches and athletic directors convene to draft the 1936 football schedule next spring we hope that they will see fit to shedule a game between Northwestern and Chicago. Other athletic contests between the schools have been pleasant and interesting. We can make our football games the same way in the future."

Berwanger Wants Renewal.

Jay Berwanger, captain-elect of the Maroons, placed himself on record as favoring a renewal of the series. "I would certainly like to see the game renewed," he said. "Everybody I know seems to be in favor of the game."

While student opinion favors the game, athletic officials of the two schools remain luke warm, despite the facts that it is regarded as a "natural" and the receipts from such a game would be welcome to the depleted athletic budgets of both institutions.

T. N. Metcalf, athletic director of the University of Chicao, said that the game would generate too much rivalry and would interfere with the scholastic work of the students. "There is not so much student interest in minor sports, but the gridiron situation has too much dynamite in it," he said.

K. L. Wilson, Northwestern athletic director, said that he favored a resumption of the series, but that he doubted whether a game would be scheduled in 1936.

Talking It Over

[Copyright: 1935: By The Chicago Tribune.]

MAJOR league players will not use a glove in regular games unless it is properly broken in, a process usually completed by wearing it only in practice until it is ready. . . . Manager Charley Grimm of the Cubs has his own way of getting the newness out of his mitt. . . . He buys one in the tall, places a baseball in the palm, wraps the mitt around the ball, and then binds it with string. . . . In the spring he removes the string and the glove is fit for use. . . . The average salary of a National Hocky league player is now ten times that of the average when the league was founded seventeen years ago. . . . George Getz has ended his fishing trip at Long key, off the Florida coast, and will return to Chicago tomorrow. . . . Among the future Southern California track stars, now freshmen, are Delos Thurber, a 6 feet 6 inch high jumper; Don Skinner, who broad jumps 23 feet 10 inches, and Loren Miller, who has put the shot 51 feet 8 inches. . . . Jake Schaefer, who did not defend his 18.2 balk line billiard title last year, may return to competition next month. . . . Schaefer has been invited to play in a tournament in Paris in March with Edouard Horemans of Belgium and Roger Conti of France. . . .

There is a possibility that brother will fight brother in the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions at Chicago Stadium next week. . . . Jimmy Urso is the Grand Rapids flyweight title holder and his brother Patsy is Detroit's champion. . . . Both teams are entered in the meet and the pairings are determined by lot. . . . Patsy was an intercity winner last season. . . . Elmer Layden's chief problem these days is to keep his young son from yelling "Yea, Uncle Mike" when Elmer's brother wins hurdle events at Notre Dame track meets. . . . The Cincinnati Reds probably have the tallest pitching staf in the National league. . . . Among the men who will be taken to camp are Derringer, Davis, and Scott, all 6 feet 3 inches; Grissom and Richmond, 6 feet 2; Hollingsworth, 6 feet 1, and Brennan, 6 feet. . . . Whitey Wistert, former Michigan football and baseball star, is the physical prize of the corps, standing 6 feet 4 and weighing 210 pounds. . . .

Joe Farrell, the voice of the Blackhawks, claims a new record for Gottselig, star wing of the champions. . . . In three successive games at the Stadium John scored a goal while the Hawks were short handed. . . . He counted against St. Louis, New York Americans, and Montreal Canadiens. . . . It Freddy Lindstrom isn't able to play third base satisfactorily the Cubs will have more outfielders than they can use. . . . George Jacobus, president of the Professional Golfers' association, still is riled because the pari-mutuel betting system of the Agua Caliente open was slipped over on the pros too late for them to duck it without throwing the whole $5,000 prize money overboard. . . . Several years ago while playing the horses for a friend at Latonia Charlie Dressen, now manager of the Cincinnati Reds, discovered an error of $1,000 in the payoff of a mutuel cashier and returned it, to the grateful amazement of the track employé. . . .

Vaughan, Former Tennessee Star, Signs with Lions

Knoxville, Tenn., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Charles [Pig] Vaughan, who for three years was the spear head in the University of Tennessee's football passing attack, today signed a one year contract with the Detroit Lions professional team.

Maj. Neyland Leaves for Four Years in Panama

New York, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Maj. Bob Neyland, former University of Tennessee football coach, sailed today into a sort of gridiron exile. With Mrs. Neyland, he left on the transport Republic for Panama to begin four years of service in the regular army after nine years at Tennessee.

HEAD PLAY GIVES HIS WARNING TO EQUIPOISE FANS

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Just to prove to the public that the Santa Anita handicap with its $100,000 added money will not be a one horse event, Head Play, handsome son of My Play, worked one mile and a quarter today in 2 minutes 4 1-5 seconds.

The performance indicated that Trainer Tommy Taylor would have Mrs. Silas B. Mason's 5 year old chestnut ready for the comeback attempt Saturday against Equipoise, topheavy favorite, Twenty Grand, and the rest.

Won with Victorian.

Taylor brought Victorian along to win the Agua Caliente handicap in 1930, worth $108,300, and has been training Head Play along the same lines.

Winner of the preakness, the son of My Play—Red Head, needs heavy work. Taylor has given it to him to take off surplus weight accumulated after he was retired because of a bowed tendon.

In his first start here Head Play finished last in the Christmas day stakes, which High Glee won. In the second race he showed early speed, leading into the stretch, but folded up. His third venture showed further improvement as he led most of the way and then finished out of the money.

Scores Over Other Entries.

Then came the San Antonio handicap, where he was a surprise winner over Fleam, Azucar, Sarada, and Good Goods, all nominees for the Saturday event. This was at a mile and an eighth.

With 117 pounds up, compared to 130 for Equipoise, Head Play promises to be a serious threat.

Several others of the probable starters worked today at the handicap distance. Azucar, F. M. Alger Jr., thoroughbred, worked the mile and a quarter in 2:05 1-5.

Mate, whose total earnings of $297,660 put him in a position to surpass Sun Beau's all time record should he win here, was put through the route in 2:06 1-5; while Ted Clark, a great sprinter, owned by C. N. Mooney, went 2:06 2-5.

200 MILES AN HOUR

May be a little speedy for your automobile, bicycle or other favorite means of transportation, but the faster you travel to the ticket offices the better seats you'll obtain for the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions at the Chicago Stadium.

The tournament starts next Monday night, when the champions from 11 states will be battling in three rings. It continues next Tuesday and Wednesday, with fighting in two rings.

Then there's the grand windup March 8 at the Stadium.

All are on sale at the Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, and at Tribune Tower. Or mail check or money order (for finals only) to Golden Gloves Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago.

BY FRENCH LANE.

From all along the north shore came bidders for Golden Glove honors to the Loyola university gymnasium last night.

At the stroke of seven the fight started in two rings and it marked the beginning of the north section Golden Gloves tournament, the last of the Chicago sectional meets to get under way.

More Fights Tonight.

The fighting continued for four hours until 95 bouts had been held and still the north side champions had not emerged. The north side sectional meet will continue tonight, and at the same time fighting will be resumed on the west side with semi-final battles at the Community Recreation Center gymnasium.

On the north side tonight starting At 7:30 o'clock another assortment of 90 bouts will be offered with fighting in two rings. On the west side the program will consist of 51 bouts, the first to start at 7 o'clock. There will be fighting in but one ring on the west side. The admission at each tournament center will be 60 cents plus tax.

Fighters Are Tough.

While the capacity crowd of more than 2,500 was assembling in the Loyola gymnasium, hardened fistic followers were a bit skeptical about the sort of fights they were to see.

"Can these gold coasters really fight?" they asked one another.

Well, it wasn't a pink tea any way you sized it up. The strange mixtures of nationalities and races which came together gave a hint that Chicago's north side is as much of a melting pot as the other sections of the city.

"No wonder Japan needs a big

These eight champions, members of the Nashville Tennessean's Golden Gloves team, will be the south's representatives in the Tournament of Champions, which opens Monday night at the Chicago Stadium and continues the next two evenings. The Nashville tournament drew boxers from several southern states.

C. D. G. A. TRIES TO AVOID TOURNEY DATE CONFLICTS

Asks Clubs to Set Fixture Events Now.

The Chicago District Golf association, in preparing for one of the busiest seasons in its history, already has taken steps to obtain the coöperation of all clubs in this vicinity to solve one of the major problems of its schedule, that of the perennial conflict of tournament dates.

The association has forwarded to the secretaries of every club a letter requesting them to fix the dates of their annual invitational events as soon as possible, so that they may be included in the annual red letter schedule published by the association at the outset of the season. It is enclosing a copy of the tentative schedule to aid them in setting dates for these tournaments.

Clubs Neglect to Set Date.

In the past many clubs have neglected to set a date for their particular invitational event until late in the season, which sometimes resulted in as many as five or six tournaments being held on one day. This congested condition lessened the attendance at a number of tournaments which had been established fixtures for years. Many of them incidentally clashed with the dates of the district association's own one day handicap events, probably the best single feature on the annual schedule.

Thus far, the only application made for a place on the C. D. G. A. schedule to A. W. Hale, chairman of the tournament committee, is that of the Medinah Country club, which will hold its annual Camel Trail day, largest invitational tourney of its kind, on Aug. 14.

Invites Use of Headquarters.

The C. D. G. A. also is inviting the use of its headquarters at 14 East Jackson boulevard as a clearing house for employés of industrial and business houses, clubs and the like, who wish to find clubs where they may hold tournaments. Too many of these delay until May, when many golf club tournament schedules are filled, whereas immediate action will give them a better choice of clubs and dates for later in the season.

MAY.

*13—National open trials at Medinah.
16—C. D. G. A. handicap at Olympia Fields

MAX BAER PLANS WEDDING WITH EASTERN GIRL

Sacramento, Cal., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Max Baer, heavyweight boxing champion, said today he plans to marry a wealthy eastern society belle soon. He maintained a strict silence as to his future wife's identity. He did admit, however, that she is a 28 year old brunette.

"I've never been photographed with my wife-to-be," Baer said, "and I've never told any one her name, but we'll be married soon. Nobody is going to learn her name until the wedding bells ring."

Baer's matrimonial plans were revealed during recesses of the court hearing on the suit in which he seeks to obtain an accounting from his former manager, J. Hamilton Lorimer of Oakland, and also to break a managerial contract with Lorimer.

MAROONS BEAT LOYOLA SWIM TEAM, 42 TO 41

The University of Chicago swimming team defeated Loyola, 42 to 41, in a dual meet at Bartlett natatorium last night. Loyola won five points to Chicago's four, but the Maroons had greater strength in the place points. Outstanding performances were those by Gordon Cornelius of Loyola, who was high point man with victories in the 60 yard and 100 yard free style events, covering the latter in 0:55.2, and by Charles Wilson of Chicago, who won the 220 yard free style in 2:18.8. The Maroon water polo team won its fifth straight collegiate match by a score of 10 to 0.

ANOTHER DEAN SIGNS CONTRACT WITH A BOAST

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 19.—(AP)—A baseball pitcher, 23 year old Oscar [Farmer] Dean, who boasts the distinction of having a manager, today signed a contract with the Mission Reds of the Coast league and modestly stated he would "win 20 games this season."

Dean isn't related to the brothers Dizzy and Daffy Dean, also pitchers, but he's like the Deans when it comes to talking.

"He's just like Dizzy when he signed with the Cards," said Manager Gabby Street, who once handled the St. Louis pitcher.

Loughran Speeds Home to Visit Mother, Seriously Ill

Bobby Pacho Sure He'll Beat Day Tomorrow

Bobby Pacho is so confident of whipping Davey Day in a ten round fight at the Coliseum tomorrow that he has accepted a match with Frank Sagilio for presentation in the same arena on March 1. A great number of the fans who witnessed his three round drill with Puggy Weinert yesterday hold the same opinion. At any rate the Pacho-Day scrap is creating considerable interest, for Bobby appears to be the strongest opponent Day has met thus far. Day, who defeated Sagilio in his last start on Nov. 2, sparred four rounds yesterday, two each with Frank Keevil and Jack Lazar. He did not appear at his best.

Chicago Stadium officials expect to learn today whether Champion Max Baer will be able to fulfill an agreement to appear in a ten round nontitle bout at the west side arena next month. Several prominent heavyweights have been lined up but Baer's opponent will not be announced until one or two matters in California concerning Max have been settled.

Confident that the way will be made clear for the champion's appearance at the Stadium, Co-Matchmakers James C. Mullen and Nate Lewis yesterday started arranging a heavyweight supporting card. Jack Schipper of Rotterdam, claimant of the championship of Holland, will fight a suitable opponent. Schipper, 21 years old, weighs 225 pounds. He will be making his debut in this country.

King Levinsky is scheduled to fight at Daytona Beach, Fla., tomorrow night. . . . Dick Sisk, Brighton Park welterweight, and his brother, Johnny Sisk, member of the Chicago Bears football team, returned yesterday from a ten weeks' stay at Los Angeles, Cal. . . . Dick engaged in four contests at Los Angeles, winning three and boxing a draw. . . . Dick's management contract with Jack O'Keefe of South Chicago has expired and so Johnny has taken over the management of his younger brother. . . . Al Diamond, Paterson, N. J., middleweight, commenced workouts yesterday at Trafton's gymnasium for a ten round encounter at Milwaukee, Wis., Monday. . . . He will head for Milwaukee Monday morning.

Art Sykes, Elmira, N. Y., heavyweight, accepted terms last night for a ten round contest against Al Ettore, Philadelphia, at St. Paul March 1. Everett Rightmire, Sioux City, Ia., and Dave Barry, Springfield, Ill., meet in another match at this distance.

The Mastro Boxing club yesterday set back its next amateur show, scheduled at Community Recreation center Feb. 27, until March 6. . . . An amateur card will be offered at the 122d Field Artillery Sergeants club tomorrow.

Oleson, Yousif Wrestle to Draw at White City

Olaf Oleson, Swedish heavyweight wrestler, and Mehmet Yousif of Turkey wrestled to a 60 minute draw in the windup of the professional wrestling show at White City last night. In other matches Tommy Marvin threw Baby Zaharias in 18 minutes and 35 seconds; Hans Bauer and George Mack went to a 30 minute draw, and Bobby Bruns pinned Lou Tucker in 11 minutes and 40 seconds

GEHRIG SIGNS 1935 CONTRACT WITH YANKEES

Report Lou Will Receive $30,000 Salary.

At a conference with Owner Jacob Ruppert and Business Manager Ed Barrow, held in the colonel's brewery, Gehrig affixed his signature to a one year contract that paves the way for him to increase his honors.

Report Salary $30,000.

No official figures were announced, but it is understood Gehrig signed for $30,000, an increase of $7,000 over the $23,000 he received under the two year contract that carried him through 1933-'34. He voiced a demand for $35,000 upon his recent return from a tour of the orient and Europe, and the club is understood to have countered with a $27,000 offer.

The satisfied announcement of Col. Ruppert after pictures had been taken of the occasion was:

"We had no trouble signing Gehrig. He merited a raise in salary on the strength of his wonderful record last year. He is satisfied and so is the club."

Gehrig smilingly declined to divulge the terms of his contract. All, however, agreed he received a substantial increase. The $30,000 figure represents a compromise on what Gehrig demanded and what the Yankees were ready to pay him.

It's His Best.

The signing brings Gehrig the highest salary baseball's famed iron man ever has received. His best previous contract was for $25,000 in 1932. More, Gehrig, aside from the distinction that comes to him through an uninterrupted succession of 1,504 games in an all time record for consecutive play, takes his place now with six other diamond stars to receive such a salary in baseball's long history for playing only.

Babe Ruth's $80,000 peak is the all time record. Others whose salaries paralleled that of Gehrig without the classification of player-manager were Ty Cobb, Rogers Hornsby, Tris Speaker, Hack Wilson, and Al Simmons. No player in either major league boasts a contract the equal of Gehrig's exclusively for playing. Dizzy Dean signed with the St. Louis Cardinals for around $22,500.

Will Report March 11.

Gehrig will report with the second Yankee squad at St. Petersburg, Fla., March 11. His signing on the eve of the return here of Ruth reduced the number of Yankee holdouts and relieved the worries of Col. Ruppert proportionately. Ruth returns tomorrow on the liner Manhattan and is expected to communicate his plans to Col. Ruppert without delay. The Yankees have sent him one of their $1 a year contracts as a protective measure, awaiting his decision on whether he intends to reconsider his announced determination not to sign a player contract this year.

Robert Rolfe, Yankee infielder, submitted his signed contract today, reducing the number of actual holdouts to five. Ruth is not included in this category, nor is Lefty Vernon Gomez, who, like the Babe, has not yet seen his contract. Pitcher Charley Devens has not receded from his decision to retire. This leaves Tony Lazzeri, Frankie Crossetti, Myril Hoag, Charley Ruffing, and George Selkirk as the only regulars unsigned.

MOON MULLINS—CUPID AT WORK

AS NEAR AS I CAN FIGURE IT OUT, THE PLUSHBOTTOMS HAS AGREED TO MAKE THIS SEPARATION PERMANENT.
WHAT MAKES YOU THINK THEY HAVE MY DEAR?
WHY, SINCE HE'S FOUND OUT WHERE SHE'S AT, SHE'S IGNORED HIM FOR A WEEK-
OH NO-SHE AIN'T! SHE'S HAD NOTHIN' AT ALL TO DO WITH HIM, OH WELL, YOU KNOW, MOON- I TOOK HER FOR BETTER OR FOR WORSE AND—
YOU TOOK NOTHIN! YOU WAS TOOK!! BUT I GOT YOU INTO THIS, PAL-NOW I GOTTA GET YOU OUT.

HIRSCH, PARKER, AND HYDE PARK LIGHTS TRIUMPH

Hyde Park, Hirsch, and Parker remained among the undefeated teams in the Chicago Public High School league lightweight basketball race by winning their games yesterday. Hirsch and Parker, however, have played tie games, Roosevelt in the north section, is the only other undefeated quintet.

In the west section, Tuley remained in a tie for first place with Manley, when both teams won. The former defeated Marshall, 33 to 22, while Manley scored a 38 to 17 victory over Kelvyn Park. The Tuley-Marshall game was tied at the half, 12 to 12, and at the end of the third quarter Tuley led, 18 to 17. It was not until the final period that Tuley scored 15 points, while Marshall was being held to 5.

Farragut Beats Tilden.

Three games were played in the central section. Farragut won from Tilden, 44 to 29, to remain in second place, while Hyde Park split a double header with Kelly. The Hyde Park lights won, 29 to 26, while in the heavyweight encounter Kelly triumphed, 21 to 18.

Hirsch had an easy time scoring a 55 to 15 victory over Morgan Park on the latter's court. Parker invaded the Calumet floor to win, 32 to 16.

Smicklas Leads Scorers.

Smicklas of Farragut was the leading scorer of the day, making eight baskets and five free throws for 21 points. Moore of Hirsch was second with 15. The lineups:

FrenchWoman Star Survives Tennis Play

New York, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The five seeded players in the 28th women's national indoor singles tennis tournament today moved up to the third round, bowling over their opponents in straight sets.

Mme. Sylvia Henrotin, France's second leading player, allowed Mrs. Leroy Campbell of New York only 15 points in two love sets.

Of the seeded American players who stand against her, only Jane Sharp of Pasadena, Cal., had difficulty in upholding form. Suffering from a cold, the California girl weathered a stormy first set to conquer Mrs. J. V. Cremonin an unranked Metropolitan player, 7-5, 6-2.

These Girls Are Good.

The three other American seeded players permitted their opponents to take only five games. Mrs. Dorothy Andrus of New York, seeded No. 1, defeated Mrs. Frederic R. Harris of New York, 6-2, 6-1; Norma Taubele, the defending titleholder and No. 2, out down Elena Cicone of Boston, 6-1, 6-1, and Helen Pedersen, national girls' champion and No. 4, beat Mary McGusty of New York, 6-0, 6-0.

Mme. Henrotin showed no signs of the carelessness that marked her play in the opening round. She made her challenge for the American title more formidable by scoring on repeated service aces and making her flat forehand drives count heavily for placements.

The French player will receive her first severe test tomorrow when she engages Miss Pedersen of Stamford, Conn., in the quarter-finals. It will be a match between hard hitters, for the American girls' champion is noted for her powerful shots.

Illness Is Handicap.

For the second straight day Miss Sharp kept her place in the tournament against the advice of her doctor, and her weakened physical condition almost cost her the first set. Mrs. Cremonin played her shots deep, keeping the California girl from coming up to the net, where she excels. In the final game of the second set Miss Sharp rallied from 0-40 to win after it had gone to deuce five times.

In the other quarter-final matches tomorrow Miss Sharp will play Helen Bernhard, the 13 year old New Yorker, who advanced by default; Mrs. Andrus meets Hilda Boehn of Boston, and Miss Taubele takes on an old metropolitan rival, Millicent Hirsh.

Kessler Gains on Haarlow in Scoring Race

The remarkable performance of Bob Kessler, Purdue forward, in Monday night's game with Indiana, made it apparent that Bill Haarlow of Chicago is by no means assured of the individual scoring title in the Western conference. Kessler made 23 points, a new season record for Big Ten competition, in leading his team to a 44 to 38 victory over the Hoosiers.

This brought Kessler's total to 97 points. He has made 35 field goals and 27 free throws. Haarlow is leading the conference with 112 points, having made 40 field goals and 32 free throws, but he has played in nine conference games whereas Kessler has performed in only eight. Haarlow has three more games in which to play and Kessler four, so if the Purdue star continues at his present rate, he will have an excellent chance of overtaking his Chicago rival.

Mostly About Dogs

By Bob Becker

The German Shepherd

Watchfulness, fidelity, incorruptibility, and courageousness—those are four outstanding qualities of the German shepherd dog, the breed that experienced such tremendous popularity a few years ago. Swept into the public fancy after the world war, achieving a popularity that eventually harmed the breed, the German shepherd still is the preferred dog for one of the most practical services that can be rendered in this world today—guiding blind people. Suppose we forget the invaluable services of the big German-shepherds in aiding police departments; the remarkable work of the breed as guardians of homes and children; or the amazing work of the breed during the world war on the battle fronts where the dogs carried messages through heavy gunfire. Granting that the German shepherd had done none of these things which have brought great credit to the breed, the fact that the shepherd is today considered the best canine companion, guide, and guardian of the blind is enough to make this dog eligible for the canine hall of fame.

The German shepherd is a working dog. He has the brains, the strength and the inheritance of traits that make him a very useful dog. He should be trained in obedience, at least. Because he is such a loyal, honest animal he is an ideal companion and protector in the home. Thousands of boys and girls, in whose homes there are German shepherd dogs, have had ample opportunity to learn what a pal a shepherd dog can be. The shepherd likes children—likes the responsibility of going around with them and watching over them. In this breed there is a strong inheritance of guardianship and "herding. Like several other "herding breeds," there is behind the German shepherd a long history of work with man and sheep. This gives the shepherd a working conformation and the desire to do the will of the master.

It is unfortunate for the breed that it has been labeled "police dog" and sometimes is called "wolf dog." Both carry the inference that the German shepherd is a savage, ruthless canine, which is not true. A true shepherd dog must not be of a savage, ferocious disposition. It is true that the breed has been trained to do interesting and valuable work as police department aids. Elliott Humphrey, now in charge of dog training for the Seeing Eye organization in Morristown, N. J., and one of the best authorities on the German shepherd, found in the dog training schools of the old country, where shepherds were being trained for police work, that one of the hardest things to teach a shepherd was to bite a man on command. Some instructors failed to teach their dogs even to attack a man—a thing a dog trained for police work must do if threatened by a criminal with a club or gun. This is a true index to the well bred, German shepherd.

Unfortunately the recent fad of owning a German shepherd resulted in many people, who never had owned a dog of any kind, acquiring shepherds with the result that scores of untrained, neglected German shepherds ran wild. Naturally many untoward incidents happened. Moreover, breeders in the desire to make sales bred too many nervous high strung, unsound dogs. Result: Trouble, and the breed began to acquire an unfavorable reputation.

Today fortunately the breeders and enthusiasts behind this breed as, for example, the German Shepherd Club of the Great Lakes, are on a sound program to see that true to type examples of the German shepherd are being developed. Such dogs make superlative companions.

Boston Store Defeats Postl Sextet, 2 to 0

The Boston Store team outskated the Postl club at the Stadium last night to defeat them, 2 to 0, and take a one point lead over the Baby Ruth sextet in the Chicago Amateur Hocky league. In the opening game the Vodrazka Hornets and Jones & Bamruckers played a 1 to 1 tie.

The Boston Store, defeated by Postl a week ago, showed complete reversal of form. In the early minutes of the first period John Whittaker, center, took a pass from Bladnik and, after being spilled, managed to steer the disc under Clark Porter for the first goal.

Janelle Scores Again.

Eddie Janelle, leading scorer of the league, added another goal toward the end of the second period with the help of Floyd Murphy.

The Hornets and Baumruckers, playing for the Metropolitan championship, played a close defensive game with the Hornets first to score in the middle of the second period, Tony White taking a pass from Franklin Miles and beating Don Adams from close in. The defending champions, Baumruckers, had a chance to tie the score on a penalty shot awarded against Miles, but Gordon Johnson missed it.

Miss Second Free Shot.

In the third period another penalty shot awarded against Miles gave the Baumruckers a second chance to tie, but this time Gill Miller shot by the net. With less than two minutes left to play Gordon Johnson took a pass from Mike Howard and beat the Hornets goalie, Tessman.

The next program will take place Sunday afternoon when the Baby Ruths meet the Farm Crests of Detroit, formerly the White Stars, national amateur champions, in the feature, and the Boston Store will play the C. Y. O. All-Stars.

COAST GUARDS MEET CUSTNAS.

BEACH TOO ROUGH FOR SPEED TEST; EVANS PACKS UP

Campbell Believed Ready to Abandon Trial.

Daytona Beach, Fla., Feb. 19.—(AP)—The retreat from Daytona, a movement that may develop major proportions unless the winds and tides start behaving soon, started today as Dave Evans, Indianapolis race track driver, departed with his racing car after finding the stretch on which Sir Malcolm Campbell hopes to set a new automobile speed record too rough for even moderate running.

Evans took out the silver racer in which he set a new record Friday of 125 miles an hour for this type of speedster. He lifted his speed to 100 miles an hour as he went down the beach, and the car bumped so badly he was nearly thrown out of his seat. He promptly lifted his foot, dropped to an amble, came in and started packing.

"Beach Simply Unfit."

"It's impossible," he said, "the beach simply is not fit for any kind of speed."

His personal test of conditions checked with those of the experts who are slowly beginning to grow crazy trying to explain the unusual situation at the time when the beach should be at its best. With the highest tides, the full of the moon, it is instead like a washboard. Masses of sea worms were washed in on this morning's high tide and red coquina shells, slippery and treacherous under speeding wheels, cover the 11½ mile stretch. The beach is soft from rains that have lifted the level of the water underneath the dunes, and there are holes, twisting gullies, washboard humps all along the way.

"Campbell Wouldn't Have Chance."

"It was terrible at 100," said Evans. "Campbell wouldn't have a chance trying to get his bluebird up around the record of 272. The first bump he hit he'd be flying through the air like an opening kickoff and we'd be trying to catch him."

Evans' departure leaves Wild Bill Cummings, Indianapolis winner last year, the only Diesel representative here. He will take his car out in an attempt to lift Evans' record as soon as the beach is runnable. While he has made no statement, Campbell is believed to be considering seriously the possibility of packing up unless conditions show signs immediately of changing, returning later for a record try.

JUNIOR COLLEGE QUINTETS PLAY 2 GAMES TODAY

Five games will be played within the next three days in the Northern Illinois Junior College basketball conference. Today North Park travels to Thornton, and Concordia invades the Chicago Normal court. Tomorrow La Grange, conference leader, meets Morton on the latter's home floor, while Joliet faces Lisle. Only one game is scheduled for Friday night—a practice game between Morgan Park and North Park.

NUSSLEIN AND RICHARDS WIN IN MIAMI TOURNEY

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 19.—(AP)—First of the seeded players fell today in the Miami Beach professional tennis tournament as Bill Einsman of Brooklyn conquered Paul Heston of Washington, seeded sixth, 6-3, 1-6, 6-2, 6-1.

Herman Peterson of Fisher's Island, N. Y., seeded eighth, had a narrow escape in a five set match with Joe Whalen, a lanky, 19 year old Miamian playing in his first professional tourney. Peterson won, 6-0, 4-6, 6-3, 4-6, 6-1.

Both Champion Hans Nusslein, top ranked star, and Vincent Richards, seeded third, won without being extended, the German turning back Allan K. Wylie of Chicago, 6-1, 6-1, 6-1, and Richards eliminating Rudy Noble of Forest Hills, N. Y., 6-0, 8-6, 6-2.

In other first round matches, George O'Connell of Chicago defeated Joe Maguire of Greenwich, Conn., 7-5, 6-4, 6-4. Peter Peterson of Spring Lake, N. J., defeated Hugh Canley of Miami Beach, 6-0, 6-1, 6-2. Howard Zaech of Cleveland defeated Mike Dolan of Montauk Point, N. Y., 6-1, 3-6, 6-1, 6-2.

MACK SETS OUT TO TEST HIS SON AS A'S COACH

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Hopeful of "keeping baseball in the family," Connie Mack set out for Florida tonight to take up, among other things, the job of finding out if Connie Jr. "has what it takes" to coach the Athletics.

He left for the spring training camp with five of the Macks, and though he talked about the pennant his first thoughts were of the son he hopes will turn out to be "a chip off the old block."

"I'm not saying how far my boy will go in baseball," he said. "He'll get a chance, and if he makes good I'll be happy and proud. But his future in baseball is up to him and he'll have to prove his merit the same as any other boy."

King Levinsky Knocks Out Townsend in 2d Round

FAST FREIGHTS BATTLE KANSAS QUINTET TONIGHT

The Fast Freights will try tonight to halt the Hutchinson, Kas., Renos in a Missouri Valley A. A. U. basketball game at the 132d regiment armory, Madison and Rockwell streets.

In taking league basketball to the west side for the first time in two years the Freights will present a revised lineup that will bring Sid Yates, former University of Chicago star, into the game for the first time this season. Another new addition is George Gaber, former Illinois star.

The two rivals have broken even in their last two meetings, the Freights beating the Jayhawks here last year in an overtime engagement and then losing at Hutchinson last December.

Two preliminaries have been arranged, starting at 7 o'clock. The Spencer Coal Girls, United States champions, meet the Montgomery Motor Sales, and the Speed Boosters, fast colored team, battle the B. B. B. heavyweight quintet.

EATON SHOOTS 70 TO TAKE LEAD IN HOUSTON EVENT

Houston, Tex., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Zell Eaton, western amateur champion from Oklahoma City, took a two stroke lead in the 21st annual Houston Country club invitation tournament today when he checked in with 70, one under par, for the first round of qualifying play. He smashed par by three strokes on the out nine.

As the field moves into the second round of preliminary play tomorrow, Gus Moreland, three times winner of the title which Johnny Dawson of Chicago now holds, will attempt to overhaul Eaton. Moreland shot 72 today. Dawson was five over par for the day, sharing third place with three others at 76. They were Harold Cohn Jr. of Houston, Rube Albaugh of Dallas, and John Barnum of Edinburg.

Lake Forest Varsity, Frosh Play at Detroit Tonight

Lake Forest college varsity and freshman basketball teams will play return games tonight at Beloit. In the first games of the series Beloit won both games, the varsity 32 to 25, and the freshmen, 40 to 38. This will be the fourth game in seven days for the Lake Forest varsity team.

MONARCHS AIM TO CUT BUDWEISER LEAD TONIGHT

NO ONE KNOWS HOW MUCH SOX OFFERED BONURA

Despite the controversies arising from Zeke Bonura's holdout attitude, Lou Comiskey, president of the White Sox, declared yesterday that he had not made public the figures in last year's contract under which the young first sacker operated or the salary offered him for the coming season.

Bonura was given a boost over his 1934 pay is all that Comiskey cared to admit.

New York, Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Treasury bonds met active demand today and advanced steadily. Traders and banks disregarded gold clauses and concentrated their buying on all issues not immediately redeemable. Trade totaled $16,122,000 par value, against $18,255,000 Monday.

Practically the entire list of direct and indirect obligations advanced to new record highs, the exception being Liberty 3½s and the first and fourth 4¼s.

Conversions Fears Weaken Liberties.

The failure of these to follow the general trend was traceable directly to serious discussion that the treasury might celebrate its court victory by undertaking a gigantic conversion of all the long term bonds that can be called, virtually forcing the holders of these gold currency bonds to accept a substitute bond paying a lower rate of interest and lacking any mention of gold. Liberty 3½s and first 4¼s were actually weak.

There were many strong spots in the foreign list as in domestic bonds of the same general grade. Australians were active on the buying side, especially Commonwealth 4½s and New South Wales 5s of 1957. Strength in others of this section of the market was pronounced in spite of the fact that brokers and banks reported only limited demand from abroad.

Prime Bonds Rise Slightly.

Gilt edged corporate bonds were fractionally higher, but not more than normally active. Several advanced through their old record highs. It was the same kind of movement observed on numerous other occasions this year. Higher prices were paid for American Telephone 5s of two issues, American Smelting 5s, Santa Fe general 4s and the 4s of 1960, Chesapeake and Ohio general 4½s, Bell of Pennsylvania 5s, Detroit Edison 5s of 1962, Consolidated Gas 4½s, most of the Pennsylvania railroad list and Union Pacific refunding 5s.

Benjamin Electric Manufacturing.

Investors' Guide: May I ask your opinion of Benjamin Electric company bonds?—Miss K. M.

Answer: Benjamin Electric Manufacturing company manufactures industrial lighting and wiring apparatus, electric specialties, and metal specialties. Its plant is at Des Plaines, Ill., a Chicago suburb.

Increased business activity during the year ended March 31, 1934, enabled the company to earn its interest charges 1.71 times. During the two preceding years it sustained losses of $226,000 and $232,000 before interest charges of $53,000 and $56,000, respectively. For the year ended March 31, 1931, interest was earned 5.39 times, against 4.06 times in the preceding year.

Current position on March 31, 1934, was satisfactory. Cash assets of $1,062,000 were well in excess of total current liabilities of $137,000. Funded debt, consisting of the first mortgage 6s, due 1937, was $854,000, against $928,000 the year before.

Fort Dodge, Des Moines and Southern Railroad.

Investors' Guide: I write to inquire of the status of Fort Dodge, Des Moines and Southern railroad preferred.—H. T. A.

Answer: Preferred stock of Fort Dodge, Des Moines and Southern Railroad company is just about a hopeless speculation. The company, which operates 151 miles of electric railroad from Des Moines to Boone, Ames, Fort Dodge, and Lehigh, Ia., has been in receivership since Feb. 18, 1930.

It has operated at losses consistently since 1926. In 1933 net loss was $417,000, against $579,000 in 1932, $240,000 in 1931, and $201,000 in 1930.

On Dec. 31, 1933, current assets of only $563,000 compared with total current liabilities of $1,572,000. Profit and loss deficit of $2,232,000 compared with stock equity of $3,997,000.

The 13,631 shares of 7 per cent $100 par cumulative preferred are junior to $5,770,000 of funded debt.

Quotations.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly advise current quotations on March 31 and April 1, 1934, of United Light and Railway 6s, 1952; Western United Gas and Electric 5½s, due 1955, and Wisconsin Power and Light first 5s, due 1956?—C. W. G.

Answer: On March 31, 1934, United Light and Railway 6s, 1952, closed at 72½; Western United Gas and Electric 5½s, 1955, closed at 87½, and Wisconsin Power and Light company 5s, due 1956, closed at 73 on the New York Curb exchange.

April 1, 1934, was a Sunday. Consequently there are no quotations as of that date.

BRITISH STUDY ACTION TO GET GOLD PAYMENT

Await Text of Ruling to Map Program.

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Feb. 19.—Legal action to obtain payment in gold dollars or their equivalent will be considered within a fortnight by British holders of American government bonds, it was learned today. Soon after the full text of the Supreme court's judgments reaches England next week there will be a meeting of the London advisory and protective committee formed eighteen months ago under the chairmanship of Sir Harry Gloster Armstrong to guard the interests of British investors in American securities. Whether the legal action will have any chance of success or whether it will be possible at all cannot be determined until the court's decision is studied in its entirety.

Deny Decision Conclusive.

"We contend the interests of foreign holders have never been submitted to the Supreme court," said Barnett Hollander of the New York law firm of Hollander & Bernheimer, counsel for the London committee. "An effort was made to file a brief in the recent Supreme court cases," he said, "but the necessary consent of government lawyers could not be obtained."

Inasmuch as a foreigner cannot sue the United States government there is almost no alternative except possible pressure through diplomatic channels, Mr. Hollander explained. As Great Britain has devalued its own currency, he admitted there was little likelihood her diplomats would do anything for British bondholders at Washington.

Panama May Renew Claim.

New York, Feb. 19.—[Special.]—The contention of the Republic of Panama that the United States government is obliged to pay in gold or its equivalent the $250,000 annuities due under the canal zone treaty of 1904 is likely to be renewed within a short time as a result of the gold decision, it was stated today.

When the last payment of a quarter million dollars came due on Feb. 27, 1934, the treasury sent a check for that amount but Panama contended it was entitled to payment in terms of gold coin of the United States as constituted in 1904, or $422,500 annually.

French Finance Relieved.

PARIS, Feb. 19.—(AP)—French financial circles expressed the belief today that the United States gold clause decision would contribute to the stability of world currencies and price levels. As for its effect on French economy, it was asserted in many quarters the cheap money policy of Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin would be greatly facilitated.

Generally, the belief is expressed that by relieving European markets of their anxiety the gold decision will result in a return of the normal flow of funds, particularly in Paris.

Germans See Roosevelt Victory.

BERLIN, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The American gold clause decision was interpreted in the German press today as an important victory for President Roosevelt. None of the papers attempted to interpret the significance of the decision from Germany's point of view.

Business leaders expressed the opinion the court's edict would mean there would be fewer new financial complications. Reichsbank officials called a special meeting to study the ruling, but withheld specific comment.

Fraser Calls it Forward Step.

BASEL, Switzerland, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Leon Fraser, president of the Bank of International Settlements, said today the gold clause decision is a step forward in getting back to an international monetary standard.

League of nations announced experts forecast the decision would stimulate stabilization of conditions in the United States and would tend to have a stabilizing effect abroad.

Swedish Expert Is Caustic.

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Prof. Gustav Cassel, noted authority on gold questions, said today the gold decision of the United States Supreme court "has the greatest moral significance, especially as regards the duty of a government to fulfill its obligations."

Italian Bond Owners Demur.

ROME, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Hundreds of Italians who hold dollar bonds with the gold clause were disappointed by the decision, but otherwise the Supreme court's opinion did not materially alter the situation here.

U. S. Starts Printing New Issue of Baby Bonds

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Actual printing of the first "baby bonds" was begun today at the bureau of printing and engraving with Secretary Morgenthau as an interested spectator. These securities, which are designed "for the small investor with an urge to save," will go on sale at 14,000 postoffices about March 1.

SEC Appoints Barthell Head of Office Here

Edward E. Barthell Jr., 37 year old Chicago attorney, yesterday was appointed to head the local office of the securities and exchange commission. He will be known as regional administrator, and will be in charge of SEC operations in the middle west states from his headquarters here.

An impressive array of political sponsors appeared for Barthell. Speaker of the House Joseph W. Byrns and Secretary of State Cordell Hull were among his advocates. Attorney Edward E. Barthell Sr. said yesterday that the family has known Secretary Hull for years and that Speaker Byrns had been a next door neighbor of the Barthells in Nashville, Tenn., where the new regional administrator was born and educated.

Barthell Sr. added that Senator Lewis also sponsored his son's appointment.

Leaves for Capital Conference.

Barthell Jr., left for Washington yesterday at practically the same time his selection became known, and will confer today with the SEC officials. When he left, his father said, he was uncertain as to how soon the local office may be opened or where. He expected it to start functioning in a few days, probably at 208 South La Salle street.

The new appointee has been practicing law since 1922, most of the time in Chicago with the firm of Barthell & Rundall. He has been identified with legal work in connection with the security business, and has been counselor to investment and stock exchange firms. From this position he has represented clients in proceedings preliminary to issuance of new securities, first with the securities division of the federal trade commission and recently with the SEC.

Familiar with Regulations.

"He thus brings to his work," said the official announcement, "not only a background of business and legal experience, but an intimacy and familiarity with the subject matters of the commission's regulations and supervision."

The zone centered at Chicago includes Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Kentucky, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas, and all of Missouri except Kansas City. In this area are ten exchanges—Chicago Board of Trade, Chicago Stock and Chicago Curb exchanges; Milwaukee Grain and Stock exchange; Minneapolis-St. Paul Stock exchange; Cleveland Stock exchange; Detroit Stock exchange; Cincinnati Stock exchange; Louisville Stock exchange, and St. Louis Stock exchange.

All investigative work in this region will be conducted by the Chicago office. It also will provide information locally and, in general, have the functions of any branch office. Policies, of course, will remain centered with the commission in Washington. The Chicago office is the second of several to be established in various parts of the country. The first branch was set up at New York early in the year.

CHINA BUYING SILVER IN WORLD METAL MARKETS

SHANGHAI, China, Feb. 19.—(AP)—China has entered the world silver market as a purchaser in competition with the United States in an effort to alleviate the silver scarcity, it was learned today.

Chang Peishen, one of the three members of the foreign exchange stabilization committee, announced the national government had purchased silver in the London market to the value of about $1,080,000.

Chang said the London purchase was made necessary by a recent silver price increase at Hong Kong.

DOLLAR RESUMES RISE AGAINST GOLD BLOC MONEYS AND STERLING

New York, Feb. 19.—[Special.]—With the removal of the gold clause uncertainty the American dollar resumed its rise in the foreign exchange markets today as European currencies sank further against the dollar. This rally began late yesterday after gold bloc currencies had soared to or above their parities with the dollar.

French francs fell 1⅞ points to 6.61⅞ cents with the dollar worth $1.0022 against francs, compared with 99.94 at the close yesterday. The gold value of the dollar against francs was 59.19 cents, compared with 59.03 yesterday and par of 59.06.

Belgas dropped 7 points to 23.42 cents, Swiss francs 10 points to 32.48 cents, and Holland guilders 67.83 cents. These four gold bloc currencies were all below par, but continued well above their gold import points.

Sterling, which ran up to $4.90 in yesterday's excitement and then eased off to $4.89⅜, fell off ⅝ cent today to close at $4.88¾. Scandinavian currencies were off 3 to 4 points, and German marks were down 10 points at 40¼ cents. Italian lire were 5 points softer at 8.47 cents. Canadian dollars alone of the leading currencies showed an increase against the dollar, rising 3⅛ points to 99.96⅞ cents.

DR. LICHTENSTEIN RETAINS RESERVE ADVISORY POST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Dr. Walter Lichtenstein, vice president of the First National bank of Chicago, was reappointed secretary of the federal reserve advisory council today. The council also reëlected its sitting officers, Walter W. Smith of St. Louis, president, and Howard A. Loeb of Philadelphia, vice president. These men, together with Dr. Lichtenstein, have directed the council for years.

Rumors of a shakeup in the council's high command because of its recent disagreements with the federal reserve board over New Deal policies failed to materialize. The council is not subject to direct government pressure in its organization or makeup.

Recently the council clashed directly with the reserve board, demanding that the federal budget be balanced, that monetary experimentation be dropped, and that the dollar be stabilized internationally. Its action in thus speaking its mind brought it a sharp reprimand from Governor Marriner S. Eccles, New Deal head of the reserve board.

The other members of the council, which is to advise the reserve board on financial questions, are: Thomas M. Steele, New Haven, Conn.; James H. Perkins, New York; Arthur E. Braun, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Charles M. Gohen, Huntington, W. Va.; H. Lane Young, Atlanta, Ga.; Solomon A. Smith, Chicago; Theodore Wold, Minneapolis, Minn.; W. T. Kemper, Kansas City, Mo.; Joseph H. Frost, San Antonio, Tex., and M. A. Arnold, Seattle, Wash.

Start Receiver Hearing for Produce District

Hearings on the petition asking a receiver for the Chicago Produce district began yesterday before Superior Court Judge Joseph Sabath. The action was brought by a small bondholder who alleges that trustees' fees have been excessive. Arguments heard yesterday were much the same as those set forth in the original petition and answer. The hearings will be resumed this morning. The district is currently operating at a profit.

NATION'S RETAIL SALES INCREASE 14% DURING 1934

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Retail sales over the nation in 1934 increased $3,511,000,000, or 14 per cent over 1933, C. T. Murchison, director of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, reported today. Last year's sales amounted to $28,548,000,000, compared with $25,037,000,000 in 1933.

Each kind of business substantially increased its volume. Catalog sales of mail order houses ranked first with a 25 per cent increase; the automotive group was second with a 22 per cent increase. Restaurants, apparel stores, farmers' supply and country general stores, and furniture and household stores were next, with an increase of 18 per cent each.

Lowest increases were in the food group, with 7 per cent, and variety stores with 9 per cent.

The 18 per cent increase in restaurant sales in 1934 was credited by the bureau largely to prohibition repeal.

STOCKHOLDERS OF WILSON VOTE FOR NEW SETUP

Less than 1 Per Cent Are Against Plan.

Wilson & Co., world's third largest meat packer, yesterday was recapitalized for the second time in ten years with scarcely a ripple of opposition from stockholders who voted the plan through because of the prospects of early dividends for all classes of investors. The plan becomes operative Feb. 23. It is expected new shares will be eligible for trading on the New York Stock exchange by Feb. 25.

Less than one per cent of each of the three classes of present stockholders voted against the plan. Opposition by holders of class A stock failed to materialize, although several small holders voiced objections or asked that adoption of the plan be deferred.

Vote Heavily for Plan.

Whereas only a bare majority of each stock group was required to make the plan binding on all, the least favorable vote was 66 per cent approval by all the A shareholders. Of 313,235 outstanding, 206,712 voted for the plan and only 1,512 were opposed. Seventy-two per cent, or 163,266 of the 227,248 preferred shareholders, voted yes, while only 1,485 voted no. The 434,983 shares of common stock showed 316,608, or 73 per cent, favorable and only 133 opposed.

The plan provides that each share of present 7 per cent preferred stock shall be exchanged for 1.4292 shares of new 6 per cent preferred stock. The bonus is in settlement of unpaid accumulated dividends of $26.25 a share and in consideration of the reduction in dividend rate. It was pointed out that dividends in the new stock will be the equivalent of $8.57 on each present share.

The A stockholders give up their preferred position and $5 annual cumulative dividend in exchange for five shares of new common for each present A share. The conversion also

Gold Ruling Leaves Business Much Where It Was Before

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The "gold clause" decision has come and gone leaving business and the markets pretty much where they were before the hopes and the fears of the populace were first aroused by the sharp questioning of government witnesses by the Supreme court justices.

Before the beginning of testimony before the Supreme court in the "gold clause" cases, business and financial men had pretty generally resigned themselves to a decision endorsing the New Deal monetary juggling because, as one commentator put it, the egg having been scrambled there was no way to unscramble it.

Then came the hearings in the course of which various members of the court questioned Attorney General Cummings and his cohorts so closely that it was made plain the government was arguing its case solely on the basis of expediency.

* *

Suddenly many people, notably the advocates of sound money—the anti-inflationists—began to entertain hopes that the decision would be adverse to the government and that, if such were the case, in order that the government and private corporations might escape the impossible burden of being forced to pay about 69 billions of dollars in premiums to holders of gold bonds the administration might have to restore the dollar to its former value.

This, it was firmly believed by many financial experts, would restore the confidence of investors and revive the dormant market for bonds, thereby making it possible to finance the heavy industries and gradually restore prosperity along orthodox lines. They believed it would revive faith in the sanctity of contracts and force a tapering off of government deficits.

* *

These things, however, were not to be. Nine men weighed the evidence and the testimony. Five decided that, although the government owes its creditors a premium there isn't anything they can do about it but whistle. And they held, furthermore, that in the case of private bonds containing the "gold clause" congress had the right to abrogate these private contracts.

And so the situation is approximately what it was before the taking of the testimony began.

In itself the decision of the Supreme court doesn't lead in inflation by the hand. It simply removes a possible detour in the path of inflation which the administration has charted for itself. Before the decision was announced it had been made clear by administration spokesmen that even in the event of an adverse decision the charted route would be followed, if necessary by an amendment to the constitution.

The hopes of those who figured that an adverse decision might force the administration to back in its tracks were thus dashed even before the decision was announced.

While public attention has been focused upon the dramatic gold clause cases a program has been quietly laid out in Washington which contains inflationary possibilities that make the reduction of the gold content of the dollar look pale by comparison.

The proposed new banking bill, which provides for making over the twelve federal reserve banks into what would to all intents and purposes be a government controled central banking system, has much greater inflation significance than the decision of the Supreme court in the "gold clause" cases.

* *

Under this bill the commercial banks throughout the country would be permitted to invest in types of slow loans and investments now denied them. For one thing, they would be permitted to invest in 20 year real estate loans up to 75 per cent of property valuations. And with the government already owning one-fourth of the bank capital of the nation and possessing other means of forcing the banks to do its bidding such "permission" would be equivalent to an order.

Other provisions of the proposed bill would make it possible for the federal reserve banks to discount this slow paper and then use it as backing for the issuance of paper money.

* *

Most important, however, is the provision of the bill which would render the federal reserve banks, with their new and vast powers to issue money, virtually helpless to resist the demands of the treasury to absorb its bonds. There would be no brake or check on the power of the government to force the reserve banks to buy increasing amounts of government bonds.

Thus the credit of the government would, for a time, seem to be inexhaustible and political schemes to spend money to get votes would be encouraged. In the meantime, with bank credit artificially expanding and government debt growing the basis for a vast inflation would be laid, the explosion to come later when the realization should finally dawn on the public that such a basis existed. Such an explosion, in all probability, would be carefully guarded against until after the general elections in the fall of 1936.

WHEELER SEEKS TAX ON BIGNESS OF BUSINESSES

Levy Would Increase with Income.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Senator Burton K. Wheeler [Dem., Mont.], a silver inflationist and a member of the La Follette school of political thought, today introduced in the senate a bill which he called "a new departure in legislation." It is a bill for a tax on "bigness."

The measure would levy a graduated tax on all net corporation incomes in excess of 3 million dollars. The tax would begin at 2 per cent on the net capital return above 3 million dollars and would range up to 25 per cent on any portion above 50 million dollars. Certain classes of corporations which already are subject to regulation, such as telephone and telegraph companies, railroads, shipping, banks, and insurance companies, would be exempted.

Seeks to Discourage "Bigness."

"This bill presents a new departure in legislation," said Senator Wheeler on the floor of the senate, "in that it is based upon the belief that there are certain social and economic evils in size itself. Since I do not believe in the assertion of the trust advocates that there is a necessary correlation between size and efficiency, in my view this bill, frankly, is rather an attempt to discourage the concentration of economic power in the hands of a few.

"The history of this country has shown that such concentration of power is inherent under any system which permits large aggregations of capital in corporations. It is common knowledge that the growth of large corporations has proceeded apace and is going on rapidly at the present time in spite of all attempts to bolster up the traditional competitive system by outlawing monopolies."

Wheeler Rakes Corporations.

With Senator La Follette [Rad., Wis.] as his only listener on the floor, Senator Wheeler went on for more than an hour assailing corpora-

STOCKS DECLINE AS GOLD DECREE LOSES ITS GLOW

Third of Monday Rise Lost —Trading Quieter.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 19.—Having chewed the cud of reflection overnight, speculative Wall street concluded today that the gold case decision was not half as "bullish" as it had at first appeared and the pendulum swung once more to the selling side of the stock market.

Liquidation went on pretty steadily throughout the list after the first half hour or so and the final gong found something like a third of the gains run up in yesterday afternoon's spectacular burst of buying activity wiped out. Trading favorites finished 1 to 2 points lower and in a scattering of lesser market lights the declines were somewhat more pronounced. American Sugar, Inland Steel, Central Railroad of New Jersey, and a few others gave up about 3 points each.

Trading Quiets Down.

Trading quieted down after the first rush of overnight orders had been executed and during most of the afternoon the market idled along in what has come to be its custom. Sales volume amounted to around 1,100,000 shares of which about 380,000, or nearly one-third of the whole, were recorded in the first hour.

Brokers thought a proportion of the sales might be attributed to profit-taking by traders who had ridden the rise to its crest yesterday. However, the bulk of them was believed to have been inspired by disappointment over the gold decision and some revived considerations regarding the many serious hurdles yet lying ahead of the market, uncertainties as to what might come out of congress in the weeks ahead, the general position of world trade and the strength of natural forces making for recovery in this country. The fate of the NRA and especially of its labor relations resumed its old place as a market equation.

Mines Get a Little Support.

Some further buying came into the mining group, but it gradually gave way with the rest of the list, and such issues as U. S. Smelting, Howe Sound, McIntyre, American Smelting, Cerro de Pasco and Dome Mines finished a point or so lower.

Standard industrial leaders such as American Can, du Pont, U. S. Steel, and Westinghouse dropped about a point each.

The utilities drifted lower under sharply curtailed dealings and the rails had their troubles along with the rest.

The oils had a little extra sorry appearance on the score of further unsettlement of the price structure but dealings in the group were light and losses consequently fractional.

New York Traction shares were a conspicuous exception to the general downward trend, moving higher as the session progressed on expectations of an announcement during the afternoon on a purported agreement for unification of the lines. Interborough Rapid Transit and Manhattan Elevated rose about 2 points each and Brooklyn Manhattan improved about 1⅜ points.

BILL TO ABOLISH UTILITY HOLDING FIRMS DEBATED

Leaders of Industry Flail Federal Proposals.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—The house interstate commerce committee today began consideration of an omnibus measure to eliminate holding companies from the public utility field and bring gas and electric operating companies under strict federal regulation. Neither proposal has the expressed support of the administration, although the latter measure is an attempt to carry out President Roosevelt's wishes.

It is the intention of Chairman Rayburn to submit legislation that would at least withdraw their present tax immunity. An exception to this is expected to be adopted by the committee to carry out a suggestion made by an interstate commerce commissioner, Walter M. W. Splawn, that tax exemption be allowed in the case of issuance of new securities in exchange for those now outstanding as an inducement to the integration of operating companies along more regional and economic lines.

Assails Holding Committee.

In a letter to the committee Dr. Splawn said:

"The holding company should be eliminated from the power and gas industries with the possible exception of [1] the temporary use of a holding company in order to bring into existence an operating company serving a number of contiguous communities; [2] the possible use of a single holding company which itself may also be an operating company in order to tie together in harmony with state laws operations in a limited region which may be divided by a state line.

"The disintegration of the objectionable and unwieldy so-called 'holding company systems' should be encouraged by exempting from taxation the issuance of exchange of securities incident to an equitable redistribution of equities among the security holders of existing corporations."

Utility Leader Protests.

Dr. Splawn's testimony was sharply criticized later in the day by Bernard F. Weadock, vice president of the Edison Electric institute.

"Instead of proving the necessity for this bill, Dr. Splawn's testimony actually supports the position of the public utility industry—namely, that if any further legislation is necessary it should be corrective and not destructive," he said.

"If Dr. Splawn's recommendation to the committee that exchanges of securities to bring about further simplification be made tax exempt had been in effect the desired simplification would have been brought about long ago.

"It is regrettable that the industry should be subjected for years to one of the most insidious political attacks which any American industry has ever been called upon to face."

MAGILL ASSAILS BILLS

Charges of class legislation in bills introduced into both houses of congress would destroy all public utility holding companies within the next five years were made last night by Dr. Hugh S. Magill, president of the American Federation of Utility Investors, in a radio address. The bills discriminate between utility holding companies and other holding companies, he said.

"We do not believe that it is within the power of congress to destroy these great financial structures upon which millions of thrifty American citizens depend for their support," he said. "President Roosevelt stated in his message to congress on Jan. 4 that the evils of utility holding companies should be abolished. The millions of investors in the securities of utility holding companies heartily endorse this statement and will coöperate in the complete elimination of whatever abuses may remain in the utility industry."

NEW BANK MAY OPEN IN GARFIELD PARK QUARTERS

BY AL CHASE.

Purchase of the eight story bank and office building at 4010 West Madison street yesterday for an indicated $650,000 disclosed organization plans under way for a new bank to occupy the quarters once used by the Garfield Park State bank.

Title was conveyed by the Garfield Park Safe Deposit company, through John E. Sullivan, president, and Martin L. Massman, secretary, to William J. Nealon, attorney. The latter, it is understood, represents a large estate.

The building was erected eight years ago from plans by D. H. Burnham & Co., at a reported cost of $800,000. It contains banking space totaling 13,000 square feet and a vault with 6,000 square feet. This space is being negotiated for by a new banking group.

The office section of the building, it was stated, is now 90 per cent rented.

U. S. GYPSUM CO. REPORTS UPTURN IN 1934 INCOME

The United States Gypsum company and subsidiaries, largest manufacturers of gypsum building products, had a substantial increase in consolidated net income during 1934, according to annual statements released yesterday.

Net income for the year ended Dec. 31, 1934, amounted to $2,155,369, equivalent to $1.35 a share on the common stock outstanding after providing for dividends on the 7 per cent preferred stock. This compares with net of $1,738,927, or $1 a share, in the preceding year.

Net operating income for the year totaled $3,766,771, against $3,202,885 in 1933. Consolidated surplus at the end of 1934 was $19,705,971, compared with $19,585,811 on Dec. 31, 1933.

Current assets on Dec. 31 amounted to $20,140,714, including cash of $8,156,523 and government securities of $4,899,027, against current liabilities of $1,297,888. At the end of the preceding year current assets amounted to $19,672,122, including cash of $1,464,891 and government securities of $10,824,655, against current liabilities of $1,360,020.

WHEELER SEEKS TAX ON BIGNESS OF BUSINESSES

Wheeler said there 300,000 corporations in the United States in 1930 with gross assets of 165 billion dollars. Of these 200 corporations controled assets of more than 81 billion dollars, he said.

"These corporations, representing less than 1-7 of 1 per cent of the total number," he declared, "thus control practically half the total corporate wealth of the country. Since 78 per cent of the business wealth is in the form of corporate wealth, these 200 corporations control over 38 per cent of the business wealth.

"Foes Called Radical."

"Since the total national wealth in 1930 was estimated at 367 billion dollars, these 200 corporations control approximately 22 per cent of the total national wealth.

"Every one who seeks to curb this monopolistic tendency on the part of business is today branded as a socialist, a radical, or a communist, but I submit that all the evils which are charged to socialism and even communism are inherent in these great institutions."

Although not designed exclusively for the purpose, the Wheeler bill is a direct attack against utility holding companies in line with the measure before the house interstate commerce committee to eliminate holding companies from the public utility field.

HOGS HIT HIGHEST MARK IN 4½ YEARS AS RUN DWINDLES

Starvation hog receipts and reports that cold storage holdings of pork are dwindling rapidly sent prices to new highs yesterday. Top values advanced 20 cents to $11.20, processing tax included, the highest mark since September, 1930, and the average for the day reached $11 for the first time in 53 months.

Only 32,400 hogs arrived at Chicago the first two days of this week, a decrease of 28 per cent from the meager receipts Monday and Tuesday last week. Eleven leading markets handled only 48,000 head yesterday, against 55,000 the previous Tuesday and 106,000 a year ago.

Although prices in this country are not yet high enough to bring any sizable imports from Canada, reports appeared that New York is receiving various cuts of pork from over the border despite the duty of $2.50 to $3.25 per hundred pounds.

A light run yesterday checked a break in prices, but trade was slow. The top sale at $13.50 and the bulk of the day's crop sold at $8 to $12. Sellers attempted to recover some of Monday's loss, but buyers resisted higher costs of live cattle on the grounds that consumers are not taking beef as readily at current prices as they were at lower rates prevailing a few weeks ago.

Sellers managed to halt the break in lambs, but any strength met resistance from the buying side. City butcher and shippers paid up to $8.75.

COAST GRAIN CO-OP TO SUE FARMERS NATL.

Spokane, Wash., Feb. 19.—North Pacific Grain Growers, Inc., regional cooperative marketing association, by vote of members today decided to file a counter suit for $875,000 against the Farmers' National Grain corporation of Chicago. The Spokane coöperative was recently sued in Portland for $250,000 by Farmers' National for alleged violation of contract.

Under a ten year contract entered into in 1931 North Pacific was to receive a half cent a bushel for all wheat handled by Farmers' National for the regional members.

North Pacific suspended the contract prior to filing suit and asserted that the Chicago Board of Trade had forbidden Farmers' National from making such payments to the regional on the grounds that they constituted rebates. A complete separation from Farmers' National is desired, directors of the regional association said.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

The following figures on hog prices include $2.25 per hundredweight collected by the federal government as processing tax. There is no processing tax on cattle or sheep. The price quotations given below are per 100 pounds of live animal.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL—Bleachable values reacted today after a further show of firmness in the early trading. Final prices were 1 point lower to 5 points net higher. Business was smaller than the day previous, amounting to 105 contracts, about half of which centered in the July position.

The action of the market indicated an overbought situation resulting from excitement the day before following the sold clause decision. Crude oil was strong, selling at new highs at 10½c at all southern points, while an advance was made in tallow, greases, and such by-products. Bleachable, spot, nominal; March closed at 11.71c per lb; May, 11.78c; July, 11.85c; September, 11.95c.

GRAINS WEAKEN; GOLD DECISION IMPETUS FADES

Trading Quiet Following Market Reopening.

— BY THOMAS FURLONG.

All grain declined on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday as normal business was resumed following the temporary suspension on Monday. Trading was quiet. Other markets which had stayed open during the reading of the gold decision had taken the edge off the first wave of speculative exuberance which followed the court's approval of the government's monetary innovations.

The broad upturn in prices which had been predicted on all sides if the government was sustained failed signally to materialize in the grain market. The declines recorded in the principal grains were moderate. Wheat lost up to a half cent a bushel, with the May future closing the day at 98⅝ cents. The May corn contract dropped 1⅝ cents a bushel and other deliveries closed with smaller losses. Oats and rye were ¾ to 1¼ cents to a bushel lower.

Traders Agog; Little Happens.

Trading opened at 9:30 a. m. in an atmosphere of suspense. Traders were at their positions in the pits earlier than usual, all waiting to see if the predicted fireworks would develop. The visitors' gallery was crammed with onlookers. Brokers anxiously perused the cables on foreign markets and the New York stock ticker for a clew as to the probable market trend.

When the big bell signaled the opening of business there was frantic gesticulating and shouting in the pit. Then the first price on wheat was chalked up. It was a quarter cent a bushel below Monday's final quotation. From that moment on trading resembled that of any other day except that the traders and onlookers were chagrined because the expected rise failed to materialize.

Speculators and Public Wary.

The cause of the weak prices was not hard to discover. Neither the professional speculator nor the public at large was willing to rush in and buy blindly, as they might have done if the market had been open all day Monday. With time to think it over the potential buyers apparently decided to wait for the market to strike its course before jumping aboard.

In the cash grain market the same situation prevailed. It was one of the dullest days in a long time for cash grains. The big commercial users of grain were not in the market. They, too, along with the speculators, were waiting. Not a bushel of corn was reported sold by shippers and only 25,000 bushels of wheat were sold.

Prices in the cash grain market sagged in sympathy with futures. The closing prices on the May futures were:

	Yesterday.	Monday.	*Week ago (Feb. 11)
Wheat	.98⅜	.98¼	.96¼
Corn	.87⅜	.89	.84
Oats	.52⅜	.53⅛	.50
Rye	.66¼	.67¼	.63¾

Wheat prices in the principal foreign markets rose slightly yesterday, but there was no indication that the Supreme court's decision was a factor. The current price level of grains in this country is at a point where any material advance would bring in a flood of foreign grains.

HELP WANTED—MEN.

A BUSINESS PROPOSAL.

If you live on the North Side, I have something to talk over with you here—provided you have business sense. By that, I mean that I am interested in a man who has been in business four or five years or whose association with business or in the highest type trades gave him an industrial sense of the fitness of things. Two types of men who qualify in this manner are held back today from getting into business for themselves: one reason is their lack of capital, and the other is their fear of what might happen if they risked their capital. What might wipe out a little fellow," would be only an incident in the affairs of a great international corporation. For example, this advertisement costs a good deal of money. We could attract many more men, in numbers, by using less space, but we are not interested in numbers. We are concerned with the RIGHT men—men who have the business acumen we wish, character and dependability. We want men over 25 and under 42. Character begins at 25 and initiative is likely to end around 40!

We have a few trade territories that we are reserving for the right men. The man selected puts in no money, but we must invest in him. In the next ten years, we expect to put into that man's hands, in regular and growing commission checks, not less than $38,000 and likely well over $50,000. Against this he will charge no overhead—need no clerk hire, or advertising. He will not make as much at the start as he does when he learns this business. But we are confident that he will do as well as we have intimated in this outstanding electrical service, manufacturing business—because we have men who will do very much better.

In talking it over, we must have from an hour and a half to two hours, because a big, profitable idea cannot be waved into any man's brain in a few fleeting minutes. We are serious enough to give our time and are interested only in those serious enough to invest their time in this interview. Therefore, we invite you, under these conditions, to call at Suite 215-226, 1046 Wilson-av., at 2:15 p. m. sharp, slightly earlier is better, Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 20.

WANTED—YOUNG MAN WITH strong practical knowledge, preferably technically trained for position of inspection and instruction in factories. Enough sales experience or inherent sales ability to influence factories to work with you. Small salary to start. Give full particulars of education, experience and accomplishments. Useless to write unless you have definite qualifications specified. Address B G 223, Tribune.

IF YOU NEED WORK

We have made places in our organization for 15 men, and we are particularly anxious to talk to those who have had some connection with the building or allied trades and who can readily grasp the operation of an electrical unit. The immediate opportunity is in the sales and promotion department with a percentage and bonus that will make a very livable income for the right men. Apply ready to give references and go to work today. See Mr. Pope in Room 618.
203 N. WABASH-AV.

OPPORTUNITY FOR SEVERAL YOUNG men to travel southern and eastern states and learn circulation salesmanship. Must have high school education; ages 18-23; steady employment and good salary. Bonus; transp. while learning and promotions. A. D. Brewer, Sheridan Plaza Hotel, Wilson and Sheridan-rd., after 4 p. m.
